LUKE

"THE AUTHORITY OF THE SON OF MAN"

A 1 THE AUTHORITY OF THE SON OF MAN IN HIS BACKGROUND 1:1 - 4:13

- B 1 Luke's Authoritative Research for His Gospel 1:1-4
  - C 1 The number of accounts: {1} In as much as many have undertaken to compile an account of the things accomplished among us, 1:1
  - C 2 The nature of the accounts from eyewitnesses: {2} just as they were handed down to us by those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses <sup>1</sup> and servants of the word, 1:2
  - C 3 The careful research of Luke: {3} it seemed fitting for me as well, having investigated everything carefully from the beginning, <sup>2</sup> 1:3a
  - C 4 The thorough method of Luke: to write it out for you in consecutive order, 1:3b
  - C 5 The recipient of Luke's correspondence: most excellent Theophilus; 1:3c
  - C 6 The purpose of Luke: {4} so that you may know the exact truth about the things you have been taught. 1:4
- B 2 The Births and Boyhoods of Jesus and John: The angelically superintended and prophetically announced beginnings of the Messiah and His "Way-Preparer" 1:5-2:52
  - C 1 The announcement of John's birth to Zacharias 1:5-25
    - D 1 The childless condition of Zacharias and Elizabeth 1:5-7
      - E 1 The date: {5} In the days of Herod, king of Judea, 1:5a
      - E 2 The priest and his wife: there was a priest named

&lt;sup>2</sup> Luke 1:3 - having investigated everything carefully from the beginning: It is obvious that Luke, a physician by trade (Col. 4:14), was also a meticulous historian, an extremely capable researcher. Though Luke did not identify himself by name, early church history identified him as the author. Conservative scholars wisely follow the lead of the early church, making an excellent case that Luke is the author of both the Gospel of Luke and the historical narrative of the book of Acts. (See the similar wording of Luke 1:1-4 and Acts 1:1-3.) Luke was an educated man, and he frequently used vocabulary found rarely or never in the writings of other NT authors.

- Zacharias, of the division of Abijah; and he had a wife from the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth. 1:5b
- E 3 The character of the couple: {6} They were both righteous in the sight of God, walking blamelessly in all the commandments and requirements of the Lord. 3 1:6
- E 4 The problem of the couple: {7} But they had no child, 1:7
  - G 1 because Elizabeth was barren,
  - G 2 and they were both advanced in years.
- D 2 An angel's prediction to Zacharias regarding his son 1:8-17
  - E 1 His turning many in Israel back to God 1:8-16
    - G 1 The circumstances surrounding an angel's appearance to Zacharias 1:8-10
      - H 1 The priestly activity of Zacharias: {8} Now it happened that while he was performing his priestly service before God 1:8a
      - H 2 The "random" assignment of Zacharias 1:8b-9b
        - J 1 in the appointed order of his division, 1:8b
        - J 2 {9} according to the custom of the priestly office, 1:9a
        - J 3 he was chosen by lot 1:9b
      - H 3 The activity of Zacharias: to enter the temple of the Lord and burn incense. 1:9c
      - H 4 The activity of the worshipers: {10} And the whole multitude of the people were in prayer outside at the hour of the incense offering. 1:10

- G 2 The description of the angel's appearance to Zacharias 1:11-12
  - H 1 The place of his appearance: {11} And an angel of the Lord <sup>4</sup> appeared to him, standing to the right of the altar of incense. 1:11
  - H 2 Zacharias' troubled reaction: {12} Zacharias was troubled when he saw the angel, and fear gripped him. 1:12
- G 3 The angel's message to Zacharias 1:13-16
  - H 1 Comfort given 1:13a
    - J 1 Fear not: {13} But the angel said to him, "Do not be afraid, Zacharias,
    - J 2 The petition you have made has been heard: for your petition <sup>5</sup> has been heard,
  - H 2 Son announced 1:13b-14
    - J 1 You will have a son: and your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you will give him the name John.

      1:13b
    - J 2 This will be a cause for joy: {14}
      "You will have joy and gladness, and many will rejoice at his birth. 1:14
  - H 3 Ministry summarized 1:15-16
    - J 1 His significance: {15} "For he will be great in the sight of the Lord; 1:15a
    - J 2 His separation: and he will drink no wine or liquor, 1:15b

&lt;sup>5</sup> Luke 1:13 - your petition: Both "your" and "petition" are singular. God heard Zacharias' prayer.

- J 3 His spirituality: and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit while yet in his mother's womb. 1:15c
- J 4 His service of restoration: {16}

  "And he will turn many of the sons of Israel back to the Lord their God.

  1:16
- E 2 His serving as way-preparer for the Lord 1:17
  - G 1 His "setting of the stage:" {17} "It is he who will go as a forerunner before Him
  - G 2 His style: in the spirit and power of Elijah,
  - G 3 His focus
    - H 1 TO TURN THE HEARTS OF THE FATHERS BACK TO THE CHILDREN,6
    - H 2 and the disobedient to the attitude of the righteous,
  - G 4 His purpose: so as to make ready a people prepared for the Lord."
- D 3 Gabriel's silencing of Zacharias for unbelief 1:18-23
  - E 1 The misgivings of Zacharias 1:18
    - G 1 His request for spiritual knowledge: {18} Zacharias said to the angel, "How will I know this for certain?<sup>7</sup>

I believe the near fulfillment of this prophecy was the appearance of John the Immerser to Israel prior to the baptism and ministry of Jesus. I believe the more remote fulfillment of this prophecy will be the arrival of the two witnesses who prophesy somewhere in the vicinity of the rebuilt Jewish Temple, probably during the first part of the 70th week of Daniel's prophecy (Dan. 9:24-27; Rev. 11:1-6). Based on this prophecy of Gabriel, I believe the identity of one of the two witnesses is the prophet Elijah. I believe this future ministry of Elijah will, indeed, restore the hearts of the fathers to their children and the hearts of the children to their fathers. A great many in Israel will repent tearfully of their horrible sin of having assassinated their Messiah (Zech. 12:10-13:1). 144,000 witnesses, moreover, from the twelve tribes of Israel, will be militant and successful evangelists (Rev. 7:1-8). Their evangelistic ministry will result in the salvation and subsequent martyrdom of untold millions of people (Rev. 7:9-17).

&lt;sup>7</sup> Luke 1:18 - how will I know this for certain: Zacharias' question reflects his doubt. He didn't really believe Gabriel was giving him accurate information because of his and Elizabeth's advanced age and Elizabeth's barrenness. In reality, he was asking for a sign. The angel certainly gave him a sign! He would be mute, unable to speak, for over nine months – until the prophesied baby was born!! That was more of a sign than Zacharias had bargained for!

- G 2 Their condition as a couple: For I am an old man and my wife is advanced in years."
- E 2 The indignation of Gabriel 1:19
  - G 1 His position before God: {19} The angel answered and said to him, "I am Gabriel, 8 who stands in the presence of God, 9
  - G 2 His errand of good news: and I have been sent to speak to you and to bring you this good news. (lit., "to good-newsicize to you these things.")
- E 3 The judgment from Gabriel 1:20
  - G 1 Zacharias' silence: {20} "And behold, you shall be silent and unable to speak <sup>10</sup> until the day when these things take place,
  - G 2 Because of Zacharias' failure to believe: because you did not believe my words, 11
  - G 3 The certainty of Gabriel's prediction: which will be fulfilled in their proper time."
- E 4 The resultant publicizing of the vision 1:21-22
  - G 1 The peoples' wonderment at Zacharias delay: {21} And the people were waiting for Zacharias, and were wondering at his delay in the temple. 1:21
  - G 2 Zacharias' speech loss: {22} But when he came out, he was unable to speak to them; 1:22a
  - G 3 Their realization: and they realized that he had seen

&lt;sup>8</sup> Luke 1:19 - I am Gabriel: Gabriel's name, Gabriêl (1043), meaning "Man of God." It appears only twice in the NT. This is the first time, appearing as he does to Zacharias. The second, and last time, is when Luke identified him as appearing to Mary (Luke 1:26). Elsewhere, this messenger, assuming he is the same, appeared to the statesman Daniel in Daniel 8:16; 9:21.

&lt;sup>9</sup> Luke 1:19 - who stands in the presence of God: This was a put-down of Zacharias. Gabriel stands in God's presence! Doesn't Zacharias think he can give an accurate accounting of what God has said? Gabriel perceived that Zacharias didn't really believe him!

&lt;sup>10</sup> Luke 1:20 - silent and unable to speak: In a round-about way, Zacharias was asking for a sign because he didn't really believe Gabriel. So Gabriel gave him far more of a sign than Zacharias had bargained for! He would be mute – unable to speak – until the time came when this message from God was fulfilled! That would be at least nine months from this conversation!

&lt;sup>11</sup> Luke 1:20 - because you did not believe my words: Gabriel could easily tell that Zacharias didn't believe him! The prediction that Gabriel made about Zacharias' being unable to speak was both a sign and a judgment!

- a vision in the temple; and he kept making signs to them, and remained mute. 1:22b
- E 5 Zacharias' return home: {23} When the days of his priestly service were ended, he went back home. 1:23
- D 4 Elizabeth's five-month seclusion during pregnancy 1:24-25
  - E 1 Elizabeth's conception: {24} After these days Elizabeth his wife became pregnant, and she kept herself in seclusion for five months, saying, 1:24
  - E 2 Elizabeth's gratitude: {25} "This is the way the Lord has dealt with me in the days when He looked with favor upon me, to take away my disgrace among men." 1:25
- C 2 The announcement of Jesus' birth to Mary 1:26-56
  - D 1 Gabriel's promise to Mary of her Divine Son's eternal rule from David's throne 1:26-33
    - E 1 The introduction to the message 1:26-27
      - G 1 The time: {26} Now in the sixth month <sup>12</sup> 1:26a
      - G 2 The messenger: the angel Gabriel <sup>13</sup> was sent from God 1:26b
      - G 3 The place: to a city in Galilee called Nazareth, 1:26c
      - G 4 The recipient: 1:27
        - H 1 Her marital status: {27} to a virgin engaged to a man
          - J 1 His name: whose name was Joseph,
          - J 2 His royal ancestry: of the descendants of David;
        - H 2 Her name: and the virgin's name was

<sup>13</sup> Luke 1:26 - Gabriel: How was he thus identified? Nowhere in the narrative does he identify himself as Gabriel to Mary, but Luke so identifies him. How did Luke know? Apparently he had information from a reliable source (see Luke 1:1-4). Gabriel's name, Gabriêl (1043), "man of God," appears only twice in the NT – in Luke 1:19, appearing to Zacharias, and in Luke 1:26, appearing to Mary.

Mary.14

- E 2 The substance of the message: 1:28-32
  - G 1 His favorable greeting: {28} And coming in, he said to her, "Greetings, 15 1:28
    - H 1 Her having been highly favored in the past: favored one! 16
    - H 2 The presence of God with her: The Lord is with you."
  - G 2 Her agitated perplexity: 1:29
    - H 1 Her great agitation: {29} But she was very perplexed at this statement, <sup>17</sup>
    - H 2 Her perplexity: and kept pondering <sup>18</sup> what kind of salutation this was.
  - G 3 The angel's reassurance 1:30
    - H 1 His calming her fear: {30} The angel said to

<sup>15</sup> Luke 1:28 - Greetings: In my opinion this is a miserable translation of the Greek text. It is a verbal command, not an interjection. The verb is the present tense imperative of chairō (5463) – literally, "Be rejoicing!" The euphony of the messenger's first two words is missing in English. In Greek it is more evident (in the root words) – chairō charitóō (5487). In English, "Be rejoicing, (you) having been favored!" Gabriel followed up with the fact that Mary had found favor (charis, 5485) with God (Luke 1:30).

messenger said, "Grace! O you who have been graced!" Or "Favor! O you who have been favored!"

The Roman Catholic Church derives the first sentence of "Hail Mary" used in the Rosary from this verse.

However, "Hail Mary" transforms a revelatory address to Mary by Gabriel into a supplicatory prayer to Mary the Mediatrix. In that sense, though the words are Biblical, the usage of those words in a prayer to Mary is unbiblical and unwarranted. There are no instances in Scripture of prayer to Mary.

Here is an off-site text of "The Hail Mary." For a brief on-site discussion of Roman Catholicism's unbiblical elevation of Mary, see "What the Roman Catholic Church Believes about Mary."

<sup>17</sup> Luke 1:29 - very perplexed: the 3rd Singular Aorist Passive Indicative of the verb diatarásso (1298) – used only here in the entire NT. It is an intensified form of tarasso (5015), used of Zacharias in Luke 1:12 when Gabriel appeared to him. If Zacharias was "troubled," Mary was greatly troubled! "Extremely agitated" would be a better translation!

&lt;sup>18</sup> Luke 1:29 - pondering: dialogizomai (1260) - to consider carefully. The imperfect tense indicates she was continually reflecting on this unexpected greeting by this unexpected visitor who was causing her severe agitation!

- her, "Do not be afraid, 19
- H 2 His naming her: Mary;
- H 3 His specifying Divine favor toward her: for you have found favor <sup>20</sup> with God.
- G 4 The angel's prediction 1:31-33
  - H 1 Her conception: {31} "And behold, you will conceive in your womb 1:31a
  - H 2 Her delivery of a son: and bear a son, 1:31b
  - H 3 The baby's name: and you shall name Him Jesus. 1:31c
  - H 4 Of the destiny of her son 1:32-33
    - J 1 His greatness: {32} "He will be great <sup>21</sup> 1:32a
    - J 2 His Divinity: and will be called the Son of the Most High; <sup>22</sup> 1:32b
    - J 3 His royalty: and the Lord God will give Him the throne of His father

&quot;favor" is the Accusative Feminine Singular of the noun cháris (5485), "grace, favor" (excerpted from Accordance). Favor, in this instance, is a kindly, benevolent attitude that God exhibited toward Mary in choosing her to become the mother of the Messiah. Luke uses the word cháris in a variety of ways in his treatise: Luke 1:30; 2:40, 52; 4:22; 6:32, 33, 34; 17:9. As the messenger said, at a point in time (aorist tense) she found grace, but in reality the initiative was wholly God's. She was the object of God's grace, and thus, she found it. She did not go looking for the messenger or the opportunity. The messenger came to her bearing her a favorable message from God.

&lt;sup>22</sup> Luke 1:32 - will be called Son of the Most High: or Son of the Highest One, in other words, Son of God! How much greater can you be than to be called Son of the Highest? You can't, except to be the Most High yourself! The Jewish people would understand that to be called the Son of the Highest was the same as to be called God. The Son partakes of His Father's Essence and Identity!

John 5:17-18 (RSV) {17} But Jesus answered them, "My Father is working still, and I am working." {18} This was why the Jews sought all the more to kill him, because he not only broke the sabbath but also called God his Father, making himself equal with God.

David; 23 1:32c

- J 4 His eternal Messianic reign: {33} and He will reign over the house of Jacob forever, and His kingdom will have no end." <sup>24</sup> 1:33
- D 2 Gabriel's informing submissive Mary of the sign of her pregnant relative Elizabeth 1:34-38
  - E 1 Mary's query as to the logistics of this event: {34} Mary

In a concession to Covenant Theologians, Progressive Dispensationalists have held, since the early 1980's, that Jesus is presently sitting on David's throne up in heaven. He is not! David never reigned up in heaven. David reigned on earth in Jerusalem, in the land of Israel! Jesus' Messianic kingdom has not begun. 95-98% of Israeli people think Jesus is an imposter, and not their Messiah! How could Jesus' Messianic kingdom possibly have begun?

By way of application, 1) It will be impossible to exist into eternity without dealing with Jesus the King. You have the freedom to reject Him now, and to live as you please, but you will not forever have that luxury. Sooner or later you will come under the rule of this King! 2) You can no more resist this King than you can resist God himself. Many people have talked themselves into thinking they have gotten away without having to do business with God, but they are self-deluded. Doing business with God is inevitable. Sooner or later everyone in this world will have to give account to Jesus the King for how he has lived his life (John 5:19-30)! 3) We know from other Scriptures that this King loved each person in the world so much that He has already willingly sacrificed His life to pay for their sins and misdeeds. 4) How do we submit ourselves to this King? By telling King Jesus the following:

a) O King, I admit that in your sight and in the sight of heaven I am a sinner. I have broken your laws and I have perjured myself many times.

b) I know that because of my breaking of your laws, I deserve to be put out of this life -- to be sent to hell for ever.

&lt;sup>23</sup> Luke 1:32 - the Lord God will give Him the throne of His father David: Several things are evident from this passage: 1) Jesus is a descendant of David, thus eligible to reign as a Davidic King. 2) He will actually reign as a Davidic descendant. 3) His authority to reign as the Davidic King will be God-given. His regime will not depend on gaining permission from any human tribunal or authority. No Camp David Accords or Wye River Memorandum will be necessary, nor will any Resolution from the United Nations General Assembly be required. God will give Him the throne of David, His earthly father (ancestor)!

Luke 1:33 - reign over the house of Jacob forever: Five truths are self-evident: 1) Jesus will not only be given the right to rule as the Davidic King, but He will actually rule. 2) His rule will not merely be over Judah or Judea, but over the United Kingdom – Judea and Samaria – South and North – the entire Land of Israel as promised by God to Joshua! There will be no imposter "West Bank" – something that never existed in the Old Testament or New Testament. Whatever demands a Yasser Arafat-like figure or some other imposter such as the Chairman of the Hamas Political Bureau or Shura Council might make over a "Palestinian" portion, Jesus will reign over the whole country! 3) As Mary understood this prediction, His reign was to be a Kingdom authorized by Heaven, but also a Kingdom upon Earth. It would be an Earthly, Political Kingdom! 4) Rather than being only a secular kingdom, this kingdom would also be, of necessity, a Spiritual Kingdom. There would be no separation of church and state, if you will – no divorcing of politics and religion. The two would become one and the same. In that sense, at least, I have to commend Islamists – they understand that politics and religion must never be separated! 5) Not only would Mary's son reign over the whole house of Jacob, but in two distinct statements, the Messenger Gabriel assured her His kingdom would be eternal. First, "He would reign over the House of Jacob into the ages (i.e., forever); second, "and of His Kingdom, never would there come a completion!" This means that He is eternal, His Kingdom is eternal, and there will never be anyone who overthrows Him!

c) O King, I understand that You have voluntarily paid my penalty for me – You having been estranged from God the Father on the cross and separated from Him completely for my sake and for the sake of each person who has ever lived or who shall ever live.

d) O king, I accept your payment for me and I throw myself upon Your mercy, believing that you will save me and allow me to reign with you in your Kingdom!

Luke 1:34 - "how can this be since I am a virgin?:" Lit., "how can this be since I am not knowing any male?" She used a word,  $an\bar{e}r$  (435) that specifically had a masculine content, for this word is never used of females, but only of males. The word "to know"  $gin\bar{o}$  ' $sk\bar{o}$  (1097) means "to know experientially." It was a polite way of saying she was a virgin, even though she was betrothed in marriage. She was practicing abstinence, which is what God's will and plan is for each unmarried person, and the policy we urge all young people to observe until after they have married.

&lt;sup>27</sup> Luke 1:35 - power ... overshadow: Here obviously the Power of God is required to create the Son of God within Mary. The power of God would cast its shadow upon Mary. She would perhaps sense something gentle, but almost imperceptible, as when one is in the shade of a tree things are different but one can still see.

There are a number of prayers prayed by Catholics while reciting the Rosary. "The Hail Mary" is one of those prayers. It reads as follows:

HAIL MARY, full of grace, the Lord is with thee. Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit

&lt;sup>31</sup> Luke 1:41 - and Elizabeth was filled with the Spirit: In other words, she became, for a brief period of time, a genuine Biblical prophetess. What she said was as valid as Scripture, and, in fact, actually became Scripture.

Luke 1:42 - Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! Filled with the Holy Spirit, Elizabeth uttered this pronouncement concerning Mary. Mary is, indeed, blessed among women because of her privileged position of being mother of the Messiah (1:41-42) and because she believed what the messenger had said (1:45). She is not blessed by virtue of the fact that the Roman Catholic Church has elevated her to the unbiblical status of Mediatrix and Queen – see "What the Roman Catholic Church believes about Mary."

The reader will observe that a portion of "The Hail Mary" is recited almost verbatim from Scripture. This is somewhat true for the first sentence (see the footnote on 1:28), and more true of the second sentence (1:42). In that sense, those portions of the prayer have a Biblical origin. However, what the angel Gabriel said to Mary was a revelatory greeting to her, not a prayer to her (1:26-29). And what Elizabeth stated was a prophecy about Mary, not a prayer to her (Luke 1:41-42). In that sense, "Hail Mary" does not have a Biblical basis. There is no evidence in all of Scripture of a prayer to Mary. Therefore prayers to Mary are unbiblical and unwarranted.

&lt;sup>33</sup> Luke 1:46 - "My soul exalts the Lord: The text does not say either that Mary was filled with the Holy Spirit or that she prophesied. Nevertheless, her utterance was incorporated by Luke into Scripture. It is my opinion that Mary was, indeed filled with the Spirit, and that she did, indeed, prophesy.

Luke 1:48 - all generations will count me blessed: All Christians of all generations have, indeed, considered Mary to have been blessed by God. Those of us Christians who believe the Bible trumps church tradition refuse, however, to pray to her, refuse to call her the "Queen of Heaven," refuse to call her a Mediatrix, refuse to say she had no original sin, refuse to ascribe perpetual virginity to her when the Scriptures clearly reveal that Jesus had sisters and brothers (Matt. 13:55), and refuse to aver that she was corporeally assumed into heaven.

&lt;sup>37</sup> Luke 1:52 - He has brought down rulers from their thrones: This observation does not appear to affect Mary directly. More likely, she believed that the Messiah whom she would bear would bring down rulers from their thrones (Dan. 2:44-45). Of course, God has been doing that all throughout history. After being shown a vision of the course of Gentile world powers over future decades and centuries, Daniel praised God by saying, "It is He who changes the times and the epochs; He removes kings and establishes kings ...." (Dan. 2:21).

At His Second Coming, Mary's Son will vanquish all earthly powers and kings. He will be "KING of kings and LORD of lords!" (Rev. 19:11-21). He will rule from Zion as King (Psalm 2:6); He will be given "the nations as His

At His Second Coming, Mary's Son will vanquish all earthly powers and kings. He will be "KING of kings and LORD of lords!" (Rev. 19:11-21). He will rule from Zion as King (Psalm 2:6); He will be given "the nations as His inheritance, and the very ends of the earth as His possession" (Psalm 2:8); He will "break them with a rod of iron" and "shatter them like earthenware" (Psalm 2:9). He will be "King over all the earth" and Yahweh's name will be paramount (Zech. 14:9).

What promises had God made to Abraham beyond Gen. 12:1-3? After he had allowed Lot to make the first choice of land, Lot chose the well-watered valley of the Jordan (Gen. 13:8-11). This was before the LORD destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah – the land was like the Garden of Eden (Gen. 13:10). Abram settled in the land of Canaan (Gen. 13:12). Then the LORD said to Abram (Gen. 13:14-18), "Lift up your eyes and look northward, southward, eastward, and westward; for all the land which you see, I will give it to you and your seed (zerá, 2233) forever (Gen. 13:15). "I will make your seed as the dust of the earth, so that if anyone can number the dust of the earth, then your seed can also be numbered" (Gen. 13:16).

&quot;On that day the LORD made a covenant with Abram saying, 'To your seed I have given this land, from the river of Egypt as far as the great river, the river Euphrates'" (Gen. 15:18).

"And Abraham said to God, 'O that Ishmael might live before You!' But God said, 'No, but Sarah your wife will bear you a son, and you shall call his name Isaac; and I will establish My covenant with him for an everlasting covenant for his seed after him" (Gen. 17:18-19).

&quot;But God said to Abraham, 'Do not be distressed because of the lad and your maid; whatever Sarah tells you, listen to her, for through Isaac your seed shall be named" (Gen. 21:12).

After Abraham was ready to offer up Isaac upon the altar on Mount Moriah, the Messenger of Yahweh called to him a second time from heaven, and said, "By Myself I have sworn, declares Yahweh, because you have done this

These strange events became the subject of countless animated discussions in the hill country of Judea!

Illustration: If someone is sick and you visit them, you go to their house and talk with them, cheer them up, and wash up their dirty dishes and maybe do a little vacuuming for them if they can tolerate the noise. Zacharias is saying that God visited His people Israel by sending them the Messiah.

&lt;sup>47</sup> Luke 1:69 - and has raised up a horn of salvation for us: In the first part of this prophecy (Luke 1:67-75), Zacharias was not prophesying about his own son at all, but about Mary's son yet-to-be-born – the Messiah, Jesus. He does not begin prophesying about his own son, John, until Luke 1:76-79. Mary's son, the Messiah, was the horn of salvation that God would raise up for Israel in the house of David, God's servant!

In the Israeli thought, a horn symbolizes an animal's strength. This noun, kéras (2768), is used 11X in the NT. 3 are good contexts and 8 are evil. The 3 good are Luke 1:69; Rev. 5:6; 9:13. The rest are horns of evil beings, such as the Dragon (Rev. 12:3)!

Illustration: I once saw a video of an adult ram put in a cage of a lioness to give her something to eat. But the ram continued to charge the lion and butt her in the side. It hurt enough she kept slinking away from the ram. She wanted no part of that! In another video I saw a female lioness attacking a water buffalo, and possibly the buffalo's calf. The buffalo thrust at the lioness and tossed her 10-15 feet up in the air. When she landed, the buffalo was after her again! That is what a horn of salvation is for in this context! — deliverance from one's enemies!

&lt;sup>54</sup> Luke 1:78 - the Sunrise from on high will visit us: This is a poetic and prophetic reference to Jesus, the Son of God (John 1:14, 18; 3:16, 18; 1 John 4:9) visiting Israel and the world, and bringing Light and Salvation. Jesus would later say, "I am the Light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life" (John 8:12), and again, "While I am in the world, I am the Light of the world" (John 9:5).

In this context it has a more limited reference – earth-dwellers over which Caesar Augustus ruled, i.e. the Roman Empire.]

Luke 2:2 - first census: According to Thomas Constable (Dr. Constable's Notes on Luke), "Quirinius served as governor of the Roman province of Syria twice (3-2 B.C. and A.D. 6-7). However, Herod the Great was still alive when Augustus issued his decree (Matt. 2), and Herod died in 4 B.C. This incongruity has cast doubt on Luke's reliability as a historian. There is evidence that Augustus issued the type of decree that Luke described in A.D. 6 (cf. Acts 5:37). However there is presently no evidence that he did so earlier. One solution to this problem is that the decree went out in 3 or 2 B.C., but we have no other record of it. This solves the problem of a census occurring during the governorship of Quirinius, but it does not solve the problem of Herod being alive then. Another possibility is that the word "first" (v. 2, Gr. prote) means "prior" or "former" here (cf. John 15:18). Luke's meaning would then be that the census that took Mary and Joseph to Bethlehem was the one Augustus made prior to the one he took when Quirinius was governor of Syria (in A.D. 6). This seems to be the best solution. All the evidence points to the birth of Jesus in late 5 or early 4 B.C."

the text reads, "to be registered with Mary, the one having been pledged in marriage to him." It is my understanding that, according to the instructions of the angel (messenger) in Matthew 1:18-25, Joseph had already ceremonially taken Mary as his wife prior to the completion of the one-year probationary period typically observed. However, Matthew was clear to point out that Joseph had preserved Mary's virginity until after she had given birth to Jesus. Luke, a physician by trade, had already gone into considerable detail in recording the miraculous manner in which Mary had become pregnant (Luke 1:26-38). To preserve the correct impression that the two were not participating in a conjugal union, Luke accurately recorded that Mary had at some point in the past, with results continuing into the present, been promised to Joseph in marriage. In other words, she was still a virgin. So there is no conflict between Matthew's account and Luke's. The two accounts are supplemental, not antithetical.

<sup>62</sup> Luke 2:7 - no room for them in the inn: The word translated "inn," katáluma (2646), can refer virtually to any home. In Luke 22:10-13, Jesus instructed Peter and John to ask a certain home owner where his katáluma (there translated "guest room") was. He showed them to an "upper room." Many homes in Israel at the time of Jesus' birth had two rooms. One room consisted of living quarters for the family. The other room was for the animals. We are not told in Luke that Joseph sought lodging in a commercial inn. There is a more specific word for a commercial inn for travelers, namely, pandocheion (3829), the establishment to which the "Good Samaritan" took an unfortunate Jewish traveler (Luke 10:34). The place where Joseph and Mary found lodging could have been a residential home. In any event, since there was no room in the (katáluma), meaning the living quarters of whatever house in which they were residing, or else the guest room, which may have been otherwise occupied by other travelers, Mary and Joseph were forced to live with the livestock in the animal quarters. It is possible that with the Emperor's decree, there were an unusual number of guests in Bethlehem and lodging was at a premium. Presumably, if Joseph had sufficient capital, he could have paid for more upscale lodging. In any event, the home where the couple lodged did not have sufficient room in the katáluma for them to stay there, so they were forced to lodge with the animals in their portion of the home. The whole incident serves to illustrate the socio-economic poverty into which the Creator / King was born!

(See Constable's Notes.)

Luke 2:9 - angel ... suddenly stood before them: This messenger's appearance to these shepherds was selective indeed. There are some things that God shares with everyone (natural revelation, for example – Psalm 19:1-6; Rom. 1:19-20). There are other revelations he makes selectively. For example, the Scriptures of the OT were given only to the Hebrew people! Others might acquire those Scriptures, but only providentially (e.g. Acts 8:26-35). Here God selectively revealed the birth of the Savior of the world to a few common shepherds. One might ask, "Why did God waste this glorious appearance of this messenger (and the army of messengers that would join him) on a handful of anonymous shepherds in the Judean hills? Why not awaken the whole village of Bethlehem and the surrounding region within a radius of a mile or two?" The answer is that we do not know. But based on other appearances of messengers, they have always been rather selective. The messenger Gabriel appeared only, in the NT, to Zacharias (Luke 1:11-20) and to Mary (Luke 1:26-38). Two messengers would appear only to the few women who came to the empty tomb (Luke 23:55-24:9). Furthermore, we read in Matthew 2:1-12 that magi who appeared before Herod, the chief priests and the scribes, announcing the birth of the King of the Jews, were totally ignored by all but Herod!

God does not "waste" the appearances of messengers. Here, messengers appeared to common shepherds to show that the Good News is for the common man, but also they appeared to individuals who would actually go and verify the message. God, and the messengers, accomplished their purposes. We read of their successful appearance today!

Luke 2:9 - glory of the Lord: These messengers did not manifest their own glory, but the reflected glory of the Lord. Just as our moon reflects light from our sun, but is otherwise dark, so these angels reflected the glory of the Lord. Similarly, our lives are to reflect the holiness and righteousness and glory of the Lord.

&lt;sup>65</sup> Luke 2:9 - they were terribly frightened: Literal Greek: "and they were frightened with fear – great"! It is not uncommon for humans to become frightened and alarmed when they see messengers (Dan. 8:15-18; Mark 16:5; Luke 1:12; 24:4-5).

Luke 2:11 - city of David: It was appropriate that the ultimate Son of David be born in Bethlehem, the city of David's birth. More important, it fulfilled the prophecy of Micah 5:2: "But as for you, Bethlehem Ephrathah, too little to be among the clans of Judah, from you one will go forth from Me to be ruler in Israel. His goings forth are from long ago, from the days of eternity."

with whom He is pleased" [JTB translation].

In past time, from our perspective, God exhibited good will toward all men by sending His Son to become one of us, and by offering His Son up as a sacrifice for the sins of the entire world, whom God loved (John 3:16). In &lt;sup>70</sup> Luke 2:12 - sign: sêmeion (4592). There was nothing unusual about a mother wrapping her infant in strips of cloth. The fact that the baby was lying in a manger would have alerted the shepherds to look for a family of humble means. They could not afford a commercial inn. And the family with whom they had chosen to stay had no room for them in their katáluma (2646) (living quarters). The newborn baby and his parents would have been temporarily residing in the animal quarters. See the note on inn at Luke 2:7.

Thus 2:13 - a multitude of the heavenly host: Literally, "multitude of [the] army of heaven." "Host" translates stratiá (4756), a military term, used only twice in the NT, both times appearing in a phrase associated with heaven. In Luke 2:13 Luke used "multitude of [the] heavenly host (army)" to refer to many ranks or regiments of messengers from heaven. In Acts 7:42 Stephen referred to God's delivering Israel to serve the host of heaven. In the context (Acts 7:43) this refers to Israel's worship of the star of the god Rompha. So the stars of heaven are said to be an army. It may be that the worship is referring to the army of fallen messengers (demons) behind star worship. Thucydides used the word stratia 284 times in his Peloponnesian Wars. In modern related usage, the Strategic (from Gr. strategos) Air Command existed in the US from 1946 to 1992. A major command headquarters and airfield was stationed near Bellevue, Nebraska, now, Offutt Air Force Base. In the OT, there are 229 references to "the LORD of hosts: or "Yahweh of troops," "troops" designating His vast army of messengers. There have been and will yet be battles between the forces of good messengers and the forces of evil messengers (Dan. 10:13, 20; Rev. 12:7-9). In Luke 2, the multitude of the armies of heaven are not fighting battles, but are praising God in conjunction with the Incarnation, i.e. the birth of the Eternal Logos into human flesh (John 1:14-18).

The NASB rendering limits the extension of peace on earth only to the men with whom He is pleased." The NASB rendering limits the extension of peace on earth only to the men with whom God is pleased, namely, the elect (or believers, to those who find election offensive). So also do the translations of New International Version (NIV) and English Standard Version (ESV).

A literal rendering of the Greek text is as follows: "Glory in highest places to God, and upon earth peace among men of good pleasure" [or "good will"] (eudokia, 2107). The Nestle/United Bible Societies (NU) text reads eudokias (genitive case), meaning "men of good will"; Byzantine (Byz), (Majority) text reads eudokia (nominative case), meaning "good will [toward] men." The UBS text is to be preferred, but happily, the Byzantine text arrives at the correct meaning by a different route. Both the King James Version (KJV) "and on earth peace, good will toward men" and New King James Version (NKJV) "And on earth peace, goodwill toward men" reflect the Byz text form. Syntactically, the nearest antecedent of eudokias, "good will," is "men." At face value, eudokias could be Syntactically, the nearest antecedent of eudokias, "good will," is "men." At face value, eudokias could be translated as a subjective genitive, meaning men who exercise good will toward God and, presumably, other men. But contextually, since men were the passive recipients of this Divine gesture (the Incarnation), and since the good news of great joy which the messenger brought would be directed to "all the people" (Luke 2:10), not merely toward those who would exercise good will, eudokias is better seen as an objective genitive. This means that all men are the objects of God's good will toward them. So the preferred source of eudokia is God, who exhibited good will toward all men by giving us His Son. In English, the simple insertion of a comma after men appropriately reflects the messenger's theme that the good will should be extended to all men, not merely to those men who exhibit good will. My revision of the NASB translation would thus read, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men, with whom He is pleased" [JTB translation].

&lt;sup>82</sup> Luke 2:21 - before His circumcision: NASB footnote: "Lit so as to circumcise Him". In other words, after eight days, they were able to circumcise the baby and name him, wherein "to circumcise" is the Aorist Active Infinitive of the verb peritémnō (4059), literally, "to cut around..." (excerpted from OBU); "to circumcise" (Accordance).

Circumcision at eight days was prescribed by Yahweh as the sign of the covenant he made with Abraham (Gen. 17:12), the Abrahamic Covenant, an "everlasting covenant" between Yahweh and Abraham and his seed after him (Gen. 17:7). This everlasting covenant with Abraham and his seed (through Isaac – Gen. 17:21) also guaranteed him and his seed the land of Canaan for an everlasting (olám, 5769) possession (Gen. 17:8). This guarantees Israel dwelling in her own land during the Millennial Kingdom of the Messiah. It also guarantees, I believe, a state of Israel on New Earth forever, with New Jerusalem as the vast, I presume, satellite capital city orbiting New Earth. This rite of circumcision was later incorporated into the Law of Moses (Lev. 12:3).

It is important to note that this is a ritual uncleanness, not a moral uncleanness. Thomas Constable, citing Andrew Bonar [Bonar, Andrew A. A Commentary on Leviticus. 5th ed. Geneva Series Commentary series. London: Banner of Truth Trust; reprint ed., 1966.], pp. 236-237, states the following: "A fourth possibility is that the distinction resulted from the curse on Eve and her sex, that followed the Fall. I favor this interpretation."

He next proceeds to quote Nobuyoshi Kiuchi: [Kiuchi, Nobuyoshi. Leviticus. Apollos Old Testament Commentary series. Nottingham, Eng.: Apollos; and Downers Grove: InterVarsity Press; 2007], p. 220:

"Although this regulation is often taken as reflecting childbirth's problematical nature, the occasion is actually appointed by the Lord as one to remind the mother of her spiritual condition, through birth pain and her period of alienation from the sanctuary. Thus the prescription reaffirms the reality of the fall and its ongoing nature, which tends rarely to be considered by humanity."

The origin of this prescription for the treatment of mothers post child-birth is, I agree, taken from the LORD's pronouncement upon the woman after her sin (Gen. 3:6), as recorded in Genesis 3:16,

To the woman He said,
"I will greatly multiply
Your pain in childbirth,
In pain you will bring forth children;
Yet your desire will be for your husband,
And he will rule over you."

from slavery to the Egyptians, who were loathe to let them depart. The death of the firstborn of Egypt, both man and beast, was the price Egypt had to pay for not allowing the Israelis to depart (Exod. 12:12, 29-32). Perhaps in exchange for, and certainly, in memory of that redemption, God mandated that the firstborn from among the sons of Israel, both man and beast, belonged to Him, and they were to be dedicated to the LORD (Exod. 13:1-2; Num. 3:13; 8:17). The Israelis were allowed to redeem (presumably with money), every firstborn donkey and every firstborn human (Exod. 13:11-13). Joseph and Mary were diligent in keeping the Law, and, in their case, they offered up two birds in the place of their firstborn son, Jesus (Luke 2:22-24).

&lt;sup>87</sup> Luke 2:24 - a pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons: As specified in Lev. 12:1-4, 6-8, this was the sacrifice allowed if someone were too poor to bring a lamb. The purpose of the two birds was to provide atonement for the mother, cleansing her from the defilement issuing from the flow of blood. One of the birds was for a burnt offering, and the other was for a sin offering. The fact that Joseph and Mary brought two birds as a sacrifice to the Lord is consistent with the understanding that Joseph was from the lowest echelon of Jewish society in regard to wealth. He could not afford a public inn, and he could not afford a lamb.

&lt;sup>88</sup> Luke 2:25 - Simeon: Simeon was a "righteous and devout" man who lived in Jerusalem. The Holy Spirit had revealed to him he would not die until he had seen the Lord's Anointed One. The Holy Spirit now impelled him to enter the temple. When Joseph and Mary brought in Jesus to present him to the LORD as required by the Law, he met the couple and took the child in his arms. He blessed God, and uttered the following prophecy, though it was not formally thus labeled:

&quot;Now, Lord, You are releasing your slave to depart in peace according to Your word; for my eyes have seen Your salvation, which you have prepared in the presence of all peoples, 'A light of revelation to the nations, and glory for Your people, Israel." (Luke 2:29-32, JTB translation).

The phrase "A light of revelation to the nations, and glory for Your people, Israel" is quoted from Isaiah 42:6, a prophecy about the Messiah, the Servant of the LORD. It also is taken from Isaiah 49:6, another prophecy about the Messiah, the Servant of the LORD. This same theme is prophesied in Isaiah 51:4-5. It is repeated again in Isaiah 60:1-3, and echoed in Matt. 4:16 and Acts 13:47. (For further study, see "The Identification of the Servant Passages in Isaiah.")

"thus of the Messianic salvation (so the rabbis called the Messiah the consoler, the comforter) ...." (excerpted from OBU). In the present instance, Definition IV. best fits the context.

If I may be more specific, I believe Simeon was looking for the arrival of the Messiah and the establishment of the Messianic Kingdom in Israel and throughout the world. In his thinking this would be a time of righteousness in Israel and a time of supremacy of Israel among the nations of the world, led by the Global King of Israel and the world (Zech. 14:9). The "Consolation of Israel" was spelled out in passages such as these: Isa. 2:1-4; 9:6-7; 11:1-16; 25:1-12; 33:17-22; 35:1-10; 49:1-26; 60:1-2; 61:1-11; 62:1-12; 65:17-25; 66:10-24; Zech. 14:1-21.

&lt;sup>92</sup> Luke 2:30 - for my eyes have seen your salvation: The term "salvation" (sōtē'rion, 4992) has a broad range of applications. Simeon specifies what he means (Luke 2:30-32): (1) First, God's salvation centers in the child he was holding, the infant Messiah. This child is the salvation Simeon has seen with his own eyes (Luke 2:30)! (2) This salvation is intended for all peoples (Luke 2:31). (3) God designed the salvation inherent in this child to be a light of revelation for earth's nations. In other words, this child will reveal Himself as God's light (John 8:12; 9:5; 12:46) that will illuminate the dark world of sin and death in which earth's nations are immersed. (4) This child will save and bring glory to God's chosen people, Israel (Luke 2:31). (5) For both the nations and for Israel there is a common denominator – light. The light of unveiling for Gentiles and a magnified light of glory for Israel! There was light from the sun that enabled the eyes of Simeon to see God's salvation!

&lt;sup>93</sup> Luke 2:31 - which You have prepared in the presence of all peoples: Jesus is God's salvation intended for all peoples in the world, both Jewish and Gentile. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only-born Son in order that every one believing into Him would not perish, but might have eternal life" (John 3:16, JTB translation). There is no "Limited Atonement" here!!!

"revelation" is the Feminine Singular Accusative of the noun apokálupsis (602), "revelation" (excerpted from Accordance); "I. laying bare, making naked II. a disclosure of truth, instruction 1. concerning things before unknown 2. used of events by which things or states or persons hitherto withdrawn from view are made visible to all III. manifestation, appearance" (OBU); literally, "unveiling" (JTB);

"Gentiles" is the Genitive Neuter Plural of the noun éthnos (1484), literally, in the plural, "nations," typically referring in the NT to the unbelieving nations of the world in contrast to God's chosen nation, Israel (JTB).

Specifically, I believe Simeon was prophesying that the child he was holding would be a means of revealing, disclosing, or unveiling the truth of the salvation of God inherent in Jesus, the Messiah. This phrase in Luke 2:32 is drawn from such passages as Isa. 42:6; 49:6; 51:4; 60:1-3. The phrase is repeated in Matt. 4:16; Acts 13:47; 26:3. Jesus referred to himself as "the light of the world" (John 8:12; 9:5). We learn from John that the Book of Revelation is the "revelation" (unveiling)" both of the person of Jesus Christ and the future He predicted (Rev. 1:1).

&lt;sup>96</sup> Luke 2:34 - Behold, this Child is appointed for the fall and rise of many in Israel, and for a sign to be opposed: When the infant grew to manhood and began His ministry, He would have a divisive and polarizing effect upon Israel. A few would trust in Him and be redeemed. But many would oppose Him and eventually succeed in killing Him! He would be God's method of winnowing out the chaff amongst the nation that did not really trust in God, for they did not trust in His Son! At His trial before Pilate, the leaders would lead the people in pronouncing upon themselves the most horrific curse imaginable – "His blood be on us and on our children" (Matt. 27:25)! Tragically their curse has been fulfilled all around the world and in Nazi concentration camps and ovens. But the time is coming when Israel will mourn for having killed her Messiah (Zech. 12:10-13:1).

Luke 2:35 - to the end that thoughts from many hearts may be revealed: Many of us humans shy away from confrontation with others. We much prefer peacefulness to vitriol. But Simeon predicted that the confrontations surrounding Jesus in the nation of Israel would be a Divinely-engineered tool to reveal what the inner thoughts of Israeli citizens really were. I am reminded of Paul's words to the Corinthians. He heard that there were divisions among them (1 Cor. 11:17-18). That was not a good thing, but he also said that factions were necessary "so that those who are approved may become evident among you" (1 Cor. 11:19). I believe the divisions surrounding Jesus served to prove who among the Israelis were approved by God and who were disapproved. Or, to put it in Reformed terminology, who of them were among the elect and who were among the non-elect.

- H 4 Her prior marital status: and had lived with her husband seven years after her marriage, 2:36d

  - H 3 Her speech: and continued to speak of Him
  - H 4 Her audience: to all those who were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem. <sup>102</sup>

Luke 2:37 - serving night and day with fastings and prayers: Anna was immersed in denying herself the normal pleasures of life in order that she might serve God devotedly, without distraction. This was in sharp contrast to the immoral, self-styled "prophetess" Jezebel, described in Rev. 2:20-23.

&lt;sup>101</sup> Luke 2:38 - began giving thanks to God: Presumably she was thanking God for His provision of the Messiah for Israel.

Luke 2:38 - and continued to speak of Him to all those who were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem: Anna continued to speak about God to all those awaiting the redemption of Jerusalem. It is also possible that the antecedent of "of Him" is the baby that had just been brought to the temple.

The word I have translated "awaiting" is the Present Middle Participle Dative Masculine Plural of the verb prosdéchomai (4327), "to receive, wait for" (Accordance); "to receive to oneself ...." "to expect: the fulfillment of promises" (excerpted from OBU); of Jerusalem; Jerusalem, of course, is the capital city of Israel. The redemption of Jerusalem would include the return of the people of the Northern Kingdom, "Israel," taken captive by Assyria in 722 B.C. and the return of the people of the Southern Kingdom, "Judah," taken captive by Babylon in 605, 597, and 586 B.C., both united as one nation with no division between the north and the south, cleansed of their sin (Ezek. 37:15-23), filled with the Spirit and resurrected (Ezek. 37:1-14), ruled by David, God's servant, as prince, and living peacefully in the land with a rebuilt temple with God living among them (Ezek. 37:24-28).

Remember that Zacharias had previously prophesied (Luke 1:67), "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for He has visited us and accomplished redemption for His people, and has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of David His servant ..." (Luke 1:68-69). This redemption included political salvation for Israel (Luke 1:71, 74), which would enable Israel to serve God "without fear in holiness and righteousness before Him all our days" (Luke 1:74-75). Zacharias' son would give God's people the knowledge of salvation by the forgiveness of their sins (Luke <sup>1:77). &</sup>quot;The Sunrise from on high (the Messiah) would visit Israel to shine upon those who sit in darkness and the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace" (Luke 1:78-79).

We conclude, therefore that "redemption of Jerusalem" would include both political and spiritual salvation. The two are, in fact inseparable. No people can be saved politically who are not first saved spiritually. And spiritual salvation without eventual political salvation is an abortion of the purpose and goal of God.

The view of many within Christendom, that the Church has permanently replaced Israel, would have been repugnant to Zacharias and Anna, and to the Apostles, especially after 40 days of instruction by Jesus about the kingdom of God (Acts 1:1-6). And so it is to me also. The Church has not invalidated the eternal covenant God struck with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and reinforced in the prophets (see, for example, Isaa 61:8-9).

<sup>103</sup> Luke 2:41 - Feast of the Passover: It is to be celebrated in the first month, "the beginning of months" (the month Abib) on the 10th day of the month (Exodus 12:1-3). Each family was to take an unblemished, year-old lamb and keep it. On the 14th day they were to kill it at twilight. They were to take some of the blood and apply it to the lintel and the two doorposts of the houses in which they eat the lamb (Exod. 12:5-7). They were to eat it in haste (Ex. 12:11) because Yahweh was going to go through the land of Egypt and strike dead all the firstborn in Egypt – both man and beast. This would be a judgment against the false gods of Egypt (Ex. 12:12). When Yahweh saw the blood on the Israeli door frames, he would pass over that house, and not allow the destroyer to enter in to strike them with a plague (Ex. 12:12-13, 23). The "destroyer" was, I believe, the "Angel of Yahweh," the Pre-incarnate Christ.

This feast was to be a perpetual observance especially for the benefit of Israel's sons (Ex. 12:24-27). His blood had to be shed to purchase atonement and redemption. The applicability of the blood of Jesus is not &lt;sup>108</sup> Luke 2:46 - after three days: The first day was spent traveling from Jerusalem en route to Nazareth. The second day was spent traveling back to Jerusalem. The third day was spent searching for Jesus somewhere in the city. Finally, they discovered him in the temple!

Luke 2:46 - in the midst of the teachers: "teachers" is the Genitive Masculine Plural of the noun didáskalos (1320), "teacher." Jesus was listening to the teachers in the temple and also asking them questions. I suspect he gave his own answers to at least some of the questions he asked, particularly if he didn't fully agree with their answers! I suspect Jesus was already acting in His God-given role of "Teacher." Throughout Jesus' ministry, he was frequently referred to as "Teacher" (Matt. 8:19; 9:11; 12:38; 17:24; 19:16; 22:36; John 3:2, etc.). He even referred to Himself as "Teacher" (Matt. 26:18; Mark 14:14; John 13:13, etc.).

Imperfect Middle Indicative of the verb existēmi (1839), "to amaze, confuse" (Accordance); "... 1. to amaze, to astonish, throw into wonderment 2. to be amazed, astounded 3. to be out of one's mind, beside one's self, insane" (excerpted from OBU). While the NASB translation is accurate, it does not quite catch the sense of the Imperfect tense. A more literal translation is, "all who heard him were continually being astounded at his understanding and his answers" (JTB). Jesus' acumen and insight are evidence of His Deity. He was God-come-in-the-flesh, and even at twelve years of age, there was a noticeable difference! In a colloquial sense, we could say that these teachers in the temple were continually being "shocked out of their minds" at the spiritual and intellectual and wisdom-filled responses of this twelve-year-old boy! They were in the presence of God – they just didn't know it!

- E 5 His subjection to his parents and growth in all areas 2:51-

<sup>113</sup> Luke 2:48 - Why have you treated us this way? Jesus never sinned, but here is one occasion on which, obviously, his behavior did not meet the expectations of his parents!

<sup>114</sup> Luke 2:49 - Why is it that you were looking for me? Jesus here voiced his own conviction that his parents' concern was unjustified. He had done nothing wrong.

Luke 2:49 - Did you not know that I had to be in My Father's house? – The word "house" is in italics. It does not appear in the Greek text, and, in my view, is an unfortunate translation. Here is what the text says literally: "Have you not known that in the things of my Father it is necessary for me to be?" In my translation "Have you not known" is the 2nd Plural Pluperfect Indicative Active of the verb ôida (6063), "to know";

"the things" is the Dative Neuter Plural of the article ho "the things."

What Jesus meant was, "Haven't you known all along that it is necessary for me to be engaged in the things of my (heavenly) Father? – What did you expect?"

&lt;sup>116</sup> Luke 2:50 - But they did not understand the statement which He had made to them: My son Brian is teaching an adult Sunday Class on the Gospel of Luke. He repeatedly comments that Luke must have interviewed Mary to be able to know finer points like this (see Luke 1:1-4).

- C 1 The introduction of the prophet John ben Zacharias 3:1-6
  - D 1 The date (with reference to the regimes of the following officials) 3:1-2a
    - E 1 The Roman Emperor: {1} Now in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, 120 3:1a

<sup>117</sup> Luke 2:51 - He continued in subjection to them: Literally, "and He was continuing in being placed in subjection to them," wherein "He was continuing" is the 3rd Singular Imperfect Indicative Active of the verb eimi (1510), "to be, exist" (Accordance); "in being placed in subjection" is the Present Passive Participle Nominative Masculine Singular of the verb hupotassō (5293), "to subject; to submit" (Accordance). This is nothing short of amazing. Even though He was God-come-in-the-flesh, and He knew it, He allowed Himself to be placed in submission to His earthly parents – and this was an ongoing process!

Luke 2:51 - and His mother treasured: Literally, "was treasuring," which is the 3rd Singular Imperfect Indicative Active of the verb diatēréō (1301), "to keep, maintain" (Accordance). Mary seems to have been a very reflective person. Throughout her life as a mother, she was continually treasuring up in her heart all these unusual statements that were made by and about her son. This is a rare verb in the NT, used only by Luke, and only twice, here, and in Acts 15:29.

Luke 2:51 - all these things: Literally, "all these words," or "statements" "words / statements" being the Neuter Accusative Plural of the noun  $hr\bar{e}ma$  (4487), "speech, discourse ... utterance" (excerpted from OBU).

<sup>120</sup> Luke 3:1 - the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar: Tiberius reigned from A.D. 14-37. (NetBible note on Luke 3:1.) According to Constable, this is the only time-reference necessary to date the beginning of the ministry of John the Immerser. The following references to rulers place the time in a broader context. Therefore this time indicator is about A.D. 29 or 30.

- E 2 The governor of Judea: when Pontius Pilate <sup>121</sup> was governor of Judea, 3:1b
- E 3 The tetrarchy of Galilee: and Herod was tetrarch of Galilee, 122 3:1c
- E 4 The tetrarchy of Ituraea and Trachonitis: and his brother Philip <sup>123</sup> was tetrarch of the region of Ituraea and Trachonitis, 3:1d
- E 5 The tetrarchy of Abilene: and Lysanias <sup>124</sup> was tetrarch of Abilene, 3:1e
- E 6 The high priesthood of Israel: {2} in the high priesthood of Annas and Caiaphas, 125 3:2a
- D 2 The thrust of his ministry proclaiming a baptism of repentance for forgiveness 3:2b-3
  - E 1 The arrival of the word of God: the word of God came <sup>126</sup> 3:2b
  - E 2 The identity of the prophet: to John, <sup>127</sup> the son of Zacharias, in the wilderness. <sup>128</sup> 3:2c

Luke 3:1 - Herod was tetrarch of Galilee: This refers to Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great. He ruled a fourth part of his father's kingdom from 4 B.C. to A.D. 39. "Tetrarch" translates the Present Active Participle, Genitive Masculine Singular of the verb tetraarchéō (5075). This vocabulary is peculiar to Luke. It appears only 3X in the NT, all three in Luke 3:1.

Luke 3:1 - Lysanias: Tetrarch of Abilene. Nothing else is known about Lysanias (see the appropriate footnote at Luke 3:1 in NetBible.). We do not know when Lysanias ruled. The map of Ituraea in Bible Hub also shows the region of Abilene. There is no separate map and article on Abilene. It lay west of Damascus, Syria.

Luke 3:2 - high priesthood of Annas and Caiaphas: Annas was high priest of Israel from A.D. 6 to 15. He was deposed by Roman authorities then, and his son-in-law Caiaphas served as official high priest from A.D. 18 to the spring of 37. Some of the Jewish people continued to regard Annas as the legitimate high priest. Luke mentions both.

Luke 3:2 - the word of God came: This language can mean nothing else but that John the Immerser was a God-ordained prophet of Israel. Messages came from God to John, and he delivered these messages to the people of Israel.

region of Judea (Matt. 3:1) was where John now began his ministry.

However, it should be noted that Paul later encountered disciples of John who had been baptized, but who had never even heard that there was a Holy Spirit (Acts 19:1-3). Paul informed them that John had preached the necessity of believing "in Him who was coming after him, that is, in Jesus" (Acts 19:4). "When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus" (Acts 19:5). "And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Spirit came on them, and they began speaking in tongues and prophesying" (Acts 19:6). "There were in all about twelve men" (Acts 19:7). See also the article, "Part D: The Significance of Tongues in Acts 19:1-6." This is one of a series of articles on speaking in tongues. The primary idea behind "baptism" is "identification." Here, adherents were publicly identifying themselves with John and with his message of repentance for the forgiveness of sins (Luke 3:3). In Christian baptism we are identifying ourselves with Jesus the Messiah and with His message – His spiritual / political platform. Early on, Jesus, like John announced, "Be repenting, for the kingdom of the heavens has drawn near" (Matt. 4:17, JTB translation). It should be noted that even John himself publicly acknowledged that merely participating in the rite of baptism was insufficient. Participants needed to "bear fruits in keeping with repentance" (Luke 3:8).

<sup>130</sup> Luke 3:3 - preaching: the Present Active Participle Nominative Masculine Singular of the verb kērússō (2784), "to proclaim, preach" (Accordance). The wilderness seems a most unlikely place for a prophet to begin preaching, but this was a "God thing," and soon great numbers of Israelis began to flock to the wilderness to listen to him and to be immersed by him in the Jordan River. This was actually a fulfillment of prophecy as Luke notes shortly by quoting from the prophet Isaiah.

<sup>131</sup> Luke 3:3 - a baptism: the Accusative Neuter Singular of the noun báptisma (908), I. "immersion, submersion" ... 2. "of John's baptism, that purification rite by which men on confessing their sins were bound to spiritual reformation, obtained the pardon of their past sins and became qualified for the benefits of the Messiah's kingdom soon to be set up. This was valid Christian baptism, as this was the only baptism the apostles received and it is not recorded anywhere that they were ever rebaptised after Pentecost" (excerpted from OBU).

However, it should be noted that Paul later encountered disciples of John who had been baptized, but who had

Luke 3:3 - of repentance: the Genitive Feminine Singular of the noun metánoia (3341), "a change of mind, as it appears to one who repents, of a purpose he has formed or of something he has done" (OBU); "repentance" (Accordance); "a change of mind about one's wrong actions or a change of mind about one's stance toward a person" (JTB). John the Baptist's preaching seems to have focused on the former, which would prepare the repentant one to enter the kingdom of the heavens (Luke 3:3, 7-14; Matt. 3:1-2, 6-10). But the kingdom of the heavens would have a king, so John also lobbied his hearers to change their minds about the identity and platform of the King of this kingdom of the heavens (Luke 3:15-17; Matt. 3:11-12). See the Glossary entry on Repentance. See also A Biblical Theology of Repentance in Table Format.

<sup>133</sup> Luke 3:3 - for the forgiveness of sins: This was the main aspect of repentance about which John was concerned and about which he preached. His goal was to prepare people to enter the coming kingdom. The kingdom was not merely a political entity. One had to be spiritually qualified to enter the kingdom. Later, in a private conversation with Nicodemus, a "ruler of the Jews" (John 3:1), Jesus would specify the necessity of being "born again" or "born from above" to be able to qualify to enter the kingdom of God. Obviously, being born the first time

("born of water") (John 3:5, 6) was necessary. Being born a second time was a subsequent spiritual birth, accomplished by the Holy Spirit (John 3:1-21).

<sup>134</sup> Luke 3:4 - Isaiah the prophet: There follows a quotation of Isa. 40:3-5. {3} A voice is calling, "Clear the way for the LORD in the wilderness; Make smooth in the desert a highway for our God. {4} "Let every valley be lifted up, And every mountain and hill be made low; And let the rough ground become a plain, And the rugged terrain a broad valley; {5} Then the glory of the LORD will be revealed, And all flesh will see it together; For the mouth of the LORD has spoken." This prophecy of Isaiah appears to have two future fulfillments. The first identified the ministry of John the Immerser, who appears in all four gospels. But the ultimate reference appears to be the Second Coming of Christ, particularly Isa. 40:5, which refers to the revelation of the glory of the LORD, which "all flesh will see it together" (Matt. 24:30; Rev. 1:7).

<sup>135</sup> Luke 3:5 - Every ravine will be filled, and every mountain and hill be brought low: This quotation of Isaiah 40:4 may be figurative language not meant to be taken literally. It may mean the removal of every impediment for the appearance of the Messiah. On the other hand, the pouring out of the seventh bowl of God's wrath upon the earth will result in an earthquake so gargantuan and so unprecedented that John could say "every island fled away, and the mountains were not found" (Rev. 16:17-21). Perhaps this hints at the leveling of terrain in preparation for the appearance of the Messiah! Certainly we know there will be enormous topographical changes at the Second Coming of Christ (see, for example, Zech. 14:4-11).

    - E 5 His warning not to rely on being Jewish: and do not begin to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham for our father,' 139 3:8b
    - E 6 God is able to raise up descendants of Abraham in any way

<sup>136</sup> Luke 3:6 - and all flesh will see the salvation of God: Luke here quotes from Isaiah 40:5, "Then the glory of the LORD will be revealed, and all flesh will see it together." This has to do with the universal salvation of all the believing survivors of the judgments at the end of the Tribulation period. All of mankind will be saved through the glorious appearing of Christ and his banishment of all unbelievers from His Millennial Kingdom (Matt. 25:31-46). Note that Matthew 25:31 says this: "But when the Son of Man comes in His glory, and all the angels with Him, then He will sit on His glorious throne." At the end of this judgment of all nations who survive the Tribulation, the following is said of the "sheep" and the "goats" – "These (the goats) will go away into eternal punishment, but the righteous (the sheep) into eternal life" (Matt. 25:46). "Eternal life" here describes life in the Millennial Kingdom on earth. At that time it will be true that "... the earth will be full of the knowledge of the LORD as the waters cover the sea" (Isa. 11:9; Hab. 2:14).

Luke 3:7 - the wrath to come: I believe there are at least two or three fulfillments of John's prediction. One would be the coming destruction of the city of Jerusalem and its temple, accomplished by the Roman general Titus in A.D. 70. Another destruction would be the destructions in connection with the Tribulation period (Zech. 14:1-5). A third would be the destruction of the entire universe in preparation for God's creation of New Heavens and New Earth (2 Pet. 3:7-13; Rev. 20:11; 21:1-2).

<sup>138</sup> Luke 3:8 - bear fruits in keeping with repentance: John had been "preaching a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins" (Luke 3:3). Now he warned participants not to depend upon the mere rite of baptism to qualify to enter the kingdom. They had to evidence a changed life that demonstrated their repentance. I have attended both Lutheran and Catholic funerals in which the pastor or priest intoned that, merely because the deceased had been baptized in water (as an infant) he was now in heaven. To me that is dangerously misleading. That posture neglects the necessity of faith in Christ (John 3:14-18, 36) and a resultant changed life (James 2:14-26). In the Gospel of Luke, the term "baptism" (908) appears four times: Luke 3:3; 7:29; 12:50; 20:4. The term "repentance" (3341) appears five times: Luke 3:3, 8; 5:32; 15:7; 24:47.

Luke 3:8 - We have Abraham for our father: It was the belief of many Jews that, merely because they had descended from Abraham, who had been chosen by God, they themselves would automatically inherit the kingdom of which John preached. He warned them this was not so!

- E 7 Judgment is imminent: {9} "Indeed the axe is already laid at the root of the trees; 140 3:9a

    - G 2 The question of the tax collectors: and they said to him, "Teacher, what shall we do?" 3:12b

Luke 3:9 - the axe is already laid at the root of the trees: John was predicting that judgment would soon come upon Israel, and his listeners needed to repent to escape the coming judgment. It is my belief that, whether he knew it or not, the judgment of which John prophesied came upon Israel in A.D. 70 at the hand of General Titus of Rome. Hundreds of thousands of Jewish people lost their lives, and many more were dispersed all over the Roman Empire.

&lt;sup>142</sup> Luke 3:10 - What shall we do? In that the crowds were asking this question indicates that the bulk of those in attendance understood that they needed to bear fruit (good works) in keeping with repentance. They had caught John's message!

&lt;sup>143</sup> Luke 3:12 - tax collectors: These men were abhorrent to the Jewish people, who considered that they were enemies of Israel, having sold themselves to the hated Roman government. John did not tell them to resign from their positions, but simply to be fair, collecting no more than what they were required. They were not to grow wealthy by over-charging!

Luke 3:14 - soldiers: These were probably Roman soldiers (Constable), indicating that even some Gentiles were gravitating to John and were sincerely affected by his revolutionary message. They wanted to know what they should do to exhibit the fruits of repentance. Again, John did not ask them to resign from their position. He urged them not to take money from people by force, not to accuse anyone falsely, and to be content with their wages. Evidently soldiers were not well paid, and some used their status and armament to gain wealth by threat of force.

By way of application, I personally grew up in a family with a Mennonite background. Mennonites are historically pacifists, despising the military. I can remember my own father justifying his own participation in the US Army in World War II, if even as a non-combatant, by commenting that John did not require the soldiers to leave the army.

Jesus' baptism by means of the Holy Spirit is a real baptism, not merely a ritual one. By real, I mean that in Jesus' baptism by means of the Spirit, something significant really happens — Christians are actually immersed into the body of Christ. Water baptism is a ritual baptism. Whereas it is an important ritual, it cannot accomplish anything, but merely signifies something. John's water baptism, for example, was designed to signify repentance. But it could not make people truly repentant, as John so cogently warned the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to him to be baptized (Matt. 3:7-8). Jesus' baptism by means of the Spirit has to do with the eternal salvation of believers, in John's words, "gathering the wheat into His barn" (John 3:17). Jesus' baptism by means of fire, which John also predicted (Matt. 3:7-8) prophesied Jesus' future consigning of all His enemies and those who refuse to believe in Him to hell-fire (Matt. 10:28; 25:30, 41, 46; Rev. 20:11-15). See Four Types of Baptism for a further discussion. See also A Linked Summary of the Significance of Speaking in Tongues.

Incidentally, I believe the baptism of which Paul spoke in Romans 6:1-4 was Spirit baptism, not water baptism. Mere water cannot accomplish that of which Paul spoke there – only the Holy Spirit can do so.

146 Luke 3:16 - and fire: I have met people from a Charismatic / Pentecostal background who believe that fire here represents the "tongues as of fire" resting on each of those present in the house where they were sitting on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:1-3). That is an interpretation, however, that cannot be warranted in the present context. The context of Acts 2:1-4 is one of blessing and giftedness. The context in Luke 3:16-17 is, first of all, one of evaluating and sorting. And then, second, the context is one of preservation on the one hand, and, third, eternal destruction on the other.

First, judgment: Notice that this Mighty One (Jesus) will hold a winnowing fork, and that He will "thoroughly clear his threshing floor" (Luke 3:17). Scriptures present a series of judgments at the end of the age, in which the wicked will be sorted out and disposed of, while the righteous will be preserved alive to enter the kingdom. There are, for example, three different references to judgment in Matthew 25 alone: the parable of the ten virgins, Jesus' judgment of Israelis who survive the Tribulation period (Matt. 25:1-13); the parable of the talents, also primarily Jesus' judgment of Israelis (Matt. 25:14-30); and finally, Jesus' prediction of His own judgment of the nations who survive the Tribulation period (Matt. 25:31-46).

Second, preservation: the result of Jesus' baptism with the Spirit will be salvation and preservation (He "will gather the wheat into His barn") (Luke 3:17). The wheat represents believers who will be preserved alive to enter Christ's kingdom.

Third, eternal destruction: the result of Jesus' baptism with fire will be eternal punishment ("but He will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire") (Luke 3:17). Thus, Jesus' baptizing with fire (Luke 3:16) cannot refer to His outpouring of the Spirit on the Day of Pentecost, accompanied with "tongues as of fire" (Acts 2:3). It must rather refer to the fact that He will one day "burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire" (Luke 3:17). This means that, in the final judgment of the wicked dead of all ages, the "Great White Throne" judgment (Rev.20:11-15), Jesus will consign the wicked – those whose names are not written in the "Book of Life" – to be tormented in "the lake of fire and brimstone" (Rev. 19:15; 20:10, 14-15; 21:8; 22:15). The wicked will thus be prevented from entering Christ's eternal kingdom (Rev. 21:1-22:5).

Jesus would later reaffirm future judgment at the end of the age, resulting in the preservation of the righteous

Luke 3:16 - baptize you with the Holy Spirit: Jesus' baptizing with the Holy Spirit must ultimately refer (though John could not have known this) to Jesus' using the Holy Spirit to immerse believers into the body of Christ (1 Cor. 12:13). This baptism is performed by the Spirit upon all believers in Christ. The first instance of Jesus' baptizing with the Holy Spirit came about on the Day of Pentecost (Acts 2:1-12). However, this baptism cannot be referring, ultimately and long-term, to a visible or audible manifestation of the Spirit, such as the sound of a rushing mighty wind, or flickering flames of fire on peoples' heads, or speaking in languages one had not previously learned (Acts 2:1-12). While those phenomena announced the initial appearance of the Spirit to the early church, they by no means were consistent with every Christian, then or now (e.g., 1 Cor. 12:29-30).

For a table that depicts Jesus' baptism by the Spirit and His baptism by fire, see "Four Different Types of Baptism." For a discussion of other judgments, see "The Judgment Seat of Christ"; "The Judgment of Survivors of the Tribulation Period at the Second Coming of Christ".

Luke 3:17 - threshing floor: Another agricultural symbol. The stalks of grain were cut in the field, bundled into a manageable "shock," and transported to the threshing floor. Typically an animal would be used to circle the threshing floor and tromp out the grain from the stalks. Then humans would use a winnowing fork to separate the unusable chaff from the grain. The threshing floor and the winnowing fork bespeak a future day of judgment to be executed by the "Mightier One." (See, for example, John 5:22-30.) This judgment, of Israel in particular, is detailed in Ezek. 20:33-38 and in other (NT) passages, among them Matt. 25:1-30. A similar judgment for Gentiles is described in Matt. 25:31-46. For a fuller discussion of these judgments, see "The Judgment of Survivors of the Tribulation Period at the Second Coming of Christ."

Luke 3:17 - gather the wheat into His barn: The "Mightier One," after completing His judgment, will permit the righteous to enter His kingdom. This refers, initially, to allowing the righteous to enter His Millennial Kingdom, inheriting the earth (Matt. 5:5). In general terms, gathering "the wheat into His barn" refers to salvation. But more specifically, it refers to allowing the righteous to inherit the kingdom promised to them. Initially, these benefits include peace, justice, prosperity, longevity, blessing in association with the people of Israel, and fellowship with the King in His Millennial Kingdom (Isa. 60:1-22; 61:1-11; 65:19-25; 66:10-24). Ultimately, these benefits include all the rights and privileges associated with the Messiah's eternal kingdom – freedom from sin, disease, death, decay, the curse, pain, sorrow, tears, all evil, and all evil people (Rev. 21:1-22:15). They include a resurrected body and eternal rule (Rev. 22:5) in the New Earth, along with continual access (Rev. 21:24-22:2) to Israel's capital city, New Jerusalem

Luke 3:17 - burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire: This judgmental action of the Mightier One will affect both the people of Israel and the Gentiles of the earth. There will be partial fulfillments of this prediction in time, and a final fulfillment at the end of time as we know it here on earth.

At the end of the Tribulation period Jesus Christ will purge the rebels from Israel outside the land. They will be barred from entering the land of Israel. They will evidently be put to death, unable to enter the kingdom (Ezek. 20:33-38). Jesus referred to the same judgment in Matt. 25:1-13 (The Parable of the Ten Virgins) and in Matt. 25:14-30 (The Parable of the Slaves and the Talents).

In Matt. 25:31-46 Jesus predicted the Judgment of the Gentiles who survived the Tribulation. The wicked will not be allowed to enter the kingdom of Christ, but will be deposited in the "eternal fire" "prepared for the devil and his angels" (Matt. 25:41).

Jesus will again "burn up the chaff" at the end of His Millennial Reign. Satan will be released from the abyss where he has been confined for a thousand years. Unbelievably, he will succeed in deceiving millions to revolt against King Jesus. They will surround Jerusalem in a fatal act of rebellion against the King and His administration. Fire will come down from heaven and destroy them (Rev. 20:7-10).

At the end of time as we know it here on earth, Jesus will destroy the existing universe by fire (2 Pet. 3:7-12; Rev. 20:11; 21:1). Matter as we know it will cease to exist. The (wicked) dead of all ages will stand before a Great White Throne. It is Jesus, I believe, to whom all judgment as been delegated (John 5:19-30), who will sit thereon. The (wicked) dead will stand before the throne. The sea will give up its dead, and death and Hades will give up their dead. They will be judged according to records opened up. Furthermore all whose names are not found written in the Book of Life will be cast into the lake of fire and brimstone (Rev. 20:11-15). According to Rev. 20:10 this torment will last forever. This is the final and irreversible result of Jesus, baptizing by fire. I urge the reader to submit to Jesus, Anointed to be God's ultimate Prophet, Priest, and King/ Judge. If you embrace Him as your Prophet and Priest, who allowed Himself to be offered up as the Lamb of God, and submit to Him in faith and obedience as your King, you will escape this final, catastrophic, irreversible, eternal baptism by fire!

Luke 3:19 - Herod the tetrarch: This is Herod Antipater, known by the nickname Antipas. He was born before 20 B.C. and died after 39 B.C. in Gaul, France. He was appointed king over Galilee and Perea by Caesar Augustus after the death of his father, Herod the Great, in 4 B.C. His brothers were as follows: Archelaus, full brother; Herod Philip, half-brother; Aristobulus and Alexander were half brothers who were sons of Herod the Great by Miriamne, and were executed by their father in 7 B.C.; Antipater II was another half-brother, the oldest son of Herod the Great by his first wife, Doris. However, he was executed in 5 B.C. under suspicion of having tried to poison his father. Anitpas was the youngest son of Herod the Great and was appointed tetrarch (ruler of a quarter) over Galilee and Perea.

Luke 3:19 - Herodias, his brother's wife: Antipas had divorced his first wife, Phasaelis, daughter of King Aretas IV of Nabatea. Then he married Herodias, who had formerly been married to his brother Herod Philip I. Herodias apparently remained loyal to Antipas throughout their lives. Herod wanted John executed, but was loathe to do so, perhaps fearing a backlash from the Israeli people. Herodias, however, tricked him into a position where he had no choice but to have John killed, if he wished to save face. Ultimately, she succeeded in having the Baptist put to death (Matt. 14:1-12).

Luke 3:22 - the Holy Spirit descended upon Him: This marks the moment in time when the God-man Jesus became the Messiah - "The Anointed One". The term, from a Hebrew point of view, is "Messiah"; from a Greek point of view, "Christ". The primary significance of "Messiah" is royal – Jesus was anointed by God to be King of Israel, and thus, ultimately King of the world (see Zech. 14:9). It must be clearly understood that, while God has anointed Jesus to be Israel's King, the people of Israel have not yet done so. Quite to the contrary, they executed Him. But the time will come when they will mourn their having killed Him (Zech. 12:10-13:1). They will repent as a nation, and, I am convinced, officials from the nation of Israel will anoint Jesus as their King.

But God's anointment of Jesus was not merely to be King, but also to serve as Prophet and Priest. Though Jesus offered Himself as King to the people of Israel during His earthly tenure, His primary ministry while on earth was that of Prophet. With His death, He became a priestly offering for the sins of all people of all time, accessed by faith. With His ascension to heaven, as the writer of Hebrews makes abundantly clear, Jesus is presently serving as the great High Priest for all who trust Him. He is priest, not after the line of Aaron, but after the order of Melchizedek, the King-Priest (Heb. 6:20-7:25). When He returns to earth, Jesus will primarily serve as King.

It is worth noting that Jesus' anointment with the Holy Spirit is the occasion at which God speaks of Him as His Son. That is true, no doubt, because God promised David He would maintain a "Father - Son" relationship with David's descendant (2 Sam. 7:14). Jesus is the ultimate son of David and thus Son of God who will reign forever over the house of Jacob, seated upon the throne of David (2 Sam. 7:14-16; Luke 1:30-33). It is simply not true that Jesus is presently seated on the throne of David. The throne of David was in Jerusalem upon earth. That is where Jesus will reign. Jesus presently is seated at the right hand of the Father awaiting His Davidic kingdom on earth (Psalm 110:1-2).

Luke 3:22 - You are My beloved Son: The reader will note that, not until God had anointed Jesus with His Spirit did He audibly identify Jesus as His Son. My tentative conclusion is that Jesus' being called the Son of God is consonant with His being the Messiah, the Christ, the Anointed One. So the term "Son" may be more of a human term, than a Divine term, just as "Messiah" is a human term. Both terms are related to Jesus' being the ultimate descendant of David. That is not to say, however, that Jesus became Deity at His Father's pronouncement at His baptism. The Second Person of the Godhead always existed from eternity past as Deity. He appeared, I believe, as the special Messenger of Yahweh, termed the "Angel of Yahweh" (Angel of the LORD) in the Old Testament. In the New Testament the Apostle John termed Him the Logos (Word or Message), who existed from eternity past with God and who was being God (John 1:1), who existed in the beginning with God (John 1:2), and who became human flesh at a point in time (John 1:14; 1 John 1:1). He is identified as the One who created everything (John 1:1-3). For additional information on this perspective of "sonship" see the Glossary Entry, "Davidic Covenant."

Luke 3:23 - being, as was supposed, the son of Joseph: There are significant differences between the genealogy found in Matthew 1:1-17 and this one here in Luke3:23-38. To be candid, there are problems connected with the differences. We do not know enough about these genealogies to be able to resolve the problems without question. But we believe the text is inspired by God, and that, if we knew enough, we could resolve the problems satisfactorily. One of the problems is that Joseph, the foster father of Jesus, appears to have two fathers. Possibly this is a case of "Levirate marriage," in which a brother to a man who died childless procreated a son in the dead brother's name (see the case of Boaz in Ruth 4:1-15). Some have suggested that the genealogy in Luke is actually the genealogy of Mary. But that does not seem satisfactory, as she is not even mentioned in Luke's genealogy. For a fairly thorough discussion of the problems from a conservative point of view, see Thomas Constable's notes on the passage.

&lt;u>Jesus was not the biological son of Joseph, but he was the legal son of Joseph. Jesus had no biological father. His conception and birth were miraculous (Luke 1:35). As the Angel Gabriel told Mary, "He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High" (Luke 1:32). Jesus was the biological son, generations removed, of course, of David (Luke 1:32) because His mother Mary was a descendant of David (Rom. 1:3).

&lt;sup>157</sup> Luke 4:3 - If you are the Son of God: Satan is here quoted as using a first class conditional Greek sentence, the assumption being that what the speaker proposed was true. "If", in this syntax, can be translated as "Since." Satan conceded the fact that Jesus was the Son of God!

<sup>158</sup> Luke 4:3 - tell this stone to become bread: Satan, who knew that Jesus had gone forty days without eating and was hungry, first tempted Him in the area of the "lust of the flesh" (1 John 2:16). Satan tempted Jesus in all three categories of temptation – the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the boastful pride of life (1 John 2:16). Those were the same three categories in which he had tempted Eve back in the Garden of Eden (Genesis 3:1-6). The same three categories that John identified in 1 John 2:16 were catalogued by Moses in Gen. 3:6. Indeed, all temptations to sin can be identified as fitting into one or more of these three categories. "So there is nothing new under the sun" (Ecc. 1:9).

Luke 4:4, 8 - It is written: Twice Jesus responded to Satan, "It is written," referring to the Scriptures. Once he replied, "It is said" (Luke 4:12), also referring to the Scriptures. The better we know and apply Scripture, the better we are at distinguishing error from truth and resisting temptation. "Your word I have treasured in my heart, that I may not sin against You" (Psalm 119:11).

Luke 4:4 - Man shall not live by bread alone: Jesus quoted Deut. 8:3, where Moses instructed the Israelis that God had let them grow very hungry in the desert, and then had fed them with miraculous food, "manna." He had done this so that they might learn that man does not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God. In other words, they did not have to depend on the natural order of things for survival, but they must depend on what God said and provided. Jesus applied this same truth to himself. He didn't need bread to survive. He had to abide by what God said and provided. Obviously, God had not instructed Him to turn the stone into bread. Jesus would survive in this world by doing what God said, not what a natural man would conclude.

    - G 2 He can delegate authority over the world to anyone whom he wishes: and I give it to whomever I wish.
  - E 3 The condition of his offer: {7} "Therefore if You worship before me, 164 4:7a
  - E 4 His promise of delivery: it shall all be Yours." 4:7b

Luke 4:5 - showed Him all the kingdoms of the world: "World" is from oikoumenê (3625) "inhabited earth." This was a temptation in the area of the "lust of the eyes" (1 John 2:16). This was a diabolical temptation. Jesus knew He was destined to rule the nations of the world with a rod of iron (Psalm 2:8-9; Rev. 12:5; 19:15). Satan's plan would enable Jesus to bypass the suffering of the cross and receive immediate gratification. But the cost would be devastating. Jesus would then be forever subservient to Satan. And He would be unable to die as a perfect sacrifice for the sins of the world. Instead He would die for His owns sins. Salvation for mankind would be scuttled forever! What a ghastly thought!

Luke had used oikoumenê in Luke 2:1, describing Caesar Augustus' census of the "inhabited earth," meaning the Roman Empire. He also used it in Luke 21:26, describing the fear-inducing horrors that would come upon the "inhabited earth" during the Tribulation period. Luke used oikoumenê more often than any other NT author. He used it 3X in Luke and 5X in Acts.

<sup>162</sup> Luke 4:6 - for it has been handed over to me: Authority over the domain and glory of the inhabited earth had evidently been granted to Satan by God. Perhaps the process was that, when Satan successfully tempted Adam, the rightful sovereign over the earth, to sin, the former gained control over the earth. This is one of those mysteries. Satan is in control, and yet God is in control.

<sup>163</sup> Luke 4:6 - and I give it to whomever I wish: Jesus did not question Satan's authority to do so. Apparently two authorities are operating in this world: Satan places in authority over kingdoms the men (and demons) he chooses. Yet at the same time it is God who removes kings and sets up kings (Dan. 2:21; Rom. 13:1-7). This is incomprehensible to the human mind, yet both truths are operative. In my opinion, Satan's claim was only partially true. I do not believe he places into office good men who fear God. He cannot prevent that from happening. But many times he places into office corrupt men whom he can further corrupt and use. I think, for example, that Satan placed into office men like Adolf Hitler, Joseph Stalin, Pol Pot, and many other such evil men. This is not to deny, however, that God placed these men into office to accomplish a Divine agenda.

&lt;sup>164</sup> Luke 4:7 - if You worship before me: Literally, "if you bow down before me." In this context, to bow down is to worship. The word is proskuneō (4352). This word is used three times in Luke – here, in Luke 4:8 in the same context, and in Luke 24:52 of the disciples worshiping Jesus after He had ascended to heaven.

&lt;sup>165</sup> Luke 4:8 - You shall worship the Lord your God: Jesus quoted from Deut. 6:13 and 10:20 and, more remotely, Ex. 20:5. The word "worship" Jesus used here was, again, from proskuneō (4352) which means, literally, "to bend the knee," and, by implication, to worship.

leave 4:8 - and serve Him only: The word "serve" is from latreuō (3000), which connotes religious service. In Hebrew poetic style, "serve" (latreuō) in the second clause is parallel to "worship" (proskuneō, 4352) in the first. (See the preceding footnote.) Luke used latreuō two other times in Luke. He used it in quoting the prophecy of Zacharias, father of John the Baptist, in which he prophesied that the Messiah would be the instrument through whom Israel would be rescued from her enemies and serve (latreuō) God without fear (Luke 1:74). He also used it of the prophetess Anna, who served (latreuō) God night and day in the temple with fastings and prayers (Luke 2:37).

&lt;sup>167</sup> Luke 4:9 - If you are the Son of God: Once again, Satan assumed as true the fact that Jesus is the Son of God.

Luke 4:9 - throw yourself down from here: The point is, to my way of thinking, somewhat obscure. I think the best understanding is that Satan was hoping that Jesus understood that He would receive great acclaim and acceptance from the people as a supernatural person. This was evidently an appeal to "the boastful pride of life" (1 John 2:16).

Luke 4:10 - for it is written: It is important to be aware that Satan knows the Scripture. He quoted from Psalm 91:11-12. This temptation demonstrates that Satan can tempt us to misapply Scripture, twisting it to further our own agenda instead of following God's will. I have seen people do this.

<sup>170</sup> Luke 4:12 - you shall not put the LORD your God to the test: Jesus quoted from Deut. 6:16. It was obviously not God's plan for Jesus to hurl Himself headlong from the pinnacle of the temple. That would have been foolhardy. God does not want us to do stupid things presuming God will deliver us. We are to use our heads — be discreet. There is enough danger in life by simply living without our adding to that risk without warrant. That is putting God to the test.

<sup>171</sup> Luke 4:13 - temptation: One of the questions I was asked at my ordination council in 1974 was whether Jesus was "able not to sin" or "not able to sin." My reply then, and now, is that the reason the Holy Spirit drove Jesus into the wilderness, there to be tempted by the devil, was to prove that He was unable to sin. God cannot lie (Tit. 1:2). God cannot sin. Nevertheless, the temptations of Satan were real temptations, yet Jesus remained without sin (Heb. 4:15). If Jesus were merely a man, he would, like Eve and Adam, have been unable to resist the temptations of Satan. But since He was also God, He was unable to yield to them. Because of Jesus' whole experience with suffering while being tempted, He is better able to aid those who are tempted (Heb. 2:18).

Luke 4:16 - stood up to read: Evidently it was customary in a Jewish synagogue to stand to read the Scriptures. We do not know if Jesus was asked to read, and then teach, or if he volunteered to do so. Jesus, probably early in his ministry, was known widely as an itinerant rabbi (John 3:2).

<sup>173</sup> Luke 4:17 - the place where it was written: Jesus carefully quoted Isa. 61:1-2a, all of which predicted activities associated with His own First Advent. He stopped mid-sentence and did not read Isa. 61:2b, "And the day of vengeance of our God." This predicts His own Second Advent. This reading illustrates the carefulness with which Jesus interpreted Scripture. It is, furthermore, a classic illustration that interpreters need to distinguish carefully between prophetic events. Some can describe Jesus' First Advent, others His Second. Furthermore, some Scriptures can speak of events concerning the Tribulation in one breath, while jumping to the Millennium in the next. Similarly, Scriptures can speak of Christ's Millennial reign on the one hand, while speaking, in the next sentence, about His eternal reign in New Jerusalem. The student of prophetic Scripture must carefully interpret the details of Scripture.

<sup>177</sup> Luke 4:23 - do here in Your hometown as well: The people of Nazareth would wish for Jesus to perform miracles in his own town, just as He had done in neighboring cities, such as Capernaum. But because of their unbelief and their unwillingness to perceive of the uniqueness of the hometown boy, Jesus would refuse to perform miracles among them. Jesus was extremely accurate in His assessment of their unbelieving reaction toward Him. In a matter of moments, this crowd would seek to kill Him! Unbelievable!

Luke 4:26 - Sidon: Jesus' point was that, during the great famine caused by the great drought, no doubt there were many widows in Israel that needed help. Yet God sent Elijah to none of them, but only to a widow in a Gentile village in the greater Sidon area. Jesus' point was perhaps two-fold: (1) There was a great drought and a great famine in the land of Israel at that time precisely because of the wicked unbelief of King Ahab and his people, the majority of whom worshiped Baal. They did not believe in the true God! (2) Yet God had mercy upon a Gentile widow in a neighboring foreign country! #### B 2 Jesus' Ministry of Exorcism and Healing at Capernaum 4:31-44

Jesus' reference to miracles among the Gentiles was the last straw for this audience. They could stand Him no longer! "Let us kill Him!"

Gentiles.

<sup>179</sup> Luke 4:27 - but only Naaman the Syrian: Jesus' point was that, even though there were many lepers in Israel that could have been healed of their leprosy, God chose, through the ministry of Elisha, to heal none of them. Rather, He chose to heal only a Gentile leper, Naaman, a general from an enemy neighbor nation! Why? Jesus does not say. But evidently, as evidenced by the murderous reaction of the people of Nazareth to His sermon, because there was insufficient faith in Israel. Another reason is that God has always had a heart to reach out to the Gentiles (nations) of the world and bring them salvation. This has been true even though, for millennia, the people of Israel have been His chosen people. The exceedingly reluctant ministry of Jonah to Nineveh in Assyria is profound evidence of God's love for Gentiles.

Luke 4:28 - filled with rage: Matthew Henry notes that the people could not even finish their synagogue service! They were angry at being associated, in Jesus' two illustrations, with evil, unbelieving Jewish people. Jesus' predictions of their unbelief and His two illustrations of God's mercy to the Gentiles so enraged these fickle-hearted people of Nazareth that they immediately terminated their worship / instruction time and sought to kill the preacher!

        - H 2 His disassociation with Jesus: What business

Luke 4:33 - a man possessed by the spirit of an unclean demon: Literally, "a man having a spirit of an unclean demon ...." From our point of view, Luke was a bit redundant. If a man has an unclean spirit, he has a demon. A demon, daimónion (1140) is a spirit. If a man possesses a spirit of a demon, of course it will be unclean, akáthartos (169). But Luke is a physician, and he wishes to be very precise and very accurate. We will allow him to be that, not charging him with redundancy.

Luke 4:33 - he cried out with a loud voice: Obviously the man cried out. However, as the following text demonstrates, the demon was using the man's voice to speak on his own (the demon's) behalf.

<sup>183</sup> Luke 4:34 - Let us alone: The editors of the NASB have taken this single word, ea (1436) as being related to the imperative of the Greek verb eaō (1439). That is possible. More likely, as the Friberg Analytical Lexicon of the Greek New Testament (hereafter identified simply as Friberg) states, ea is a particle, not a verb. It is used as an exclamation of surprise or displeasure, as in "Ah ha!" Friberg identifies Luke 4:34 as an example of this latter usage. So it is more likely this passage should be translated literally as follows: "Ah ha! What is there between us and you, Jesus, Nazarene? [Nazarene is an adjective identifying Jesus as being from the town of Nazareth.] Have you come to destroy us? I have known who you are – the holy one of God!"

Luke 4:34 - What business do we have with each other: The NASB has given a bit of a paraphrase here, but it is an accurate one. Literally, the demon said, "What between us and you, Jesus, Nazarene?" As Jesus' response indicates, there was only one demon inside this man. Yet the demon does speak in the plural, "What between us ...." It is doubtful, from the next statement of the demon, that he had the man's best interests in mind. More likely he was thinking of himself and other demons active in the world. It is instructive to note that, apparently demons desire to use a human body to do their work. It is also interesting that this demon permitted the man to go to a synagogue service. Did the other worshipers know the man had a demon? We are not told. How many people with demons sit in church services today? Certainly, the demon wanted nothing whatever to do with Jesus. He viewed Jesus as an enemy, and one with greater power than he possessed.

Luke 4:34 - Jesus of Nazareth: In the Greek text, Nazareth is not a noun; it is an adjective. Literally, the demon identified his opponent as "Jesus, Nazarene." Of course, by "Nazarene" the demon was simply acknowledging that Jesus hailed from Nazareth, his (erstwhile) home town.

Luke 4:34 - Have you come to destroy us? The demon knew that Jesus had the power to destroy him and his fellow demons. (By "us" he meant he himself and his fellow demons, elsewhere active in the world.) He was concerned that now was the time of ultimate destruction. It was not. All Jesus did was to eject him from this man. We are not told where the demon went next. Most likely he began looking for another human to inhabit. The time of destruction for all demons is still many years distant. There is an "eternal fire which has been prepared for the devil and his messengers" (Matt. 25:41). That place is known as "the lake of fire and brimstone" (Rev. 20:10). Sadly, humans who do not submit to Jesus will also be thrown into that lake of fire (Matt. 25:41; Mark 9:48; Luke 16:24; Rev. 19:20; 20:11-15).

Luke 4:34 - I know who you are: The demon used the verb oida, derived from eido (1492). It (oida) appears in the Perfect tense, which indicates a completed knowledge of who Jesus actually was. He was explicit – he knew that Jesus was "the Holy One of the God."

Luke 4:35 - Jesus rebuked him: Jesus has authority over all demons. He does not have to compel them physically to depart from a man. He merely speaks, and the demon has no choice. After all Jesus was the agent through whom God spoke the entire universe into existence (Gen. 1:3; Ps. 33:6, 9; John 1:1-3; Col. 1:16; Heb. 11:3). Luke used the Aorist tense of the verb "rebuked" (epitimaō, 2008). He would use the same word with reference to Jesus" rebuking of the fever of Peter's mother-in-law (Luke 4:39).

Luke 4:35 - Be quiet: Literally, the word  $phimo\bar{o}$  (5392) refers to that which is used to tie something shut. Israelis were forbidden to muzzle an ox so it could not eat grain while engaged in the threshing process (1 Cor. 9:9; 1 Tim. 5:18). Jesus ordered the demon to be muzzled. Jesus used the Imperative Passive, "You be muzzled!" Some force external to the demon would muzzle him.

Luke 4:35 - demon had thrown him down: Why did Jesus permit the demon to do this to the man? In my opinion it is because a demon is a spirit and cannot be seen. How were the people to know the demon had exited the man? Only by some violent, unusual action. This convulsive action served Jesus' purpose without injuring the man.

In a much different setting, how were the early Christians and their onlookers to know that the Holy Spirit had descended upon them? Again, a spirit is unobservable. God, in His grace symbolized the entry of the Holy Spirit by the sound of a rushing, mighty wind, by flames of fire flickering on the heads of the Christians, and by their ability to speak in languages they had never learned (Acts 2:1-4).

Luke 4:35 - without doing him any harm: Though Jesus had permitted the demon to throw the man down upon the floor, all could see that the man was ompletely unharmed by the violent exit.

<sup>192</sup> Luke 4:36 - amazement came upon them all: The word translated "amazement" is thambos (2285), identified by Friberg "as an emotion in which awe and fear are mingled astonishment, amazement." The word is used only by Luke – in Luke 4:36; 5:9; Acts 3:10. Here, the audible conversation between the demon and Jesus, Jesus' stern rebuke and command, and the immediate, violent exit of the demon from the man were stunning testimonies to the power of Jesus. No Rabbi had ever taught the people of that synagogue with such incisiveness and demonstrable power! No wonder the audience were filled with a mixture of awe and fear!

In Luke 5:9 Simon and his companions were overcome with thambos by the boat-swamping catch of fish Jesus had miraculously provided. In Acts 3:10 the people in the temple were filled with thambos and ekstasis (1611) (ecstasy) at witnessing the crippled man Peter and John had just healed walking and leaping and praising God.

<sup>193</sup> Luke 4:38 - Simon's home: Simon (4613) is, of course, more commonly known in this day to readers as Peter (as in Luke 8:45). Simon, however, was his original name, and Luke called him simply "Simon" ten times, as he did here. Jesus gave him the nick-name of Peter (4074) (Luke 6:14), and twice Luke used the name "Peter" in connection with "Simon" (Luke 5:8; 6:14). More often, Luke referred to this disciple simply as "Peter" – seventeen times. Nowhere is this more clear than in Luke 22. Of all the gospel writers, it is John who most frequently combined the two names. "Simon Peter."

two names, "Simon Peter."

Evidently Capernaum, on the shore of the Sea of Galilee, was his home town. Simon's fisherman brother, Andrew (406), also lived in the same town and, indeed, in the same home (Mark 1:29-31). Jesus apparently made Capernaum his home town after Nazareth had rejected Him (Matt. 4:13).

<sup>194</sup> Luke 4:38 - Simon's mother-in-law: Peter is erroneously deemed by the Roman Catholic Church to be the first Pope. Yet Peter was married. The Roman Catholic dogma that priests and cardinals and popes must remain celibate obviously has no Biblical warrant. Sadly, Rome's insistence on celibacy has led to an alarming number of instances in which priests, who possess normal sexual desires, relieve their pent up libido on vulnerable boys. Some of the Reformers, such as Martin Luther, before they left the Catholic Church, begged the church to allow them to marry, but to no avail. Sad things happen when men insist that the traditions they have created carry the same weight as the Scriptures.

Luke 4:38 - they asked Him to help her: Luke does not identify who "they" are. The "they" probably does not include Simon's mother-in-law, whose "great" (megas, 3173) fever probably prevented her from doing anything but sleeping. Mark, probably tutored by Peter, adds the details that the home was that of both Simon and Andrew, and that they were accompanied by James and John (Mark 1:29). Probably the ones who asked Jesus to heal her His followers who had just witnessed His exorcism of a demon-possessed man in the synagogue (Luke 4:31-37).

&lt;sup>196</sup> Luke 4:39 - standing over her: The woman was too sick to do anything but lie in bed. Jesus leaned over her bedside to rebuke her fever.

    - E 3 Jesus rebuking them: But rebuking them,
    - E 4 His barring them from speaking: He would not allow them to speak,

Luke 4:39 - He rebuked the fever: Much as Jesus had rebuked the demon (Luke 4:35), so he rebuked (epitimaō, 2008) the woman's fever.

Luke 4:39 - she immediately got up and waited on them: As a rule, Biblical healings were instantaneous and complete. There was no gradual improvement, as is often the case when the natural mechanisms God created in the body to heal itself are at work. There was no recovery period for Simon's mother-in-law. She was instantly well enough to resume her normal duties as hostess. It is possible that she lived in the same home as her daughter and Simon and Andrew.

<sup>199</sup> Luke 4:40 - While the sun was setting: This long day had begun with a synagogue service during which Jesus had cast out a demon (Luke 4:31-37); continued with Jesus' healing of Peter's wife's mother (Luke 4:38-39); and now ended with a succession of healings and exorcisms of people who descended from all over Capernaum upon the home where Jesus was staying (Luke 4:40-41). It must have been, from a human point of view, an utterly exhausting day!

Luke 4:41 - He would not allow them to speak because the knew Him to be the Christ: John A. Martin has pointed out that Jesus came to earth to be acknowledged as the Messiah by man, not by demons (The Bible Knowledge Commentary NT Vol., p. 215).

Luke 4:44 - preaching in the synagogues of Judea: Two points are worth noting – (1) Jesus apparently made the Jewish synagogue the focal point of His ministry. This became a precedent for later evangelists. Paul and Barnabas, and later Paul and Silas also made it a regular part of their strategy to go to the Jewish synagogues in the Gentile cities in which they traveled. Only when rejected by the Jewish populace did they draw off the partly Jewish and mostly Gentile converts and establish a church separate from the synagogue. (2) Jesus had been ministering in Nazareth and Capernaum, cities of Galilee. He departed from there southward to proclaim His message in Judean synagogues.

- D 2 The situation of Jesus: He was standing by the lake of Gennesaret;<sup>203</sup> 5:1b
- D 3 The presence of boats 5:2
  - E 1 The availability of two boats: {2} and He saw two boats lying at the edge of the lake;
  - E 2 The boats were not being used: but the fishermen had gotten out of them and were washing their nets.
- D 4 Jesus' acquisition of a boat 5:3a
  - E 1 His entry into a boat: {3} And He got into one of the boats,
  - E 2 The owner of the boat: which was Simon's,
  - E 3 The request of Jesus: and asked him to put out a little way from the land
- D 5 Jesus' teaching from the boat 5:3b
  - E 1 His assumption of a rabbi's normal stance: And He sat
  - E 2 His unusual platform: and began teaching the people from the boat. <sup>205</sup>
- C 2 Simon's catching of a great quantity of fish at Jesus' instruction 5:4-7
  - D 1 The rabbi's conclusion of His lecture: {4} When He had finished speaking, 5:4a

&lt;sup>202</sup> Luke 5:1 - listening to the word of God: It is clear that Jesus was teaching as a rabbi. Evidently the circumstance of being near the shore and the crowd closing in on him in close proximity prevented Him from sitting, as Luke next narrated.

&lt;sup>205</sup> Luke 5:3 - teaching the people from the boat: Jesus, with His advanced knowledge of physics, knew that water serves as an excellent conveyor of sound. Perhaps the shore sloped enough so that, even if He were sitting, people could still see Him adequately, as well as hear Him. We do not know how large the boat was, but it is far less likely a person will tip a small boat over if he is sitting rather than standing.

I have heard a person who had recently visited Israel and had been shown the spot where, allegedly, Jesus taught from the lake, and had described it as a sharply sloping shoreline. It would have served as a natural amphitheater where people could sit and listen with excellent acoustics.

- D 2 His instruction to Simon to fish again: He said to Simon, "Put out into the deep water and let down your nets for a catch." 5:4b
- D 3 Simon's objection 5:5a
  - E 1 They had fished diligently all night: {5} Simon answered and said, "Master, <sup>206</sup> we worked hard all night
  - E 2 They had caught nothing: and caught nothing,
- D 4 Simon's acquiescence: but I will do as You say and let down the nets." 5:5b
- D 5 The result 5:6-7
  - E 1 Their large catch: {6} When they had done this, they enclosed a great quantity of fish, 5:6a
  - E 2 The breaking of their nets: and their nets began to break; 5:6b
  - E 3 Their signal for help: {7} so they signaled to their partners in the other boat for them to come and help them. 5:7a
  - E 4 The filling of both boats: And they came and filled both of the boats, 5:7b
  - E 5 The near swamping of both boats: so that they began to sink. 5:7c
- C 3 Simon's worship and confession of his own sinfulness 5:8-9
  - D 1 Simon Peter's observation: {8} But when Simon Peter saw that,
  - D 2 Simon's prostration before Jesus: he fell down <sup>207</sup> at Jesus' feet,

Luke 5:5 - Master: A somewhat unusual title of address for Jesus. It is used only seven times in the NT. The NASB translates each of them, "Master." The word is a form of epistatês (1988). According to the NASB Dictionary it means "a chief, commander." According to Friberg, it means "as a person of high status master, lord, used as a title by which to address Jesus." The first part of the word is the Grk. preposition epi, which means "above" or "over," while from the second part of the word, statês, we derive our English word, "status." One can easily see that an epistatês is someone who has status over others. Luke is the only NT writer to use this word. He used it in Luke 5:5; 8:24, 45; 9:33, 49; 17:13, always with reference to Jesus.

Luke 5:8 - fell down: prospiptō (4363) is used only 8X in the NT: Matt. 7:25 (winds slamming against a house); Mark 3:11 (unclean spirits falling down before Jesus); Mark 5:33 (woman with a hemorrhage prostrating herself before Jesus and confessing she touched Him); Mark 7:25 (Syrophoenician woman falling at Jesus' feet, begging Him to exorcise a demon from her daughter); Luke 5:8 (Peter prostrating Himself before Jesus); Luke 8:28 (a demon-possessed man falling down before Jesus), Luke 8:47 (parallel to Mark 5:33); Acts 16:29 (the fearful jailer falling down before Paul and Silas, asking what he could do to be saved).

As can be seen from all these examples, Peter probably was not worshiping Jesus so much as he was almost in a state of shock, and being in great awe and trepidation (see Luke 5:9), he threw himself at the feet of someone vastly

- D 3 Simon's exclamation 5:8c
  - E 1 His asking the Lord to depart: saying, "Go away from me Lord, <sup>208</sup>
  - E 2 His reason his own sinfulness: for I am a sinful man!"
- D 4 The astonishment of Simon and his co-workers 5:9
  - E 1 His and his companions' reaction: {9} For amazement <sup>209</sup> had seized him and all his companions

    - E 2 Their ancestry: sons of Zebedee,
    - E 3 Their business relationship with Simon: who were partners with Simon.

    - E 1 The person addressed: And Jesus said to Simon, <sup>210</sup> superior to himself. Clearly he seemed to recognize that Jesus was exceedingly holy, the powerful Messiah. His reaction was similar to that God imposed on Moses when the latter watched the burning bush – "take off your shoes – this is holy ground!" He realized he was a great sinner in contrast to holy Jesus and felt unworthy to be in the same proximity.

&lt;sup>209</sup> Luke 5:9 - amazement: The word is thambos (2285), identified by Friberg "as an emotion in which awe and fear are mingled astonishment, amazement." The word is used only by Luke – in Luke 4:36; 5:9; Acts 3:10. See the note at Luke 4:36 for a fuller discussion.

&lt;sup>210</sup> Luke 5:10 - Jesus said to Simon: Clearly Jesus perceived early in His ministry that Peter was a natural born leader. If you could convince him, you could convince his companions! Jesus addressed only Simon, but the others also followed! Obviously He meant them to overhear His conversation with Peter.

  - E 2 Their abandonment: they left everything <sup>213</sup>
  - E 3 Their pursuit: and followed Him. <sup>214</sup>

B 4 Jesus' Healing of Leprosy and Paralysis 5:12-25

- C 1 His healing of a leprous man 5:12-14
  - D 1 The presence of a leprous man: {12} While He was in one of the cities, behold, there was a man covered with leprosy; 5:12a
  - D 2 His begging of Jesus to cleanse him: and when he saw Jesus, he fell on his face and implored Him, saying, 5:12b

Matthew Henry, in his heading for the section of Luke 5:4-11, wrote in part, "The Recompense He Made to Peter for the Loan of His Boat ...." That is imaginative, but hardly Jesus' primary purpose. This miracle was not about fair trade, but to motivate Peter and his business partners to leave their business and come follow Him permanently! This miracle was his ultimate lure in detaching them from their fishing business to come fish for men. They took the bait and ran with it! With the kind of power and authority Jesus had demonstrated, why should they not follow Him and pursue His mission for their lives? They were instantly convinced, though in fairness, this was not the first miracle they had witnessed.

  - D 1 The spread of news about Jesus: {15} But the news about Him was spreading even farther, <sup>217</sup> 5:15a
  - D 2 The gathering of large crowds 5:15b

&lt;sup>215</sup> Luke 5:12 - Lord, if you are willing: The man called Jesus "Lord" (kurios, 2962) indicating Jesus' superiority. The "if" was deliberate. He did not know if Jesus was willing or unwilling. He was deferring to Jesus' will. (This is a third class conditional sentence in the text. See Corey Keating, Greek Conditional Sentences.)

&lt;sup>217</sup> Luke 5:15 - news about Him was spreading even farther: This was true despite, for example, the fact that Jesus had told the cleansed leper to say nothing about his healing (Luke 5:14).

    - E 2 His bearers' desire to bring him before Jesus: and they were trying to bring him in and to set him down in front of Him.

&lt;sup>218</sup> Luke 5:16 - slip away to the wilderness: One can hardly call Jesus introverted. Undoubtedly He possessed a balanced personality. However, despite the increasing crowds, Jesus found it necessary to seclude Himself regularly so He had time to focus on talking to God, His Father. What a Jesson!

Luke 5:17 - Pharisees and teachers of the law: Many of these men, to one degree or another, were elders of Israel. It is the duty of elders to stand guard over the purity of the teaching of the Law. In that respect, these men were simply doing their job. Unfortunately, the vast majority of them had a predisposition against believing in Jesus as the Messiah. They were spiritually blinded by Satan, and unable to absorb and assimilate spiritual truth. It was not long before they developed a consuming animus in regard to Jesus. That animus would soon raise its ugly head in tangible heated interactions with Jesus, and, increasingly, with murderous intent.

&lt;sup>221</sup> Luke 5:20 - seeing their faith: Jesus was impressed with the faith of the men. "Their faith," pistis (4102), refers primarily to the faith of the bearers of the paralytic. But possibly the paralytic himself also joined with them in believing. Presumably the men were carrying him because he wanted them to. The men's faith was demonstrated in their dogged persistence in getting this man to Jesus. Thinking outside the box, they took the man up on the flat roof of the house, tore off the tiles that were there, and lowered the man right in front of Jesus! They would not be deterred! They believed Jesus would help! Observe that faith is the prerequisite to forgiveness!

Luke 5:20 - Friend, your sins are forgiven you: While the NASB translation is permissible, it is not, perhaps, as accurate as it could be. More literally, Jesus said, "Man, they have been forgiven to you – the sins of you." There is another word for "friend." "Man" (anthropos, 444) should perhaps, in our language, be translated more formally as "Sir." The verb "forgiven" (aphiêmi, 863) Jesus used was indicative perfect passive. The indicative mood means He was stating a fact that was true. The perfect tense means that the man had been forgiven at some unstated time in the past. The passive voice means that someone else outside the man had already forgiven him his sins. The Pharisees and scribes assumed Jesus was talking about Himself – that He Himself had forgiven the man his sins. Jesus accepted their premise and responded accordingly to their misgivings.

Who can forgive sins, but God alone?" 223

- D 5 Jesus' successful healing of the paralytic to prove His Divine authority to forgive sins 5:22-26
  - E 1 Jesus' awareness of their logic: {22} But Jesus, aware of their reasonings, 5:22a

  - E 5 His commanding of the paralytic to pick up his stretcher and return home: —He said to the paralytic—"I say to you, 5:24b
    - G 1 Arise: get up,

Luke 5:21 - Who can forgive sins, but God alone? The Pharisees and scribes were exactly right. Only God can forgive sins. They understood that Jesus was forgiving this man his sins. They thought He was blaspheming. But on that count, they were wrong. Since Jesus is God (John 1:1), He had the authority to forgive sins.

&lt;sup>224</sup> 5:23 - Which is easier, to say, 'Your sins have been forgiven you,': Jesus' point – It was easier to say, "Your sins are forgiven," than to say, "Rise up, pick up your bed and walk." The reason is this: Who is going to know whether the man's sins are actually forgiven or not? But all can readily see if the man gets up, picks up his bed, and walks away.

<sup>225 5:24 -</sup> the Son of man has authority on earth to forgive sins: This is the first time the designation, "Son of man" is used by Luke in his gospel. All told, he uses it 24 times in this gospel. It seems to be a technical term used by Jesus to describe Himself as the Messiah in a slightly oblique way. Its sense seems to be that He is claiming to be the Ultimate Man. And He is absolutely correct. As God's Ultimate Anointed One, He is the Ultimate Man. Additionally, He is the Representative Man. He would die for the sins of all mankind. God's first created man was the First Adam, and Jesus is the Second Adam (1 Cor. 15:22, 45). The First Adam brought death to all. The Second Adam brought the potential of life to all. In this first use of the title, "Son of man," Jesus asserted His authority as Messiah to forgive sins, something which only God can do. Since as Messiah He is not only man, but God, He has authority to forgive sins.

&lt;sup>226</sup> 5:24 - so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins: To prove that He had the power to forgive sins, Jesus next would make good on the more difficult statement to speak – commanding the man to rise up, pick up his bed, and return home.

B 5 Jesus' Deliberate Departure from Tradition 5:27 - 6:16

C 1 In His association with tax collectors and sinners 5:27-32

<sup>5:24 -</sup> stretcher: klinidion (2826), the diminutive of klinê (2825). A klinidion in this context was a small mat or cot for carrying a sick person. It was not a full-sized bed. "Stretcher" is quite appropriate. Interestingly, Luke, the physician, was the only person in the entire NT to use the term klinidion. He did so twice, in Luke 5:19, 24.

<sup>229 5:26 -</sup> astonishment: The word Luke used was ekstasis (1611), from which we derive the English "ecstasy." Literally (NASB Dictionary) ekstasis is "a displacement (of the mind), i.e. bewilderment, ecstasy." Luke is the most frequent user of this word, but this is the only occasion in which he used it in his gospel. In Acts he used it in Acts 3:10; 10:10; 11:5; 22:17. Elsewhere it was used in Matt. 5:42 and in Mark 16:8.

&lt;sup>230</sup> 5:26 - fear: Few people today understand that when humans see the power of Jesus on display when He returns to rule this earth, fear will be an appropriate response. We read in Matt. 24:30; Rev. 1:7 that "all the tribes of the earth will mourn over Him" at His Second Coming. I believe that is a mourning of fear.

- D 1 Jesus' successful invitation to Levi to follow Him 5:27-28
  - E 1 Jesus' departure: {27} After that He went out
  - E 2 His observation of a tax collector: and noticed a tax collector
    - G 1 His name: named Levi <sup>232</sup>
    - G 2 His activity: sitting in the tax booth,

  - E 1 Levi's reception for Jesus: {29} And Levi gave a big reception for Him in his house; 5:29a
  - E 2 The large crowd eating at the reception 5:29b
    - G 1 and there was a great crowd of tax collectors
    - G 2 and other people who were reclining at the table with them.

Luke 5:27 - Levi: Luke calls him "Levi" (Luke 5:27, 29), as does Mark (Mark 2:14), but Matthew calls himself "Matthew" (Matthew 9:9; 10:3). Luke later identified the same person as "Matthew" (Luke 6:15). Matthew acknowledges his status as a tax collector when Jesus called him and he followed (Matt. 9:9), but he himself does not reveal the identity of the person hosting the festivities for "many tax collectors and sinners" (Matt. 9:10-11). Luke, however, is not so reticent. He reveals that it was Levi (Matthew) who hosted the party (Luke 5:29-32). So does Mark (Mark 2:15-17). It is from Mark that we learn the name of Levi's father, Alphaeus (Mark 2:14).

Luke 5:28 - began to follow Him: Luke used the imperfect tense of akalouthé $\bar{o}$  (190) - Levi was continually following Jesus.

&lt;sup>235</sup> Luke 5:32 - but sinners to repentance: Jesus' logic was impeccable. If the righteous have already repented and do not need to do so again, why spend all one's time with them? It is the unrighteous, sinners, who need to repent. One must spend time with them to encourage them to repent. Jesus, impervious to the siren temptations of the world, the flesh, and the devil, was not sullied by associating with people in the world. Some Christians are so weak they give in to the temptations encountered by associating with people in the world (Psalm 1:1). It is not advisable for a recovering alcoholic to seek converts for Christ in a bar. Nor is it advisable for a man who struggles with sexual restraint and pornography to enter a house of prostitution to be a witness.

drink." 236

- D 2 The three-fold, parabolic response of Jesus 5:34-39
  - E 1 The analogy of the bridegroom 5:34-35
    - G 1 The impropriety of the bridegroom's attendants fasting while the bridegroom is still present: {34} And Jesus said to them, "You cannot make the attendants of the bridegroom fast while the bridegroom is with them, can you? <sup>237</sup> 5:34
    - G 2 One day the bridegroom will not be present: {35} "But the days will come; and when the bridegroom is taken away from them, <sup>238</sup> 5:35a
    - G 3 Then His disciples will fast: then they will fast in those days." 5:35b
  - E 2 The parable of mending 5:36
    - G 1 The identification of the genre: {36} And He was also telling them a parable:
    - G 2 The impropriety of patching an old garment with new fabric: "No one tears a piece of cloth from a new garment and puts it on an old garment; 239
    - G 3 The undesirable consequences
      - H 1 Tearing: otherwise he will both tear the new,
      - H 2 Not matching: and the piece from the new will not match the old.

Luke 5:34 - You cannot make the attendants of the bridegroom fast while the bridegroom is with them, can you: Jesus answered the objections of the Pharisees with three parables or analogies – wedding feast, mending, and wine. In the first instance, Jesus likened Himself to the bridegroom at a wedding feast. Of course the bridegroom would eat and drink, and of course, his attendants (the disciples) would eat and drink. That was to be expected.

Luke 5:35 - the bridegroom is taken away from them: Jesus spoke of His ascension back to the right hand of His Father in heaven. When the bridegroom had left, the festivities would subside. Then His disciples would revert to the practice of fasting.

Luke 5:36 - No one tears a piece of cloth from a new garment and puts it on an old garment: Jesus compared the Pharisees' view of religion and worship to an old garment that needed patching. Their "clothing" didn't need patching – it needed to be replaced with an entirely new wardrobe!

- E 3 The parable of wine and wineskins 5:37-39
  - G 1 The impropriety of storing new wine in old wineskins: {37} "And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; <sup>240</sup> 5:37a
  - G 2 The undesirable result: otherwise the new wine will burst the skins and it will be spilled out, and the skins will be ruined. 5:37b
  - G 3 The proper storage of new wine: {38} "But new wine must be put into fresh wineskins. 5:38
  - G 4 The natural preference for old wine 5:39
    - H 1 Old wine tastes better: {39} "And no one, after drinking old wine wishes for new;
    - H 2 The preference stated: for he says, 'The old is good enough." <sup>241</sup>

  - D 1 Jesus' defense of His disciples' eating from standing grain on the Sabbath 6:1-5

    - E 2 The time: on a Sabbath; 6:1b
    - E 3 The disciples' activity 6:1c
      - G 1 Picking grain: and His disciples were picking the heads of grain,

Luke 5:39 - The old is good enough: Jesus was not complimenting the Pharisees. Human nature resists change, especially when the human grows old. The Pharisees and their disciples, and even John and his disciples were used to the old way of worshiping and living – an emphasis on self-deprivation and fasting. They would not be inclined to change their minds and join Jesus and His disciples in eating and drinking – especially not with tax collectors and sinners!

One of the easiest ways to see what Jesus was saying in action today is to talk to Christians about their taste for music. The older people grow, the more they yearn for what was familiar in their younger days. I am living in my eighth decade. I do not particularly appreciate attending a new church and finding I have never heard of any of the songs we are asked to sing. I much prefer songs with which I am already familiar. Jesus' teaching and practices were bringing in "new wine."

There would naturally be an adverse reaction to His teaching and way of looking at life. That doesn't mean the Pharisees were justified in their approach. Jesus was merely commenting on an inevitable clash of subcultures.

- D 2 Jesus' deliberate healing on the Sabbath of a man with a withered hand, incurring the wrath of the scribes and Pharisees 6:6-11

<sup>243</sup> Luke 6:5 - The Son of man is Lord of the Sabbath: This is Jesus' second use of the Messianic title, "Son of man", in Luke's gospel. For further information on the title see the footnote at Luke 5:24 - the Son of man has authority on earth to forgive sins. As was Jesus' first use of this title (asserting authority to forgive sins), this use, authority to determine what is legitimate practice on the Sabbath, was extremely controversial, though the record here (Luke 6:1-5) does not show it. The next incident on the Sabbath day, healing a man in the synagogue service, would fill the Pharisees and their scribes with rage, and would prompt their eventual consideration of murder.

    - G 4 His allotted time: and He spent the whole night in prayer to God.

&lt;sup>244</sup> Luke 6:11 - filled with rage: There was no possible way for the bulk of the scribes and Pharisees to be convinced that Jesus' interpretation of "What work is allowable on the Sabbath day" was superior to their interpretation. They were blinded by Satan, and unable to know the truth either about Jesus' identity or about His teaching. It was impossible for them to trust in Jesus' person and words and works because, in Jesus' terms, they were not of His sheep (John 10:24-29). In other words, they were not among the elect (Matt. 22:14; 24:24, 31; Mark 13:20; John 15:16; Rom. 8:33; Eph. 1:4; Col. 3:12; Tit. 1:1; 1 Pet. 2:9; Rev. 17:14).

I recently was reading from a brief commentary, Genesis (Tyndale OT Commentaries) by Derek Kidner, then a British scholar respected by evangelicals. He wrote it nearly sixty years ago, in 1967. In his introduction he was wrestling with the teaching of Genesis 1 of a recent creation in light of the assertions of modern day evolutionary scientists, who preach what is in their minds the irrefutable evidence of an ancient world and life. According to them, the geologic strata and fossils were laid down during the course of many millions of years. Kidner's sad compromise is that God created through evolution. The interesting thing is that Kidner was at least acquainted with an alternative, scientific/theological view — that the geologic strata and fossils were laid down in a year's time during the course of Noah's Flood. He even cites the book that first eloquently supported this view from a scientific viewpoint, The Genesis Flood, written by John C. Whitcomb and Henry M. Morris. But then, sadly, in my view, he dismissed the brilliant explanation of Whitcomb and Morris with a wave of his pen (in his footnote on p. 28), "it has not won support amongst professional geologists." I sat there after reading his conclusion, stunned. What did he think? Did he think scores of thousands of unbelieving scientists, blinded by Satan, would rejoice in and embrace the truths that a godly hydrology engineer and theologian would publish?

There was no more chance that the world's scientific community would embrace Whitcomb and Morris's book than there was that the scribes and Pharisees would embrace Jesus' authority to heal on the Sabbath. But the opposition of the world, deluded and blinded by Satan, does not alter either the truth of a young earth or the truth of Jesus' right to heal on the Sabbath. The only surprising thing is that, in my view, Kidner had himself fallen prey to the delusion of Satan as proclaimed in the evolutionary hypothesis. He permitted the ever-changing opinions of godless scientists to alter his biblical exegesis. He himself admits this is a serious charge (pp. 30-31).

He is always listed first in the lists of disciples. Jesus changed Simon's name to Peter (stone). His name is Cephas in Aramaic. Peter is the author of two NT letters, 1 and 2 Peter. He is the predominant leader in Acts 1-12, but Paul is the dominant leader in Acts 13-28. Luke, of course, wrote both this gospel and the history of Acts.

this gospel and the history of Acts.

The position of the Roman Catholic Church that Peter was the first Pope has no basis in the text of Scripture. It is based upon a misinterpretation of Matthew 16:18, and upon the unproven and flawed dogma of apostolic succession.

James, son of Zebedee, is to be distinguished from another James in the NT. It was James, the half-brother of Jesus who became a leader in the early church (Acts 12:17; 15:13; 21:18; 1 Cor. 15:7; Gal. 1:19; 2:9), and later wrote the letter that bears his name (James 1:1).

Luke 6:14 - John: John is often listed second in lists as the brother of James. Their mother once requested that her sons sit at Jesus' right and left hands in His kingdom. The other disciples were understandably incensed. Jesus asked if they were willing to be baptized with His baptism. He meant suffer as He would suffer. They answered in the affirmative, but they obviously did not know what Jesus meant. Jesus said that position was not His to give. That prerogative rested, rather, with His Father.

John was a companion of Peter during Jesus' trials and at the empty tomb as well. John turned out to be one of the more prolific writers of the NT. His contributions included his gospel, the most different of the four gospels. About 92% of John's gospel is unique material. He also wrote three brief letters — 1st, 2nd, and 3rd John. He also wrote the most eschatologically-oriented document of the whole Bible, the book of Revelation. He seems to have lived longer than any other disciple, finally dying ca. A.D. 96.

Luke 6:14 - Philip: Little is known about Philip, except for the information included in John's Gospel. There we learn of Jesus' invitation to Philip to follow Him (John 1:43). Philip was from Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter (John 1:44). Shortly thereafter, Philip found Nathanael, who hailed from Cana in Galilee (John 21:2), and announced that he and his companions had found the One announced in the Law and the Prophets, i.e., the Messiah, identifying Him as Jesus of Nazareth. Nathanael, also known as Bartholomew (Luke 6:14), was dubious. But Philip invited him to come talk to Jesus and see for himself (John 1:45-46).

Luke 6:14 - Bartholomew: His name in Aramaic means "Son of Tolmai" (John MacArthur's commentary on Matthew 8-15, p. 158). MacArthur also notes that Bartholomew is always paired with Philip. In John 1:45-51 he is also identified as Nathanael. In that passage, Philip announced to Nathanael (Bartholomew) that he and his comrades had found the Messiah. Nathanael was dubious (John 1:45-46), but he evidently decided to follow up on Philip's invitation to come and see for himself (John 1:47). When Jesus saw Nathanael coming, He candidly identified him as an Israeli who had no hidden agenda (John 1:47). Surprised, Nathanael asked how Jesus knew him. Jesus replied that He had seen Nathanael underneath the fig tree before Philip had called him (John 1:48). Upon hearing this, Nathanael responded, "Rabbi, You are the Son of God; You are the King of Israel!" (John 1:49). Jesus responded that Nathanael would see greater things than these (John 1:50-51).

Luke 6:15 - Matthew: This is the disciple Luke has previously identified as "Levi" (Luke 5:27, 29). For more information see the note on "Levi" at Luke 5:27.

&lt;sup>252</sup> Luke 6:15 - Thomas: I identify Thomas as a "cynic" on several counts. First, because he gloomily exhorted his fellow disciples to travel to Jerusalem with Jesus and die with Him (John 11:16). Second, because he dared ask a question no one else would ask (John 14:1-5). And third, because he later refused to believe Jesus had been resurrected until he himself saw Him (John 20:24-29). Thomas was called Didymus (John 11:16; 20:24), which means "Twin."

&lt;sup>253</sup> Luke 6:15 - James the son of Alphaeus: He is identified as James the Less in Mark 15:40. "Less" (mikrós) may mean "smaller" or "younger." The sense of "smaller" may mean that he was shorter in stature than James, Son of Zebedee, or that he was less influential (so John MacArthur, commentary on Matthew 8-15, p. 167). ****

Luke 6:15 - Simon who was called the Zealot: Literally, "and Simon, the one being called "Zealot." See also Matthew 10:4 and This was not his surname, but his nickname. He evidently belonged to a group who were either (a) zealous for religion (so Matthew Henry and Adam Clarke) or (b) zealous for nationalism and patriotism, wanting to be free from the rule of Rome (Friberg, MacArther). I think the latter is the more likely in the case of Simon, for the party of the Pharisees, who were scrupulously religious, already existed in Jesus' day. However, it is possible, as Clarke intimates, that the group was originally zealous of religion and eventually morphed into something more sinister. Zealots were freedom fighters who waged guerilla warfare. Josephus called them sicarii (Latin for "daggermen") because of their frequent assassinations. It may be that this Simon and Judas Iscariot were always listed together because they were "two of a kind." See John MacArthur's commentary on Matthew, p. 170, for more information.

      - G 2 The reason: for you shall be satisfied. <sup>260</sup>
    - E 4 They are blessed who weep 6:21b

&lt;sup>257</sup> Luke 6:20 - turning His gaze toward His disciples: It must be remembered that these blessings do not apply universally to mankind. They apply to those among mankind who are already disciples of Jesus and are mistreated for that reason.

Luke 6:20 - you who are poor: Jesus pronounced a blessing on those who are poor for the sake of the kingdom of God. Their blessing would be the privilege of participating in the kingdom of God (see below).

Luke 6:20 - for yours is the kingdom of God: Those who are poor for the sake of the kingdom of God will receive the blessing of being able to participate in that kingdom (Matt. 25:31-34, 46). There is a sense in which God's kingdom is eternal (Psa. 45:6), but that is not what Jesus meant here. Here He states that those who are poor for His sake will participate in His Millennial Kingdom here on earth (Isa. 2:1-4; Zech. 14:9, 16-21; Rev. 20:6), and in His Eternal Kingdom upon New Earth (Rev. 21:1-22:5). The capital city of the former kingdom is present Jerusalem; of the latter kingdom is New Jerusalem.

 $<sup>^{260}</sup>$  Luke 6:21 - you shall be satisfied: Those who go hungry for the sake of the kingdom of God will never go hungry in that kingdom (as defined in Luke 6:20).

- D 2 Woe to the rich, well-fed, happy, well-spoken of 6:24-26

&lt;sup>261</sup> Luke 6:21 - for you shall laugh: Those who weep because of ill-treatment for the sake of the kingdom of God (see the note at Luke 6:20) will laugh for joy in that kingdom.

Luke 6:22 - for the sake of the Son of Man: It is clear that Jesus was speaking of rewards for believers who are mistreated for His sake. He was not speaking of rewarding all people in this life who are ill-treated.

&lt;sup>263</sup> Luke 6:23 - your reward is great in heaven: There is no justification here for the "Prosperity Gospel" found in many Pentecostal / Charismatic quarters. Jesus did not promise Christians today either health or prosperity based in part on a misapplication of Isa. 53:5 "... and by His stripes we are healed" (AV). Rather he spoke of a future reward, not a present-day reward. Jesus told us we are to "store up" for ourselves "treasures in heaven" (Matt. 5:19-21).

  - E 2 Treat well those who hate you: do good to those who hate you, 6:27b

Luke 6:24 - woe to you are rich: We must understand Jesus to be referring to those who, though they do not follow Christ, are yet wealthy. They have their full reward in this life. They will lose all they have in the next.

&lt;sup>267</sup> Luke 6:25 - Woe to you who laugh now: Those who do not follow the Messiah, yet always seem to live a life filled with amusement should enjoy it now. In the next life they will weep and mourn.

&lt;sup>268</sup> Luke 6:26 - Woe to you when all men speak well of you: If all applaud you, it is a sign that you are not follower of Christ. Your fate will be no better off than that of the false prophets, who were widely acclaimed for their popular, but false messages.

B 2 Jesus' Teaching of Greatest Faith and Greatest Power 7:1-17

- C 1 His healing at a distance the son of the greatly-believing and Jewish-friendly Roman centurion 7:1-10
  - D 1 The background of the miracle 7:1
    - E 1 Jesus' completion of His teaching: {1} When He had completed all His discourse in the hearing of the people,
    - E 2 His departure to Capernaum: He went to Capernaum.
  - D 2 The condition of a centurion's slave 7:2
    - E 1 His identity: {2} And a centurion's slave, <sup>269</sup>

- E 2 His esteem: who was highly regarded by him, <sup>270</sup>
- E 3 His desperate condition
  - G 1 was sick
  - G 2 and about to die.
- D 3 The centurion's action 7:3
  - E 1 Having heard about Jesus: {3} When he heard about Jesus,
  - E 2 His request through some Jewish elders: he sent some Jewish elders <sup>271</sup> asking Him to come and save the life of his slave
- D 4 The intervention of the Jewish elders 7:4-5
  - E 1 Their begging of Jesus: {4} When they came to Jesus, they earnestly implored Him, <sup>272</sup>
  - E 2 Their intervention on the centurion's behalf
    - G 1 His eligibility: saying, "He is worthy for You to grant this to him;
    - G 2 Their proof
      - H 1 His love for Israel: {5} for he loves our nation
      - H 2 His having built their synagogue: and it was he who built us our synagogue."
- D 5 The message from the centurion's friends 7:6-8

&lt;sup>270</sup> Luke 7:2 - was highly regarded by him: In the Greek text, this descriptive phrase appears last. "A certain centurion, moreover, whose slave was sick and about to die, (and) was by him highly regarded" (author's literal translation). This demonstrates that even in a world of slavery, there were slave-owners who were kind and compassionate. The centurion placed such a high value on this slave that he made considerable effort to contact Jesus and secure a healing from Him.

Luke 7:3 - he sent some Jewish elders: Though this centurion was a relatively highly -placed officer in the Roman army, he was, nevertheless a man of faith and rapport. Somehow he had such a degree of respect for and familiarity with the Jewish leadership of Capernaum that he dared send the elders of the synagogue/community to Jesus on a mission asking Him to come heal his slave. The Roman centurion had faith in the God of Israel. What is more, as the account unfolds, he had great faith in Jesus! We believers will see this man in heaven!

Luke 7:4 - they earnestly implored Him: Luke described these Jewish elders as using two words, "earnestly implored", both of which connote an aura of urgency in their appeal to Jesus. This is rather amazing for Jewish elders to appeal so urgently to Jesus, of all people, on behalf of a Gentile army officer, of all people! Their advocacy is based upon two things: (1) the Roman army officer loved the nation of Israel and (2) he had contributed heavily toward the building of their synagogue (Luke 7:4).

- E 1 The proximity of Jesus
  - G 1 Having begun His journey: {6} Now Jesus started on His way with them;
  - G 2 His approach: and when He was not far from the house,
- E 2 The identification of the second delegation: the centurion sent friends, saying to Him,
- E 3 The request of the centurion through his messengers
  - G 1 For Jesus not to come any closer: "Lord, do not trouble Yourself further,
  - G 2 The centurion's unworthiness
    - H 1 For Jesus to enter his home: for I am not worthy for You to come under my roof; <sup>273</sup>
    - H 2 To even meet Jesus personally: {7} for this reason I did not even consider myself worthy to come to You,
  - G 3 The centurion's request: but just say the word,
  - G 4 The centurion's faith: and my servant will be healed.
  - G 5 The centurion's rationale
    - H 1 His acknowledgment of his own subordinate position: {8} "For I also am a man placed under authority, 274
    - H 2 His own position of authority: with soldiers under me;

&lt;sup>273</sup> Luke 7:6 - I am not worthy for You to come under my roof: This Gentile army officer, though he lived in a country his army had conquered, far from feeling superior to the Jewish people, loved their nation. He understood the reluctance that all Jews would feel even to enter the home of a Gentile. Yet, one senses that his deference to Jesus went beyond that.

Luke 7:8 - For I also am a man placed under authority: This is most striking. The officer states that he himself, like Jesus, is a man placed under authority. It might almost appear that this Roman centurion understood better than most Israelis who Jesus was. It almost appears he understood that Jesus was the Jewish King, the Messiah, operating under the authority of God Himself. He compared himself to Jesus. He himself was under the authority of the Roman Emperor. Yet, just as he had delegated authority to order his soldiers, and they complied, he believed that the Israeli Messiah, operating under the authority of God, also had authority to order things to be done, and they would be done. This man's perception is nothing short of amazing!

H 3 His use of authority

  - E 1 His departure to Nain: {11} Soon afterwards He went to a city called Nain;
  - E 2 His accompaniment
    - G 1 By His disciples: and His disciples were going along with Him,

Luke 7:9 - He marveled at him: Jesus was amazed by this Roman centurion's faith. As spelled out above, I think Jesus understood that this army officer believed He, Jesus, was the Israeli Messiah, the King of Israel. I cannot be dogmatic about that, but one day I hope to speak personally with this centurion and ascertain if my hunch is correct or not.

&lt;sup>276</sup> Luke 7:9 - not even in Israel have I found such great faith: Part of what leads me to my conclusion about this Roman centurion is that Jesus was astounded at him. He had not found anyone in Israel who had as much faith in Him as this Roman officer. Others, of course, had faith that Jesus could heal. But this centurion's faith appears to go beyond that. He seems to have fully understood who Jesus really was, and in that sense believed in Him. Even Jesus' own disciples, apparently, had not yet fully comprehended who Jesus was and what that meant in practical terms. But this army man had!

  - E 1 Instantaneous return to life
    - G 1 Sitting up: {15} The dead man sat up

Luke 7:14 - Young man: Jesus addressed him as a neaniskos (3495). The context helps us determine the parameters of his age. He was probably someone at the very youngest, a late teenager (18 or 19) or perhaps a man in the prime of his life – in his 20's or 30's. See these examples: Matt. 19:20, 22; Mark 14:51; 16:5; Acts 5:10. The young man who was Paul's nephew and came to report to him an impending ambush (Acts 23:18, 22) was obviously younger than that – young enough to be led by the hand (Acts 23:19). The context must determine the approximate age.

B 3 Jesus' Teaching Regarding John the Baptist 7:18-35

- C 1 John's querying if Jesus were really the One Coming 7:18-20
  - D 1 The report to John the Baptist: {18} The disciples of John reported to him about all these things. 7:18
  - D 2 The mission of John the Baptist: {19} Summoning two of his disciples, John sent them to the Lord, saying, "Are You the Expected One, or do we look for someone else?" 7:19
  - D 3 The relayed question of John the Baptist: {20} When the men came to Him, they said, "John the Baptist has sent us to You, to ask, 'Are You the Expected One, or do we look for someone else?"

&lt;sup>278</sup> Luke 7:16 - fear gripped them all: Fear would be the appropriate reaction to exhibit if a bystander raised a dead young man back to life in the middle of his own funeral procession! If we were to have witnessed that event, we would have had the same reaction – what kind of man is this who can bring the dead back to life in an instant?

Luke 7:16 - A great prophet has arisen among us! They were, of course, entirely correct (see Jesus Christ as Prophet). However, He was a great deal more than that. He was also priest and king. In other words, He was the longed for Jewish Messiah, both human and Divine. The sons of Israel should have understood that. Alas, as a whole, they did not.

    - E 1 Their acknowledgment of God's justice: they acknowledged God's justice,
    - E 2 Their having submitted to baptism by John: having been baptized with the baptism of John.
  - D 2 The disapproval of the sophisticated Pharisees and lawyers: {30} But the Pharisees and the lawyers <sup>286</sup> 7:30
    - E 1 Their rejection of God's purpose: rejected God's purpose for themselves,
    - E 2 Their refusal to be baptized by John: not having been baptized by John.
  - D 3 Jesus' setting forth of an analogy 7:31-32
    - E 1 His question about comparison: {31} "To what then shall I compare the men of this generation, <sup>287</sup> and what are they like? 7:31

What Jesus was saying was that, as great as John was in preparing people for that coming kingdom, while still (at that point) being outside it, the most insignificant person who will one day live in that coming kingdom will be greater than John is now. The kingdom to which Jesus referred will initially consist of the future Millennial Reign of Jesus upon this present earth. That kingdom will morph into the Eternal Co-Regency of God and Christ over New Earth from their Dual Throne (Rev. 22:3) in New Jerusalem.

Luke 7:28 - yet he who is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he: Jesus was not saying that John would never make it into the kingdom. Of course he will. But the kingdom had not yet started. Even today the kingdom that Jesus offered to Israel has not yet begun. Rather, as Luke quoted Jesus Himself, the man of royal birth, Jesus, would have to depart to a distant country – heaven – to await His kingdom and then return to earth to reign (Luke 11:11-13). Jesus has departed to heaven, but He still has not returned, and His kingdom has not yet begun (Psalm 110:1-2).

&lt;sup>287</sup> Luke 7:31 - the men of this generation: Jesus was here describing the educated, sophisticated people (the Pharisees and lawyers) who had rejected John's baptism and now Jesus. The word "men" here is the plural of anthropos (444). In Luke 7:29, it was the common people (plural of laos, 2992) who gladly accepted John and his message of repentance, submitting to God in baptism.

    - G 3 They concluded he had a demon: and you say, 'He has a demon!'
  - E 2 Their hypocritical rebuke of Jesus' liberality 7:34
    - G 1 Jesus' practice of eating and drinking: {34} "The Son of Man has come eating and drinking,
    - G 2 Their condemnation of Jesus: and you say,
      - H 1 He is a glutton: 'Behold, a gluttonous man
      - H 2 He is a drunkard: and a drunkard,
      - H 3 He defiles himself by associating with outcasts
        - J 1 Tax collectors: a friend of tax collectors
        - J 2 Sinners: and sinners!'
  - E 3 In spite of the Pharisees' and lawyers' hypocritical rejection of John and Jesus, the wisdom of John and Jesus' teaching was demonstrated by their many adherents among the common people: {35} "Yet wisdom is vindicated by all her

&lt;sup>288</sup> Luke 7:32 - like children ... in the marketplace: Jesus likened the lawyers and Pharisees to dictatorial children who always try to organize the other children into doing what they, the dictators, want. They grow frustrated with the other children, who finally refuse to be manipulated any longer. The lawyers and Pharisees wanted the people to join them in lockstep in repudiating both John, whom they characterized as an ascetic, and Jesus, whom they characterized as a partier. But the common people did neither.

  - D 7 Jesus' application of the parable 7:44-47

&lt;sup>290</sup> Luke 7:40 - Teacher: Luke has Simon using the more common Greek word didaskolos (1320), not the less common Hebrew word rabbi (4461). Both mean, simply, "teacher," and both are a term of respect.

B 5 Jesus' Teaching with Emphasis on Parables 8:1-21

- C 1 His practice of proclaiming in many cities the kingdom of God accompanied by the twelve and supported by certain women 8:1-3
  - D 1 The time: {1} Soon afterwards, 8:1a
  - D 2 His movement: He began going around from one city and village to another, 8:1b
  - D 3 His activity: proclaiming and preaching the kingdom of God. <sup>291</sup> 8:1c

    - E 1 The twelve: The twelve were with Him, 8:1d
    - E 2 Certain women 8:2-3
      - G 1 Women who had been healed: {2} and also some women who had been healed 8:2a
      - G 2 Their ailments 8:2b

&lt;sup>291</sup> Luke 8:1 - the kingdom of God: Proclaiming the kingdom of God was Jesus' passionate pursuit. By "kingdom of God" we are not supposed to understand the Church Age, in which we live today. The kingdom Jesus preached was the one prophesied repeatedly in the OT in such passages as Psa. 2:1-12; 110:1-7; Isa. 2:1-4; 9:6-7; 11:1-16; 60:1-22; 61:2-11; 62:1-12; 65:17-25; 66:10-24; Ezek. 40-48; Dan. 2:44; 7:13-14; Zech. 14:1-21 and in the NT in such passages as Matt. 19:28; 24:29-31; 25:1-46; Luke 1:26-33, 66-75; Acts 1:6; 2 Thess. 1:5-10; 2 Thess. 2:8; Rev. 19:11-20:6; Rev. 21:1-22:5.

Jesus is not presently reigning in the kingdom which he was here proclaiming. If He is, the people of Israel are completely oblivious of the fact. Moreover, He is an extremely ineffective King, for evil and evil people abound on this earth. Instead of presently reigning as King, He presently serves as High Priest in heaven at the right hand of God, as the Book of Hebrews makes abundantly clear. Meanwhile, He is awaiting the time when the kingdom will be granted to Him and He will return to reign upon the throne of David in Jerusalem (Psalm 110:1, 4; Luke 19:11-13). In other words, David's throne must be upon earth, not in heaven. That is how the kingdom was always meant to be, and that is how it will eventuate.

Luke 8:21 - these who hear the word of God and do it: There were those among His audience who wanted to hear what He had to say. But which of them would also obey? Those were Jesus' spiritual family. Faith is the necessary key for salvation, and Biblical faith results in obedience.

But the question demands an answer. By this point the disciples believed Jesus was the Messiah, but I doubt that they completely comprehended that the Messiah was a hybrid – fully man, but also fully God. And even if some of them suspected the latter truth, to be confronted with it personally, face to face, with emotions heightened by grave personal physical danger – why, the truth was overwhelming!

Luke 8:31 - abyss: A deep unbounded place, location unknown, that serves as a temporary prison for certain fallen angels. Abyss (abussos, 12) is translated in the AV as "bottomless pit" in every occurrence in the book of Revelation, and elsewhere as "the deep" (Luke 8:31; Rom. 10:7). The NASB translates every occurrence as "abyss" except in Rev. 9:1, 2, where it is translated "bottomless pit." Evidently most fallen angels, also known as demons, are free to roam the earth. But certain demons are confined to the abyss. These demons begged Jesus not to send them into the abyss. He complied with their request. This is an interesting phenomenon – God incarnate temporarily showed compassion to demons, His enemies in league with Satan, the Arch-Enemy. Compassion, however, was probably not Jesus' primary motivation. It appears likely that the demons presently restrained in the Abyss were guilty of some defining and unusual sin. Personally, I believe that Genesis 6:1-2 hints at that sin.

Can you imagine the howls of protest if today's animal "rights" activists had been present? They would have crucified Jesus for cruelty to animals! Luke 8:37 - asked Him to leave them: No sadder words can be uttered. These people thought they were saving their lives and their possessions, but they would lose everything. If you reject Jesus, there is no other possible means of salvation (John 3:36; 14:6; Acts 4:12; Heb. 2:3). Jesus, during His first advent, forced Himself on no one. If people did not wish to submit to Him, He did not force them to do so (John 6:64-67).

Luke 8:37 - for they were gripped with great fear: These people were afraid of Jesus' power over demons! They should have been more fearful of the demons' power over the man! But their fear of Jesus, almost certainly, was aggravated by the enormous financial loss to the owners of the pigs. Mark relates that there were about 2,000 pigs who drowned in the sea (Mark 5:13). In today's market terms (March 20, 2014), if the pigs weighed an average of 285 pounds, their market price of $96.37 per hundredweight would have totaled a staggering loss of $549,309! That is a lot of money for any community to absorb! See for comparison, the Daily Hog and Pork Summary out of Des Moines, IA.

&lt;sup>302</sup> Luke 8:50 - only believe: The verb "believe" is the singular aorist imperative of pisteuō (4100). It is a command, and Jesus asks this man to believe at a point in time. In other words, Jairus is to believe that Jesus can bring his daughter back to life. Granted that, the presumption is that Jairus will subsequently believe in Jesus with the result of eternal salvation. Of course pisteuō is a very important word in the doctrine of salvation. Here is a word frequency of usage list for the leading NT books: Gospel of John - 98X; Acts - 37X; Romans - 21X; Mark - 14X; Matthew - 11X; Luke - 9X; 1 Corinthians - 9X.

 $<sup>^{303}</sup>$  Luke 8:50 - she will be made well: Literally, "she will be saved," the future indicative passive of the verb  $s\bar{o}dz\bar{o}$  (4982). Though Jesus was referring to the salvation of the girl's physical life, I believe He also implied her eternal salvation. Her "beyond death" experience and her having been brought back to life by Jesus would undoubtedly engender within the girl faith in Jesus, resulting in her eternal salvation.

&lt;sup>304</sup> Luke 8:51 - Peter and John and James: There were at least three times when Jesus took just these three disciples with Him – (1) at the raising up of Jairus' daughter (Mark 5:37; Luke 8:51); (2) at His transfiguration (Matt. 17:1; Mark 9:2; Luke 9:28; (3) and during His distressed praying in the Garden of Gethsemane (Matt. 26:36-37; Mark 14:33). Why did Jesus limit His audience to just these three disciples at this point? We do not know. We presume He had a special affinity for them. Perhaps it was because they were leaders. Possibly the room was a small one. Possibly He wanted to limit the audience in view of His instruction to keep the restoration to life secret (Luke 8:56).

Luke 8:52 - asleep: Jesus knew she had died, but from His point of view, the death was temporary. He would shortly awaken her from her sleep of death. In fact, He would use language appropriate for awakening a child from sleep.

&lt;sup>306</sup> Luke 8:53 - knowing that she had died: In our modern western world, we are often shielded from death. People of that era needed no doctor to tell them when someone had died. They were all-too-familiar with death. They knew the child was dead. What they didn't know was what Jesus could and would do.

&lt;sup>309</sup> Luke 8:56 - He instructed them to tell no one what had happened: Just how these parents were going to keep their daughter's resuscitation secret, I have no idea. The mourners certainly would see the girl, now alive. Their mourning would be terminated. There would be no funeral. The mourners knew Jesus had come – He made certain

        - H 3 nor bread,
        - H 4 nor money;

of that, for they had laughed at His instruction to stop weeping. Now He would depart and the girl would be found alive. How could that be kept secret? Evidently Jesus wanted to limit public exposure to this miracle, though on other occasions, the matter was entirely public (see, for example, Jesus' raising back to life the widow's son – Luke 7:11-17 – and His raising of Lazarus from death – John 11:1-48).

It is worth noting that neither John nor Peter, in their writings, referred to this incident. James died prematurely (Acts 12:1-2). Only Luke and Mark, who were not here present, recorded this particular miracle. Of course, anyone today who reads the Bible is told of the event. Thomas Constable speculates that Jesus may have wanted to avoid unnecessary publicity created by this second miracle of raising someone back to life (Luke 7:11-17). But that reason does not adequately explain Jesus' instruction. The truth is, though we are told "what", we are not told "why".

When we think of it, God severely limited the world's exposure to His Son. Jesus came only for about three decades to a tiny nation dwarfed by its Arab neighbors in the Middle East. Jesus did not appear to the Russians, the Chinese, or to any peoples of the Americas or Africa. His most stupendous miracle, His own Resurrection, was witnessed only by a select group that, at its largest number, did not exceed 500 people (1 Cor. 15:6). To be sure, these miracles were performed for the purpose of assisting people to believe in Jesus (John 20:30-31). But the reality is that only those whom the Father draws will believe in the miracles and come to the Son (John 6:44, 65). They are the only ones who will believe, and they are the only ones who really need to hear about the miracles of Jesus. The culpability only skyrockets for those who hear and disbelieve (Matt. 11:21; Luke 10:13).

- H 1 Let the dead bury their dead: {60} But He said to him, "Allow the dead to bury their own dead;
- H 2 But you proclaim everywhere the kingdom of God: but as for you, go and proclaim everywhere the kingdom of God." <sup>313</sup>

Jesus was specific. He had commanded this unnamed man to follow Him (Luke 9:59). The man had not refused, but had requested, first to bury his father. Jesus had responded, "Let the dead bury their own dead," then got very direct with the man, "As for you, departing, proclaim everywhere the kingdom of the God" (Luke 9:60). By way of personal application, I believe I have a strong duty to proclaim everywhere the kingdom of God. That is why I continue to invest money, time, and energy in proclaiming the Kingdom of God on my website, WordExplain.com.

What can we discover about "the kingdom of the God" in the NT? (1) It had to be announced and proclaimed so people would know about it (Luke 9:60; Matt. 3:2; 4:17, 23; 9:35; 10:7). (2) Peter, James, and John participated in a preview of the coming kingdom (Matt. 16:28-17:8). (3) During the Tribulation, the Good News of the kingdom will be proclaimed in the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come (Matt. 24:14). (4) At the completion of the Judgment of the Gentile survivors of the Tribulation, the "sheep" – those on King Jesus' right – will be addressed thus, "Come, you who are blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world" (Matt. 25:34). (5) In Jesus' ministry the kingdom of God had drawn near. Listeners needed to repent and believe in the Good News (Mark 1:15). (6) It is difficult for the wealthy to enter the kingdom of God (Mark 10:23-25; Luke 18:24-25). (7) Even in Jesus' day, the kingdom of God was yet future. Moreover, it was not going to appear any time soon (Luke 19:11-27). Joseph of Arimathea was waiting for the kingdom of God (Mark 15:43). (8) When the kingdom of God arrives, the will of God will be being accomplished on earth the same way it is up in heaven (Matt. 6:10). (9) When the kingdom arrives, many Gentiles will come from the east and the west and recline at the table with (resurrected) Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, whereas the sons of the kingdom (i.e. a great many Jewish people) will be cast into outer darkness, a place where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth (Matt. 8:11-12; Luke 13:23-30). (10) Jesus will reign on the throne of His father David over the house of Jacob forever, and His kingdom will have no end (Luke 1:32-33). (11) Jesus is the nobleman who has left earth and gone to a distant country (heaven) in order to receive His kingdom, and then return (Luke 19:12). Therefore the kingdom has not yet arrived. It will not arrive until He returns, evaluates and reward His followers, and puts to death all those who did not want Him to be King (Luke 19:12-27; Psalm 110:1-3, 5-7). Meanwhile, in heaven Jesus is presently serving as priest forever after the order of Melchizedek (Psalm 110:4). (12) When Jesus returns, his twelve apostles will sit on thrones in His kingdom, judging the twelve tribes of Israel (Matt. 19:27-28; Luke 22:28-30). (13) No one can participate in the kingdom of God unless he has been born again (John 3:3). By this Jesus' meant that all humans have been born of water (born of the flesh). Having merely lived is insufficient. To participate in the kingdom of God, people must also be born again - that is, born of the Spirit. This is a spiritual birth (John 3:4-5). (14) To be born again requires believing in the only-born Son of God, who was lifted up on the cross to pay for the sins of mankind (John 3:14-16). These will have eternal life and will not perish. (15) He who refuses to believe in Jesus has already been judged, for he has not believed in the only-born Son of God (John 3:18). (16) People refuse to come to His light because their deeds are evil, and they do not wish their deeds to be exposed (John 3:19-20). (17) He who practices the truth comes to the Light so his deeds may be made transparent as having been worked out through God (John 3:21). (18) After His death and resurrection, Jesus taught His disciples for forty days concerning the kingdom of God (Acts 1:3). His followers continued that process (Acts 8:12; 19:8; 20:25; 28:23, 31). (19) The kingdom of God does not consist of eating and drinking, but of righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit (Rom. 14:17). Moreover it does not consist of mere words, but in power (1 Cor. 4:20). (20) Unrighteous people will be excluded from the kingdom of God (1 Cor. 6:9-10). The same can be said for those who are not walking by means of the Holy Spirit, but who, instead, practice the deeds of the fallen, sin-cursed flesh (Gal. 5:16-21). Those who practice the things listed in this passage will not inherit the kingdom of God (Gal. 5:21). See also Eph. 5:5 (21) After Christ's Millennial Reign upon earth, after having abolished all rule, authority, and power, Jesus will hand over the kingdom to God the Father (1

&lt;sup>313</sup> Luke 9:60 - proclaim everywhere the kingdom of God: "proclaim" is the Present Active Imperative of the verb diaggéllō (1229), "I. to carry a message through, announce everywhere, through places, through assemblies of men, etc. II. to publish abroad, declare" (OBU); "to announce through a messenger; to preach" (Accordance); "proclaim" (ESVS). This verb is used but three times in the NT: Luke 9:60; Acts 21:26; Rom. 9:17.

&quot;kingdom" is the Accusative Feminine Singular of the noun basileia (932), "I royal power, kingship, dominion, rule ... II a kingdom, the territory subject to the rule of a king III used in the NT to refer to the reign of the Messiah" (excerpted from OBU), preceded here by the article "the."

Cor. 15:24). (22) Mere flesh and blood, that which is decaying and dying, cannot possibly inherit the kingdom of God (1 Cor. 15:50). That is why, at the last trumpet, Christ will descend from heaven with a shout, along with the voice of the archangel, and why living believers in Christ will be miraculously given resurrection bodies without having had to die first, and why the dead in Christ will be resurrected with imperishable bodies (1 Cor. 15:51-53; 1 Thess. 4:13-18). (23) It is through many tribulations that we must enter the kingdom of God (Acts 14:22). (24) God will destroy the present decaying, sin-cursed heavens and earth (2 Pet. 3:7, 10-12; Rev. 20:11; 21:1). (25) God will create new heavens and earth in which only righteousness and righteous people exist (2 Pet. 3:13; Rev. 21:1, 8, 27; 22:3-4, 10, 14-15). (26) The focal point of this new universe is New Jerusalem (Rev. 21:1-4, 9-27; 22:22:1-5).

In ancient Near Eastern culture people often gave very long greetings and extended hospitality that tied them up sometimes for days (cf. Judg. 19:4-9; 2 Kings 4:29). Jesus did not mean that His disciples should be unfriendly or unsociable but that they should not allow these customs to divert them from their mission. They were to pursue their work and not waste their time on lesser things.

Luke 10:25 - lawyer: The Greek word is nomikós (3544), obviously an adjective derived from the noun nómos (3551) "law." Jesus would refer to the Law nómos in Luke 10:26.

    - G 2 DO THIS AND YOU WILL LIVE." 321
- D 3 The lawyer's self-justifying question: Who is my neighbor? 10:29
  - E 1 His motive: {29} But wishing to justify himself, he said to Jesus.

&lt;sup>321</sup> Luke 10:28 - DO THIS AND YOU WILL LIVE: Jesus was quoting Lev. 18:5 and Ezek. 20:11. Jesus would answer another questioner similarly in Matt. 19:17.

    - G 1 Friendship will not achieve help: {8} I tell you, even though he will not get up and give him anything because he is his friend,
    - G 2 But persistence will: yet because of his persistence he will get up and give him as much as he needs.

Juke 11:4 - lead us not into temptation: "temptation" is the Accusative Masculine Singular of the noun peirasmós (3986), "temptation, test" (Accordance). We know that God does not entice anyone to sin (James 1:13). However, we know that God routinely tests his own (James 1:2; 1 Cor. 10:13). I reconcile these two aspects of peirasmós by suggesting that we are to pray that God will not lead us into so much testing that we are tempted to turn against Him and not trust Him. See a Tabular Summary of the Greek noun peirasmós, "Temptation." See also a Tabular Summary of the Greek verb peirádzō, "To Test or Tempt."

  - E 2 Jesus' three assurances 11:10
    - G 1 Every one asking receives: {10} For everyone who asks, receives;
    - G 2 Every one seeking finds: and he who seeks, finds;
    - G 3 Every one knocking will discover an open door: and to him who knocks, it will be opened.
- D 4 The principle expanded: Evil man's ability to give good gifts is far surpassed by the heavenly Father's ability to give the Holy Spirit 11:11-13
  - E 1 An earthly father will not give his son a snake instead of a fish, will he? {11} Now suppose one of you fathers is asked by his son for a fish; he will not give him a snake instead of a fish, will he? 11:11
  - E 2 An earthly father will not give his son a scorpion instead of an egg, will he? {12} Or if he is asked for an egg, he will not give him a scorpion, will he? 11:12
  - E 3 The application 11:13
    - G 1 If we human fathers, being evil, know how to give good gifts to our children: {13 If you then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children,

&lt;sup>323</sup> Luke 11:15 - He casts out demons by Beelzebul...: This absurd explanation shows the desperate attempt to explain away the obvious by some committed disbelievers in Jesus. Their conclusion – that Jesus did not exorcise demons by the power of the Holy Spirit, but by the power of Satan! Beelzeboul (954), a parody of a Chaldean word — "... dung-god; Beelzebul, a name of Satan" (Strong's).

<sup>324</sup> Luke 11:16 - Others ... were demanding a sign from heaven: John the Apostle, in his gospel, discussed in detail seven or eight signs (miraculous miracle) that demonstrated that Jesus was the Christ, the Son of God, so that believing his readers might have life in His name (John 20:30-31). These people had just witnessed a great miraculous sign of Jesus, yet they, controlled by the Devil, disputed the evidence and asked for a sign from heaven! Why? The answer is this: Unless people have been chosen by God, they will refuse all evidence, allowing themselves to be deceived by the Devil. They will spend an eternity in the Lake of Fire afflicted and tormented by the demons they have unwittingly followed.

Similarly, people today refuse to believe the Biblical record, that God created the heavens and the earth and everything in them in six 24-hour days (Genesis 1:1-2:4; Exod. 20:8-11). They insist that what we see today evolved by random chance through the mechanism of mistakes in information (mutations). How blind and irrational they are! They are guided by the same Devil that convinced the disbelievers in Jesus' day to disbelieve and misinterpret the evidence right in front of their eyes. How tragic!!!

Luke 11:19 - by whom do your sons cast them out: Jesus assumed the correctness of his question. He knew that there were Israelis (their "sons") who, indeed, were casting out demons. These were not necessarily men who believed in Jesus. But somehow, they were casting out demons. Whose power were they using? These Jewish exorcists would one day stand in judgment upon these Israeli unbelievers. This statement does not demand that the Jewish exorcists were necessarily believers in Jesus. But in the Final Judgment, these Jewish exorcists would be called on to expose the culpability and double standard of these current nay-sayers against Jesus.

  - G 7 All eight proceed to live in the first demon's former house: and they go in and live there; 11:26b

Luke 11:23 - he who does not gather with Me, scatters: Constable aptly states the following:

Continuing the figure of battle, Jesus reminded His hearers that whoever was not on Jesus' side was on His enemy's side. Changing the figure to reaping and herding, Jesus made the same point again. Laborers in God's field, and among God's flock, who do not gather people—like sheaves and sheep into the barn and fold of His messianic kingdom—with Jesus, scatter them abroad. There is no neutral ground. People either support Jesus or oppose Him.

<sup>327</sup> Luke 11:24-26 - the last state of that man becomes worse than the first: This brief section probably describes what happens when Jewish exorcists practice exorcism without also sharing the Good News about Jesus and His Kingdom. This amounts to reformation without salvation. It amounts to getting rid of evil spirits but not replacing them with the Holy Spirit. The last state of that person will be worse than the former. In the words of Jesus found in John 3:1-21, people must be born again to inherit the Kingdom of God. That means not only must they be born naturally (by water), they must also be born again (by the Holy Spirit) (John 3:1-8). That requires believing in Jesus, through which man avoids perishing and acquires eternal life (John 3:14-18).

<sup>328</sup> Luke 11:27-28 - "Blessed is the womb that bore you and the breasts at which you nursed": This is the fallacy of the Roman Catholic Church, which virtually idolizes Mary, praying to her repeatedly, calling her the mother of God, calling her a mediatrix, believing Mary was sinless, believing Mary was perpetually a virgin, believing Mary was assumed up into heaven without her body being corrupted in the grave, believing that Mary is the mother of the church, and believing that Mary is united with Jesus in the work of salvation, etc. If Jesus were here on earth today, He would say to the Roman Catholic Church, "On the contrary, blessed are those who hear the word of God and obey it!!!!" (For more information on this subject, see "What the Roman Catholic Church Believes about Mary.")

&lt;sup>330</sup> Luke 11:34 - but when it (one's eye) is bad: "Bad" hardly gives an accurate rendering. The word is the Nominative Masculine Singular of the adjective ponērós (4190), "wicked, evil" (Accordance). This is the eye of the soul, which deliberately filters out good and chooses to allow evil and wickedness to enter. An example would be the person who deliberately exposes himself to pornography and chooses to embrace adultery or homosexuality. Another example would be one who deliberately chooses to embrace false theology or teaching which spurns the inspired Word of God.

They have blasphemed God and Jesus Christ, and turned their backs on the salvation offered in Scripture. - D 3 His woes against the lawyers 11:45-52
  - E 1 For placing burdens hypocritically on others 11:45-46

- G 1 A lawyer's complaint of having been insulted by Jesus: {45} One of the lawyers *said to Him in reply, "Teacher, when You say this, You insult us too." 11:45
- G 2 Jesus' pronouncement of woe upon the lawyers: {46} But He said, "Woe to you lawyers as well! 11:46
  - H 1 They place heavy burdens on the people: For you weigh men down with burdens hard to bear,
  - H 2 But the lawyers will not place themselves under the same burdens: while you yourselves will not even touch the burdens with one of your fingers.

  - G 5 Their murder of the prophets fulfills the essence of OT Scripture 11:49
    - H 1 Jesus' citation of "the wisdom of God" {49}

- For this reason also the wisdom of God <sup>334</sup> said,
- H 2 God will send to Israel prophets and apostles: 'I will send to them prophets and apostles,
- H 3 Some of them Israel will kill: and some of them they will kill
- H 4 Other of them Israel will persecute: and some they will persecute,
- G 6 The vast culpability of Israel 11:50
  - H 1 The blood of all the prophets: {50} so that the blood of all the prophets,
  - H 2 Shed since the creation of the world: shed since the foundation of the world,
  - H 3 Will be charged against the people of Israel: may be charged against this generation,
- G 7 The identification of the prophets 11:51a
  - H 1 From Abel, murdered by his brother: {51} from the blood of Abel 335
  - H 2 To Zechariah: to the blood of Zechariah, <sup>336</sup> who was killed between the altar and the house of God;
- G 8 Jesus' declaration of the culpability of Israel: yes, I tell you, it shall be charged against this generation.' 11:51b

&lt;sup>334</sup> Luke 11:49 - the wisdom of God: There is no known OT prophet that states matters exactly as Jesus described them here. It is most likely that Jesus was quoting the essence of the OT Scripture – that God would repeatedly send prophets to His people Israel, and they would harm some and kill others. This sense would have its greatest fulfillment when God sent His only-born Son, but Him also they would brutally assassinate through the hand of Rome. For this reason, God would send terrible judgment upon the nation with the devastating purge of Jerusalem and the Israeli temple in A.D. 70 at the hand of the Roman General Titus. Israel still has not accepted and received Jesus as her Messianic King. As a result, Israel is perpetually harassed by her enemies. She cannot even build a Temple on her own Temple Mount, defiled as it is by a Muslim shrine to the False Prophet Mohammed and by an Islamic Mosque.

- E 4 He who blasphemes the Holy Spirit will never be forgiven: but he who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit, it will not be forgiven him. 12:10b
- E 5 When they arrest you and try you before authorities, do not worry about what to say: {11} When they bring you before the synagogues and the rulers and the authorities, do not worry about how or what you are to speak in your defense, or what you are to say; 12:11
- E 6 The Holy Spirit will teach you at that time what to say: {12} for the Holy Spirit will teach you in that very hour what you ought to say." 12:12

  - D 2 The perspective of Jesus on the Galileans 13:2-3
    - E 1 His question: Were these Galileans greater sinners than all other Galileans? 13:2

The people could predict future weather from present signs, but they could not see that the events associated with Jesus' ministry indicated the arrival of Messiah and his kingdom (cf. Matt. 16:2-3). The present time was one of change and crisis. By calling His hearers "hypocrites," Jesus was saying He perceived that their professed inability to recognize Messiah's appearance was artificial. It was not that they could not see that He was the Messiah, but they did not want to see it in spite of the evidence. (Emphasis mine.)

seem to be true – (1) It had a small beginning. (2) It had remarkable growth. (3) It was befouled (pardon the pun) by the fowls of the air. (It should be noted that birds in the tree are not a good omen – see Gen. 40:16-19. See also Gen. 15:11; Rev. 18:1-2.) This is what we can deduce from the statements of Jesus. Some other observations are in order: (4) This appears to be the time between the two Advents of Christ, His First Coming and His Second Coming. (5) This appears to describe not the true Church, but the Professing Church, Christendom, infiltrated by evil and evil people. (6) This is not the true Kingdom prophesied by the prophets. Even Jesus Himself told a parable to disabuse His disciples of the belief that His Kingdom would come any time soon (Luke 19:11-27). We know the Kingdom has not yet begun because the King has not returned from heaven, the distant country to which He departed over 2,000 years ago. (7) I think it is best to understand this form of the Kingdom, as the "Mystery" Form of the Kingdom, the time between the two Advents of Christ (Matt. 13:11). (8) I think the best way to describe this form of the Kingdom is that we are presently in the Recruitment Phase of the Kingdom. The followers of Christ were entrusted by Him at His departure with the task of recruiting followers / disciples of the King in anticipation of His return from Heaven to rule over the Earth (Matt. 28:16-20; Luke 24:44-53; Acts 1:1-11). When Christ's Millennial Kingdom has been thoroughly installed, and all who do not wish him to be King have been put to death (Luke 19:27), then, at least for a brief time, shall the Father's will be done on earth in the same way that it is performed up in heaven (Matt. 6:10). Ultimately the perfect and unending performance of the Father's will upon earth just as in heaven will take place upon New Earth and in New Jerusalem (2 Pet. 3:10-13; Rev. 21:11-22:5).

 $<sup>^{345}</sup>$  Luke 13:19 - threw: This was not a careful planting. The text says, literally, that the man "threw" this mustard seed into his garden. "He threw" is the  $3^{rd}$  Singular Aorist Indicative Active of the verb bállō (906), "to throw or cast something without caring where the item lands" (JTB, borrowing from OBU).

  - E 1 His itinerant teaching ministry: {22} And He was passing through from one city and village to another, teaching, and proceeding on His way to Jerusalem. 13:22
  - E 2 The probing question are there only a few being saved? {23} And someone said to Him, "Lord, are there just a few thoroughly permeates humanity to the point where the majority of humans repent of their sins, embrace the gospel, and follow Jesus. This, they say, is the inevitable progress and advance of the church. This interpretation is perhaps best characterized by PostMillennialism. This interpretation is impossible for at least two reasons: (1) In Jesus' parable of the tares among the wheat (Matt. 13:24-30), He taught that His sowing of the good seed in the world would be contaminated by the sabotage of His enemy, the devil. He would sow tares in the field among the wheat. These tares could not be eliminated without the risk of pulling up and destroying the wheat. The man's (the Lord's) solution was to let both the wheat and the tares grow together until the harvest (the Judgment). Then the reapers will first gather up the tares, bind them in bundles, and burn them (hell fire). Then they would gather up the wheat and place it safely in the barn. (2) There are many instances in Scripture wherein leaven is seen to be a bad thing. [a] At the first Passover, Israelis were commanded to observe a Feast of Unleavened Bread (Exod. 12:14-20). They were to celebrate this feast throughout their generations as a permanent ordinance (Ex. 12:14). [b] No grain offering was to be offered with leaven (Lev. 2:11; 6:17). [c] Jesus warned His disciples to beware of the leaven (false teaching) of the scribes and Pharisees (Matt. 16:6, 11, 12; Mark 8:15; Luke 12:1). [d] Paul taught that leaven was a bad thing (1 Cor. 5:6, 7, 8; Gal. 5:9).

We conclude, therefore that the leaven that the woman mixed in three measures of flour was not a good thing. It means, not the advance of the church or the "mystery form" of the kingdom. Rather, it teaches the Devil's contamination of the professing church, or Christendom. There is no growing crescendo of a triumphant church in this age. Rather, there is the sad dirge of the increasingly contaminated church!

&lt;sup>347</sup> Luke 13:23 - are there just a few who are being saved? It is perhaps difficult to know exactly what the questioner had in mind when he asked this question. But there is no doubt whatever in regard to how Jesus answered the question. Jesus interpreted "being saved" as entry into the Kingdom of God here on earth. I include the qualification "here on earth" because Jesus talked about people (Gentiles) from all over the earth (east, west, north, and south) being admitted to and eating in the Kingdom, but many Jewish people being excluded (Luke 13:28-29).

&lt;sup>348</sup> Luke 13:25 - I do not know where you are from: Once the householder (Jesus) has closed the door, there will be no more admittance into the Kingdom! &lt;sup>350</sup> Luke 13:34 - O Jerusalem, Jerusalem: Constable aptly describes Jesus' funeral dirge over the city and the nation:

Jesus' lament (vv. 34-35) constituted a formal rejection of Israel for her rejection of Him as her Messiah (cf. Matt. 23:37-39). Jesus used "Jerusalem" figuratively for the whole nation. However, Jesus rejected Israel with a broken heart. He continued to offer Himself to the nation and to the individuals within it, but its fate was now irreversible. His rejection was not permanent, however (cf. Rom. 11). God's prophecies concerning Messiah's rule on the earth, with His headquarters in Jerusalem (cf. Jer. 3:17; 30:16-17; 31:6, 23; Ezek. 43:5-6; Joel 3:17; Mic. 4:7; Zech. 8:2-3), must be fulfilled because God is faithful to His promises.

      - G 1 He took hold of him: And He took hold of him
      - G 2 He healed him: and healed him,

&lt;sup>351</sup> Luke 14:2 - dropsy: This is a medical term used only by Luke and only this once in the entire NT. This is the Nominative Masculine Singular of the Adjective hudrōpikós (5203). OBU defines it as "dropsy," but few of us today know what that means. Constable is more helpful. He states that it refers to edema, the retention of water in the body.

know what that means. Constable is more helpful. He states that it refers to edema, the retention of water in the body. The text does not state that this man was a "plant" – an intentional trap. However, the context suggests that he was. Why did the leading Pharisee invite Jesus over for a meal on the Sabbath day? And why were there a roomful of lawyers and scribes also in attendance? And why did it just happen that there was a man with edema who was among those invited and who was seated right in front of Him?

- E 5 Jesus' follow-up questions to the lawyers and Pharisees: {5} And He said to them, 14:5-6 [14:5a]

    - G 1 The audience for the parable: {7} And He began speaking a parable to the invited guests
    - G 2 The occasion for the parable: when He noticed how they had been picking out the places of honor at the table; saying to them,
  - E 2 The context of the parable an invitation to a wedding feast: {8} "When you are invited by someone to a wedding feast, 14:8-9 [14:8a]

&lt;sup>352</sup> Luke 14:6 - they could make no reply: The verb states that they were unable to answer these things. But they were so intent on trapping Jesus and getting rid of Him that they continued to pursue murderous intentions.

 $<sup>^{354}</sup>$  Luke 14:13 - reception: This term chosen by the NASB editors may not quite capture the intent of Dr. Luke. The noun he used was  $doch\bar{e}$  (1403), used in the NT only by Luke, in Luke 5:29; 14:13. In Luke 5:29 Levi, the wealthy tax collector, invited Jesus to a reception, but it was more than just a reception – it was a banquet. The word in Luke 14:13 must also include a meal, for the context of Luke 14:12 includes references to a "luncheon" or "dinner." Likewise, the same word used in the LXX gives the same flavor. Gen. 21:8; 26:30 along with Esther 1:3; 5:4 all connote a feast or banquet.

&lt;sup>355</sup> Luke 14:14 - at the resurrection of the righteous: Jesus' advice here is fascinating – it all has to do with the motivation for why people do what they do. But it deals more than just motivation. It has to do with maximizing your return on investment when you do good. If you invite wealthy people to your feast, they will certainly repay you – they will repay you by inviting you back to their own banquet. You will have been rewarded, but your reward will be transitory and insignificant – eating a meal that lasts for a few hours in your stomach. But when you invite the poor or crippled, they cannot return the favor. But you will be repaid. When? At the resurrection of the righteous! This reward will be vastly greater than the temporary reward back on earth in the previous life! Jesus wants us to live our lives on earth with an eye on heaven. Why? To maximize our reward into something eternal and significant! This advice is consistent with Paul's perspective that our real citizenship is in heaven, not on this present earth (Philippians 3:20).

&lt;sup>356</sup> Luke 14:17 - slave: This is accurate. The word is doúlos (1401), "slave." The term "slave" refers here to the prophets of Israel, including John the Baptist, who had been sent to the nation to invite people to enter the Kingdom of God. Down throughout Israel's history, the bulk of Israelis have rejected the invitation to enter the Kingdom of God. A great many of them worshiped false gods, such as Baal or Ashtoreth or Molech or Chemosh or the Queen of Heaven. Most Israelis refused to follow the invitation of John the Baptist and the invitation of Jesus Himself. Today, most Jewish people, by far, refuse to worship and follow Jesus. None of these will enter the Kingdom of God.

But this rejection by Israel is not permanent. As Paul wrote, the time will come when "all Israel will be saved" (Rom. 11:26). &lt;sup>361</sup> Luke 16:13 - You cannot serve God and wealth: In my experience, I have most frequently applied Jesus' statement that no man can serve two masters as applying to working for an employer and a labor union. I do not see how one can do both successfully. But working through this passage at this time, I realize the much greater application Jesus made was in regard to God and money. It is impossible to serve God whole-heartedly if one is always counting up monetary profit to make the decision. One will either serve the profit margin or else he will serve God. He cannot serve both. Frankly, this realization helps me make a family decision at this time.

Luke 16:16 - and everyone is forcing his way into it: This may be reference to the Zealots, who were trying to bring in the kingdom by physical force. So Constable. It may also mean that everyone was trying to force their way into the kingdom on their own terms, but doing so bypassing acceptance of and submission to the Messiah, Himself. Another plausibility is that a great many people, whether Jew or Gentile are trying to enter the kingdom without ever having been "born again" (John 3:3, 5). The way to be born again is to trust in Jesus (John 3:14-18). A great many people hope their good works will outweigh their bad ones. A great many people are trusting in their religion – "I'm a good Catholic" or "I go to church every Sunday" or "I've been baptized" or "I go to mass." None of these will suffice. One has to have been born again – born spiritually in order to see the kingdom of God or enter the kingdom of God (John 3:3, 5). It should be added that salvation by grace through faith (Eph. 2:8-9) will inevitably result in good works (Eph. 2:10; James 2:14-16. The good works are the result of salvation, not the cause of it!

Jesus appears to make an exception (Matt. 19:9). But see my Annotated Outline of Matthew at Matthew 19:3-12. Jesus makes no exception whatever in Luke 16:18. If you divorce your wife and marry another woman, you are committing adultery, the 3rd Singular Present Indicative Active of the verb moicheúō (3431), "...to commit adultery with, have unlawful intercourse with another's wife" (excerpted from OBU); or, in this case, it means committing adultery against one's own wife by breaking one's marriage vows to her and defiling one's union with her by means of sexual union with another woman" (JTB). In other words, in God's sight, if one is married to another person, that union exists beyond all human efforts to end it. The only thing that ends a marriage union in God's sight is death (1 Cor. 7:39).

In Matthew 19, when asked about divorce for any reason at all (Matt. 19:3), Jesus' best answer (Matt. 19:4-6) was, "What therefore God has joined together, let no man separate" (Matt. 19:6). When asked by the Pharisees about Moses' provision of divorce (Matt. 19:7), Jesus replied, "Because of your hardness of heart Moses permitted you to divorce your wives; but from the beginning it has not been this way" (Matt. 19:8). Jesus continued that the only legitimate grounds for divorcing one's wife and marrying another woman was porneia (4202). In the wider context of Matthew Jesus seems here to have been referencing the situation with Joseph, who was minded to divorce Marry (to whom he was betrothed = legally, but not yet physically married) because he thought she had been unfaithful to him (Matt. 1:18-19), i.e., she had committed porneia (4202), "fornication," not moicheia (3430), "adultery." Providentially, God changed Joseph's mind through the agency of a messenger from the Lord (Matt. 1:20-25). It seems self-evident that, whenever divorce takes place, one or both partners have a hard heart (Matt. 19:8).

By citing these facts in regard to marriage and adultery Jesus is illustrating the point he made in Luke 16:17 – that it is impossible to defeat the inevitable fulfillment of the Law: {17} "But it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away than for one stroke of a letter of the Law to fail."

In this instance he is committing adultery with this previously married woman against her prior husband. In Jesus' statement in Luke He includes no exceptions.

<sup>1.</sup> Luke 16:31 - they will not be persuaded even if someone rises from the dead: This paragraph describes the contrasting experiences of two men who found themselves in Hades, the place of the dead. That which is termed Hádēs (86) in the New Testament was called Sheōl (7585) in the Old. The whole account of the rich man in Hades and Lazarus in Abraham's bosom raises some questions and divulges some fascinating truths. I have enumerated them as follows: (1) When people die they are aware of who they are, their past, and their present surroundings. (2) When people die, some experience bliss while others experience physical pain, and they also experience regret for conditions and people left behind on earth. (3) The righteous and the wicked experience two different destinies. (4) Hades, at least at the time of Jesus' recounting of this event included two different places – a place of torment and a place of bliss. We call this the "Two-Compartment Theory of Hades." (5) At the time of Jesus' recounting of this event, there was a great gulf between the two localities of Hades. It was impossible to pass over from one side to the other. (6) When people find themselves in the painful part of Hades, they can experience regret and anxiety over the condition of their friends, relatives, and acquaintances back on earth. They might even wish for someone from the comfortable side of Hades to return to earth to warn their relatives. This is impossible. Those on the earth apparently already possess all the information they need to make a wise choice and avoid the destiny of the wicked. However, it seems highly unlikely that they will avail themselves of their opportunity for redemption before it is too late. (7) If people do not respond positively to the information contained in the Bible, they will not respond positively even if someone were to return from the dead to warn them. (8) It is at least within the realm of possibility that, when Christ ascended to heaven, he led people who were captive in the comfortable portion of Hades to the realm of Heaven (Eph. 4:8). It seems certain that now, following Christ's resurrection and ascension, that when believers die, they are present with the Lord (2 Cor. 5:8). (9) At the time of the end, Hades and its contents will be cast into the Lake of Fire (Rev. 20:11-15). (10) Was this account of Jesus an historical account, or was it only a parable, parabolē (3850)? This noun occurs 18X in Luke, 17X in Matthew, 13X in Mark, never in John, and twice in the letter to the Hebrews. Luke uses the term in Luke 4:23; 5:36; 6:39; 8:4, 9, 10, 11; 12:16, 41; 14:7; 15:3; 18:1, 9; 19:11; 20:9, 19; 21:29. Most commentators would agree that the stories of the Lost Sheep (Luke 15:3-7); the Lost Coin (Luke 15:18-10); and the Lost Son (Luke 15:11-32) are all parables, though only the Lost Sheep is designated as a parable by Jesus. Luke never uses the word "parable" in Luke 16. Nevertheless, the story of the Unrighteous Steward in Luke 16:1-9 seems very much in the same context as the stories in Luke 15. However, in Luke 16:10-18, Jesus is teaching without using any stories to serve as illustrations. This leads us back to the question at hand – was the story in Luke 16:19-31 a parable, or was it an historical account?

In support of treating this passage as a parable, Jesus frequently used parables. In the broader context of Luke 14-21, the word "parable is used in Luke 14:7; 15:3; 18:1, 9; 19:11; 20:9, 19; 21:29. It is not difficult to see that the word "parable" is not used at all in Luke 16 or Luke 17. Probably most commentators label this passage in Luke 16:19-31 as a parable. Typical among them is Thomas Constable, who uses the term "parable" several times, without bothering to defend his reasons.

I prefer to take the interpretation that this was an actual event in history. Let me defend my position. (1) Uncharacteristically of parables in general, two of the people in this account are named. Those named are Lazarus and Abraham. Also named is Moses, the author of the first five books of the Bible. (2) There are certain graphic elements of this account which are unnecessary if it is merely a parable. For example, dogs licking the beggar's sores; messengers (angels) carrying the poor man to the bosom of Abraham; the dead rich man's finding himself in a specific location – "in the Hades;" a jarring description of the torment of the rich man – he was begging for Lazarus to dip his finger in some water and come cool the tip of his tongue; a description of a "great chasm" fixed between the rich man in torment and Lazarus and Abraham in a place of comfort; the rich man's specific reference to five brothers who were unrepentant; Abraham's awareness that, if these brothers rejected Moses and the prophets, they would not be persuaded even if someone were to rise from the dead and attempt to convince them. All these suggest real people and real events.

Let us suppose, for the sake of the argument, that I am wrong, and that this is merely a parable. Would that change the authenticity, the factuality of matters as Jesus stated them? No, not at all. I cannot believe that Jesus would include in a parable details that were untrue, and not according to reality. Either way, it seems to me, we have a factual record of things as they actually are. This is truth, not a convenient little fairy tale. For example, Jesus did, indeed arise from the dead. But the bulk of Israelis didn't repent in response to Moses and the Prophets; and neither were they persuaded to repent by Jesus' having been raised from the dead (Matt. 28:11-15).

<sup>366</sup> Luke 17:2 - causing ... little ones to stumble: Jesus had in mind, I think, people who influence children away from following Himself and inheriting eternal life. And woe to the many mothers and doctors who dismember and abort children in the womb!

- C 2 His warning to the disciples that the Son of Man of the Kingdom would soon be absent 17:22
  - D 1 Jesus' audience the disciples: {22} And He said to the disciples,
  - D 2 The time was approaching when they would wish to see Him: "The days will come when you will long to see one of the days of the Son of Man.
  - D 3 But they would be unable to do so: and you will not see it.
- C 3 His instruction about the return of the Son of Man of the Kingdom 17:23-27

&lt;sup>368</sup> Luke 17:20 - with signs to be observed: The word "signs" does not appear in the Greek text. What Jesus said was that the kingdom of God does not come "with observation," the Genitive Feminine Singular of the noun paratē rēsis (3907), "observation" (Accordance). How can this response of Jesus be reconciled with the following declaration He would make to His disciples in Matt. 24:29-30?

<sup>{29} &</sup>quot;But immediately after the tribulation of those days the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, and the stars will fall from the sky, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken. {30} And then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in the sky, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of the sky with power and great glory.

I believe Jesus was referring to "the Mystery Form of the Kingdom," that is, the time between the King's two Advents. Since the people of Israel and its leaders had rejected the King, who was, indeed, among them, the Messianic Kingdom would be delayed (now by 2000 years and still counting). The "Mystery Form of the Kingdom" (Matt. 13:1-51) would be characterized by the following:

<sup>(1)</sup> The departure of the "man of noble birth" (the King-Designate, Jesus) to a far country, i.e. heaven (Luke 19:12). (2) The man of noble birth would sit at the right hand of the Father (Luke 22:69; Acts 2:33; Rom. 8:34; Col. 3:1; Heb. 10:12; 12:2; 1 Pet. 3:22), waiting until He received His Kingdom (Psalm 2:7-9; 110:1; Dan. 7:13-14; Luke 19:12). (3) There, up in heaven, He would, meanwhile, serve as the Great High Priest, interceding for His people (Rom. 8:34; Heb. 7:24-25). (4) Simultaneously, on earth, professing Christendom would expand into the world, but would be sabotaged by the enemy, Satan. He would plant "tares" (noxious weeds) among the true wheat (genuine believers) (Matt. 13:24-30; 36-43). These tares would be almost undistinguishable, at times, from the true wheat (genuine believers). (5) The real identity of people would be sorted out by judgments at the end of the age. The angels (literally, messengers) will come and take out the wicked from among the righteous and cast them into the furnace of fire (Matt. 13:47-50; 25:31-46). The righteous will be left alive to inherit the Kingdom (Matt. 25:34-40, 46). (6) Meanwhile, on earth, during the time between the two Advents of Christ, the greatest responsibility of the true followers of the King is to recruit obedient disciples of the King during His absence (Matt. 28:16-20; Acts 1:6-8).

&lt;sup>369</sup> Luke 17:21 - For behold, the kingdom of God is in your midst: What Jesus meant was that the kingdom of God was standing among them in the presence of the King – Himself! But they did not recognize Him as their King, and so they would entirely miss the Kingdom.

&lt;sup>370</sup> Luke 17:37 - Where the body is, there also the vultures will be gathered: I believe this time signal is to be taken literally. The Tribulation period will be characterized by massive numbers of human deaths. In the course of the seven years of the Tribulation, in excess of half the world's human population will die. Bodies all over the world will be numerous to bury immediately. The vultures all around the world will have a feast. This will be a sign that Christ's Second Coming is not far distant.

This parable is an encouragement for disciples who experience opposition for their faith during the inter-advent age. Christians should continue to ask God for protection from those who oppose us for our commitment to Jesus Christ. God will respond speedily by giving us the help that we need. This will result in a continuing demonstration of faith in God when He is visibly absent from the world. The parable is an exhortation to persevere in the faith rather than apostatizing (i.e., turning away from it). God will vindicate His elect at the Second Coming (cf. Ps. 125:2-3; Rev. 6:9-11). That will be His ultimate answer to these prayers of His people, but immediate help before that Coming is primarily in view in this parable.

&lt;sup>375</sup> Luke 18:7 - His elect: Literally, "His chosen ones." "Elect" is the Genitive Masculine Plural of the adjective eklektós (1588), here referring to those whom God has chosen for salvation. Many object to the doctrine of election, but it persistently appears in Scripture. There is something in the objectors that makes them want to feel they have, in some even small way, earned salvation. None of us has earned salvation. In fact, we have all earned eternal death, and none of us deserves salvation. Moreover, if God did not choose some to be saved, in fact, none would be saved.

- E 4 God will bring about vengeance for His elect ones quickly: {8} I tell you that He will bring about justice for them quickly. 377 18:8a
- E 5 However, when the Second Coming arrives, will Jesus find the faith anywhere on the earth? 18:8b
  - G 1 The point of reference Christ's Second Coming: However, when the Son of Man comes,
  - G 2 The Lord's question: will He find faith <sup>378</sup> on the earth?" <sup>379</sup>

We will never believe in Jesus if God doesn't give to us the gift of faith (Eph. 2:8-10). The essence of the New Covenant is that God must give sinners soft, responsive hearts, or else they will never repent, and never trust in the Messiah (Jer. 31:31-34).

Jesus' final question suggests that there will be comparatively few on the earth who will have remained faithful and who still believe that He will return (Luke 17:22—18:1). Few will persist in their faith like this widow did. The Second Coming is in view, not the Rapture. The title "Son of Man" links this question with Jesus' former teaching about His second coming (Luke 17:22, 24, 26, 30). Prayer not only secures God's help during persecution, but it also demonstrates faith in God. This is all the more reason that disciples need to keep praying.

Elsewhere Jesus stated the following (Matt. 7:13-14):

{13} "Enter through the narrow gate; for the gate is wide and the way is broad that leads to destruction, and

&lt;sup>376</sup> Luke 18:7 - and will He delay long over them? — More literally, "and He is long-fused over them." The idea is that God allows evil people to afflict His elect a long time, and does not necessarily avenge His elect instantly because He is long-suffering toward evil people, not wishing for any of them to perish, but for all to come to repentance (2 Pet. 3:9). In this life we Christians are often misunderstood and mistreated. And we watch as politicians and business people seem to get away with evil, and they are confident they have gotten away with it. But no one gets away with anything in God's world. God's messengers keep an accurate and thorough record of everything that is done. At the final judgment, these evil people who think they have gotten away with their evildoing will watch as the books are opened, and they are judged out of the events and statements recorded therein. All whose names are not written in the Lamb's Book of Life will be cast bodily into the Lake that burns with Fire and Sulfur (Rev. 20:11-15). They will have gotten away with nothing!

&lt;sup>377</sup> Luke 18:8 - He will bring about justice for them quickly: The quickness of this justice must be understood to be in the whole scheme of eternity. In the next phrase the justice that will come is associated with the Second Coming of Christ.

<sup>384</sup> Luke 18:17 - receive the kingdom of God like a child: (1) The kingdom of God must be received, for it is a gift given. (2) The kingdom of God must be received by an adult the same way a child would do so. Children of a certain age have a child-like faith: they will take hold of anything given to them without question, and they will believe anything they are told without question. Most teenagers and adults become skeptical. They will not receive as would a small child, and they will not believe as would a small child. It is a certainty that skeptics will never enter the kingdom of God.

&lt;sup>385</sup> Luke 18:19 - No one is good except God alone: Jesus was fishing for an acknowledgment from the wealthy ruler that He, Jesus was actually the Messiah – God-come-in-human-flesh. That delay has now stretched nearly 2000 years.

Luke 19:12 - to receive a kingdom for himself: Jesus, contrary to what both Amillennialists and Progressive Dispensationalists maintain, did not already have a kingdom when He arose from the dead. In fact, He did not have a kingdom when He arrived in heaven. If the truth were known, moreover, He still does not have a kingdom. Why do I say that? It's very simple. We know Jesus does not have a kingdom because He has not returned. It has been nearly 2,000 years, and Jesus still does not have a kingdom because He has not yet returned. Is that not what we are told in the Messianic Psalm 110? There, the Messiah is instructed as follows: The LORD says to my Lord: "Sit at My right hand Until I make Your enemies a footstool for Your feet" (Psalm 110:1). So Jesus is still sitting at His Father's right hand, waiting until His Father makes His enemies (on earth) a footstool for His feet. So the kingdom Jesus was anticipating receiving in the "distant country" (heaven) is the same kingdom that the Jewish faithful have been anticipating for centuries – the Messianic, Davidic kingdom headquartered in Jerusalem, Israel, here upon earth. Of course, there are spiritual overtones to this kingdom, but it is an earthly, political kingdom that Jesus is anticipating. We know that from the next verse: "The LORD will stretch forth Your strong scepter from Zion, saying, 'Rule in the midst of Your enemies'" (Psalm 110:2). Many theologians like to use the mantra, "Already, but not yet," in relation to Christ's Kingdom. I use a more accurate mantra, "Not already, not yet."

The term "Christ" (Greek Christos) means "Anointed One." It is a human term, not a Divine term. Of course, the ultimate "Anointed One" is Divine, but that is not what makes Him "The Anointed One." One has to be a human being to become an "Anointed One." The Eternal Logos, the Word of God, had to become human to become anointed. And just being born a Son of David did not make Jesus the "Anointed One." He became the Anointed One when His Father anointed Him with the Holy Spirit at His baptism. At that point, Jesus, having been anointed with the Holy Spirit, was qualified to be Prophet, Priest, and primarily, King. It is no accident that no ministry of Jesus is recorded until after He had been anointed with the Holy Spirit.

Jesus took up His office of Prophet immediately. In fact, a large portion of the text of the Gospels contains His prophetic pronouncements. Jesus became the great High Priest as He prayed on behalf of His followers and when He offered Himself upon the Cross as the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world. But Has not yet begun to serve in His role as the Son of David, the King of Israel. He is interceding for us as priest this very moment. His prophetic utterances have been recorded in Holy Scripture. But He waits now in heaven until His enemies on earth are made a footstool for His feet.

Jesus is qualified to be the King of Israel because He has been anointed to be King. But merely being anointed as King is no sign that the reign has begun. By way of illustration, David, son of Jesse, was anointed to be king over Israel when he was around 16 or 17 years of age. But he did not begin his reign over the nation until his arch-enemy, Saul, was dead. He reigned seven years over Judah only from age 30 to age 37 (2 Sam. 2:11). Then he reigned an additional 33 years over both Israel and Judah (2 Sam. 5:5). By contrast, Jesus has been waiting now for nearly 2000 years to begin his reign over Israel. The Israelis have not yet consented for Him to be their King. One day they will (Zech. 12:10-13:1).

The "Anointed One" will fulfill His anointing as King when He returns to reign on Earth from Jerusalem, Israel, over the Nation of Israel. And He will extend His rule over the entire world. Jesus is the Anointed One, but His being seated at the right hand of the Father is not His Davidic Kingdom Rule.

By way of application, since each slave received the same amount, each slave had equal opportunity to invest for His master. So it is today. Some of us may be gifted more, some less. But each of us has the same opportunity as another to invest our time, talents, money, and other resources on behalf of King Jesus. What we do with that opportunity is up to each of us.

&lt;sup>403</sup> *** Luke 19:12 - and then return: Jesus' whole objective in departing to a distant country (heaven) is to receive a kingdom and then return. Why? – Because the Earth is the place where the kingdom is to be installed.

Luke 19:13 - ten of his slaves: The man of noble birth had more than ten slaves. He picked ten of them. This is simply a representative number. Technically, these slaves represent Jews who believe in Jesus as their King and wish to participate with Him in His kingdom. By way of application, this parable applies to all of Jesus' slaves, regardless if they are Jewish or not.

&lt;sup>405</sup> Luke 19:13 - gave them ten minas: We are not to understand that he handed out ten minas to each slave. Rather, he gave out ten minas, distributing them equally among the ten slaves. Each slave received one mina. A mina was a large sum of money, equal to about three months' wages. Let us say that a common laborer received $10 per hour and worked ten hours per day, six days per week. That would amount to $7800, which we will round upwards to $8000. So each slave received $8000 to invest on behalf of the master.

&lt;sup>406</sup> Luke 9:13 - Do business with this until I come back: The nobleman gave no indication as to how long it would take him to receive his kingdom. In the parable, the nobleman returned during the lifetime of the slaves. In real life, however, many lifetimes of many people have elapsed, but the King has not yet returned. No matter. We are still charged with doing business, with making investments on behalf of King Jesus until He returns to earth. Each of us who is a slave of the King possesses an ongoing mandate – we must invest for the King with His resources until He returns. The fact that He is going to return causes us to realize that He will want to know what we have done with the abilities, time, and opportunities He has provided to us. It also helps us realize that what we have has been given to us. It is nothing we have earned ourselves. It is our ongoing responsibility to make as good an investment with that which we have been entrusted as we possibly can.

Luke 9:14 - But his citizens hated him: These citizens refer to the nation of Israel as a whole. They hated and continue to hate Jesus. They did not and do not want Him as their King. Of course, there will always be a remnant of Israel who do accept Jesus as their King. These would be represented, in the parable, by the slaves, at least, the cooperative ones. But the majority of Israelis do not wish Jesus to be their King.

Of course, we know that more than just Israelis hate Jesus. Most of the world does so. But that is not the point of this parable. All that Jesus is concerned about here is the nation of Israel's rejection of Jesus as their King. In fact, He will go on to weep over His nation and their rejection of Him as their Messiah. He will shed tears because He knows the tragic judgment that will befall Jerusalem, the capital city of the nation of Israel, for having rejected her King (Luke 19:41-44).

&lt;sup>409</sup> Luke 19:16 - authority over ten cities: This was quite a step upward. Since the slave had been faithful in the financial arena by successfully investing the money in commodities or real estate or business, the King could trust him to do an effective, faithful job as mayor over ten cities, or as governor over a region containing ten cities. So, from investing money, the faithful slave has graduated now to investing in cities.

The application is clear. If we, the King's slaves, are faithful in investing time, talents, and opportunities Jesus gives us as we live in this life, He will reward us when He returns. His reward will consist of additional opportunities to continue to invest for him on a much larger scale. It will require all of our diligence and resourcefulness to make an effective contribution in Jesus' coming Kingdom here upon earth. Faithfulness in investing money and resources for Jesus in this life will undoubtedly give us even greater opportunity to serve Jesus in such responsible positions as mayor or governor over a number of cities in the next life – the Millennial Kingdom of Christ. This life is not merely a dress rehearsal. It is a test of faithfulness. Faithfulness in serving the King now, in this life, will inevitably result in tangible, measurable, stretching and exciting opportunities in the next life!

Certainly, this slave took no risk in investing the money at his disposal. To make money, one must always take a risk. Correspondingly, to serve Jesus the King in His absence, we must take a risk. The fearful will not take a risk, and will have little to show for their cautious approach. If you want to serve Jesus, you have to take risks. To take a risk is to run the possibility of failure and ridicule. But never to take risks is to risk a disastrous evaluation by the King when He returns. Jesus is singularly unimpressed with those who will not take risks to serve Him.

&lt;sup>412</sup> Luke 19:21 - for I was afraid of you: In his explanation, the third slave, in effect, blames the king. He, the slave, is to be excused for his non-investment because he was afraid of the king. His fear stemmed, according to him, because he felt the king was a hard taskmaster with unfair and unreasonable expectations.

<sup>413</sup> Luke 19:25 - Master, he has ten minas already: There are many today, even in Christendom, who have been seduced by Marxism. "Fairness" is the watchword, defined by Marx's mantra, "From each according to his ability; to each according to his need." It has become politically correct, even in America, to level the playing field and redistribute income. Jesus, the King, was singularly unimpressed with the objection of these unnamed bystanders.

<sup>414</sup> Luke 19:26 - to everyone who has, more shall be given: The United States government, very visibly, under the guidance of Presidents Obama and Biden; and the U. S. culture, under the influence of lawmakers, educators, pop culture icons, and the news media have become obsessed with the redistribution of earned income. There is little to no concern as to whether or not someone has earned what he is receiving. Rather, citizens and non-citizens are perceived as having the inalienable right to be supported financially by those who are working diligently, simply on the basis that they exist. This policy is, in fact, unfair. It demoralizes and disincentivizes those who ought to be working hard. Jesus will have none of this philosophical nonsense. He places a premium on faithfulness. The more faithful you are, the more opportunities He will give you to serve Him. The more unfaithful you are with what you have been given, the less He responsibility He will entrust to you. Jesus is not hampered by political correctness.

Luke 19:27 - slay them in my presence: There are many within Christendom who find this closing command repugnant, and they try to minimize the force of it. But this is exactly what will happen to all Jewish people who do not wish Jesus to be their Messiah at His return. The O.T. describes these as "rebels" who will be purged from the nation (Ezek. 20:33-38). In fact, there will be many Israelis who will be touched by the Spirit of God, and who will mourn over Him whom they have pierced (Zech. 12:10-13:1).

Likewise, those among the Gentile nations who have not served the King in the Tribulation period preceding His Second Coming, will be judged and sent away, cast into "the eternal fire which has been prepared for the devil and his angels" (Matt. 25:41, 46).

&lt;sup>416</sup> Luke 19:30 - colt tied on which no one yet has ever sat: The facts that (1) this colt would allow two strangers to handle him and (2) this colt would allow Jesus to sit on him are evidences of two miracles! This is unheard of. It takes a lot of time and effort for a good horseman to "break" a wild colt. Jesus, miraculously, from a distance, controlled the disposition of this colt when the two disciples led him back to Jesus. And he controlled the colt when He sat on it. Jesus, of course, is the Creator. He has the capacity – with or without a bridle and reins – to control the animals He has created.

Luke is non-specific as to the type of animal. The word "colt" here is the Accusative Masculine Singular of the noun  $p\bar{o}los$  (4454), the male colt of either a horse or a donkey. Matthew is more specific. He wrote that the two disciples would find a donkey  $\acute{o}nos$  (3688) tied there in the city, along with its colt. The two disciples were to untie both of them and bring them both to Jesus (Matt. 21:2). In Matt. 21:5, Matthew cited Jesus as fulfilling the words of a prophet. He quoted 4 lines. The first line, "Say to the daughter of Zion," quoted both Isa. 62:11 and Zech. 9:9, while the last three quoted Zech. 9:9, "Behold your King is coming to you; He is just and endowed with salvation, Humble, and mounted on a donkey, Even on a colt, the foal of a donkey." The term "donkey" in Zech. 9:9 is khamōr (2543), "donkey," and the term "donkey" in Matt. 21:5 is  $\acute{o}nos$  (3688), "donkey." So Jesus came in His "Triumphal Entry" into Jerusalem riding on a donkey colt, its mother apparently trailing along.

&lt;sup>417</sup> Luke 19:33 - owners: the term is the Nominative Masculine Plural of the noun kúrios (2962), in the plural, and in this context, "lords, masters, owners" (adapted from Accordance).

<sup>419</sup> Luke 19:38 - "Blessed is the King who comes in the name of the LORD" - a quotation, slightly modified, of Psalm 118:26. The original psalm was not distinctly Messianic. It reads, "Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the LORD." The disciples of Jesus altered the generic term "the one" to "the King" – clearly and deliberately giving this quotation a Messianic slant. By riding this colt into Jerusalem, Jesus was clearly and boldly proclaiming Himself as the King of Israel, the One deliberately fulfilling Zechariah 9:9. The disciples knew and understood, and, modifying Psalm 118:26, deliberately inserted the title, "the King" in reference to Jesus. Some Pharisees in the crowd knew exactly what was going on, and, utterly scandalized, commanded Jesus to rebuke His disciples! He refused, saying that if the disciples remained quiet, the very rocks would be forced to break out in praise! G. Campbell Morgan, The Gospel According to Luke, Westwood, N.J.: Fleming H. Revell Co., 1931, p. 220 (cited by Constable), wrote,

Luke 19:44 - because you did not recognize the time of your visitation: In other words, God had visited His people personally in the person of Jesus, the Messiah. The great bulk of Israel, represented by these Pharisees and most of the priests and the Sanhedrin did not acknowledge Him as her Messiah. The results were disastrous to Israel. In fact, Israel has never recovered from that judgment to this very day. The entire world calls much of the land of Israel occupied territory (because they believe the so-called "Palestinians" have the right to the land, and not Israel). Israel cannot even rebuild her own Temple on her own Temple Mount because Islam has usurped the entire Temple area with a false shrine, the Dome of the Rock, along with a false prayer hall, the Al Aqsa Mosque.

<sup>426</sup> Luke 20:2 - Tell us by what authority You are doing these things: Probably what gave rise to this question was Jesus' fearless driving out merchants from the temple grounds and His statements justifying His action (Luke 19:45-46). He was absolutely correct in doing this. This was an illegitimate use of the temple and the leaders were profiting from this abusive trade. Jesus' actions no doubt infuriated the Jewish leadership. Their problem was that they did not believe Jesus was the Messiah and therefore He did not come from God. Jesus' actions put Him on a collision course with the leadership. They would not repent and be converted into trusting Him, and their only face-saving response would be to kill Him!

Luke 20:3 - question: The Greek term is the Accusative Masculine Singular of the noun lógos (3056), "word, speech, message, argument; book, volume" (Accordance). In this context, the translation "question" is appropriate.

&lt;sup>428</sup> Luke 20:4 - Was the baptism of John from heaven or from men?: This was an extremely clever question, and it highlighted their hard hearts. They did not believe John was a prophet from God, but they could not risk stating publicly what they believed privately. In other words, they were hypocrites. But hypocrites cannot afford to admit they are hypocrites because they are enemies of the truth. We see this all the time today among politicians and news reporters. These hypocrites decided the wisest course of action was to remain silent and not reveal what they really believed. Their hardness of heart toward John was also evident in their hardness of heart toward Jesus.

    - G 2 The abusive treatment of the slave by the tenants
      - H 1 They beat him: but the vine-growers beat him<sup>434</sup>

&lt;sup>431</sup> Luke 20:9 - vine-growers: NASB note – "Or tenant farmers, also vv. 10, 14, 16. I prefer the simpler translation, "tenants." The term is the Dative Masculine Plural of the noun geōrgós (1092), "a husbandman, tiller of the soil, a vine dresser" (OBU); "farmer" (Accordance).

The tenants were the civil and spiritual leaders of Israel. These included the priests, led by the high priest; the Sanhedrin, the Supreme Court of Israel, who were the civil and political rulers of the nation, also called the elders of the nation; and the quasi religious / political groups such as the Pharisees and the Saduccees. Nicodemus, for example, was a "man of the Pharisees" and he was also a "ruler of the Jews," (John 3:1) meaning he belonged to the seventy-member Sanhedrin, or Ruling Council (see Num. 11:16). The tenants or vine-growers also included the scribes (grammateus, 1122) who copied the Scriptures and developed a certain notoriety as being "lawyers" (nomikós, 3544) of the Law because they spent so much time copying it. Luke has already recorded that "the Pharisees and the lawyers rejected God's purpose for themselves, not having been baptized by John" (Luke 7:30). These were representative of the entire community of religious and civil leaders who, almost to a man rejected Jesus as Israel's Messiah. Nicodemus (John 3:1-18; 7:50-51; 19:38-42) was an exception. So also was Joseph of Arimathea, like Nicodemus, also a member of the Sanhedrin, and a secret follower of Jesus – secret for fear of the Jews (John 19:38).

 $<sup>^{432}</sup>$  Luke 20:10 - slave: the Greek noun is  $do\tilde{u}los$  ( $\underline{1401}$ ), "slave." The slaves in this parable were the prophets of God, often persecuted because they brought messages from God that were the truth, and indicted the sinful actions of the people and their leaders.

&lt;sup>434</sup> Luke 20:10 - beat him: Historically, the nation of Israel and its leaders often ignored and mistreated the prophets God sent. Isaiah and Stephen (Acts 7) are two examples of prophets killed by Israel. King Saul ordered Doeg the Edomite to kill 85 priests of Nob (1 Sam. 22:18-19).

Luke 20:13 - owner: The NASB footnote: "Lit lord". The term is the Nominative Masculine Singular of the noun kúrios (2962), "lord, master, the Lord" (Accordance); "he to whom a person or thing belongs, about which he has power of deciding; master, lord ... the possessor and disposer of a thing [or person]" (excerpted and adapted from OBU).

Luke 20:13 - my beloved son: God would send His "only-born Son" (John 1:14, 18; 3:16, 18; 1 John 4:9) to reap a harvest of righteousness and obedience from the nation of Israel. This son was, of course, Jesus. Immediately after Jesus' baptism, a voice was heard from the heavens, "This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased" (Matt. 3:17; Mark 1:11; Luke 3:22). Likewise, on the "Mount of Transfiguration," the three disciples, Peter, James, and John heard a voice out of a bright cloud overshadowing them, speaking about Jesus, "This is My beloved Son, with whom I am well-pleased; listen to Him!" (Matt. 17:5; Mark 9:7).

&lt;sup>437</sup> Luke 20:16 - destroy these vine-growers: God used the Roman army to kill a million Israelis trapped in Jerusalem in AD 70. This would have included most of the leaders. The Roman Emperor Hadrian destroyed the city of Jerusalem in AD 135. Since then, Israel has not really been a viable political entity until 1948, when it achieved its independence for the first time in millennia.

&lt;sup>438</sup> Luke 20:16 - and will give the vineyard to others: I once was discussing by email with a female Presbyterian pastor God's plan to restore the nation of Israel to a place of blessing and usefulness. She objected, citing this passage. She believed that God had permanently rejected the nation of Israel and had forever given the place of blessing and service to the Church. But she took this Scripture out of the larger context of Scripture. Paul assures us in Romans 11:1-36 that God's setting aside of the nation of Israel was only temporary. He set aside Israel to obtain Gentile salvation and bring about Jewish jealousy. But there has always been a remnant of Israel. In the future God

B 5 The Attempts of the Leaders to Trap Jesus 20:19-47

  - D 1 The leaders identified
    - E 1 The scribes: {19} The scribes
    - E 2 The chief priests: and the chief priests
  - D 2 The attempt of the leaders: tried to lay hands on Him
  - D 3 The time of their attempt: that very hour, will bring about the total national salvation of Israel (Rom. 11:26, compare Isa. 59:20-21; 27:9)! For that reason we ought to praise God for His merciful wisdom to all the nations, including the nation of Israel! (See the final section of the author's brief outline of Romans especially as it relates to God's treatment of Israel in respect to the nations as discussed by Paul in Romans 11.)

Luke 20:18 - (the stone) will scatter him like dust: This is probably a reference to the vision the Prophet Daniel was given (Dan. 2:31-35, 44-45) of a stone hewn out of the mountain without hands that would crush and pulverize the kingdoms of man. This stone would grow into a great mountain that would fill the earth. This is a reference to the coming kingdom of Jesus Christ that will crush human kingdoms and grow into a world-wide-kingdom.

Luke 20:20 - deliver Him to the rule and the authority of the governor: This shows that these leaders wanted to charge Jesus with a crime deserving of public execution by the authority, Pontius Pilate. They did not have the authority from Rome to put criminals to death. Only the Roman governor could do that in Israel.

The term "governor" is the Genitive Masculine Singular of the noun  $h\bar{e}gem\bar{o}n$  (2232), "a "legatus Caesaris", an officer administering a province in the name and with the authority of the Roman emperor ... the governor of a province" (excerpted from OBU).

      - G 3 His instruction of the length of sitting: {43} Until I make Your enemies a footstool for Your feet." 20:43

Jesus' point was that Moses spoke of God as presently being the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob—all of whom had died. He inferred from this that God could only be their God if they would rise from the dead eventually. God will raise all people eventually. All "live to Him" in that sense. Therefore "to Him all are alive" (NIV). Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, whose souls are presently alive, will experience bodily resurrection at the Second Coming, and will live in the earthly kingdom as "sons of the resurrection" (v. 36).

    - G 2 What the scribes do 20:47a-b

Jesus suggested the logical conclusion by framing it as a question. Messiah must be both deity and a descendant of David (cf. Rom 1:3-4). No synoptic writer recorded that anyone in the crowd gave Jesus an answer. Apparently no one offered one. The conclusion was obvious—but unacceptable to the religious leaders. They did not want to admit that Messiah was God. If they admitted this, they, being the leaders in charge of the nation, would be forced to prove that Jesus was not God, since He claimed to be Messiah. They did not want to do that because of popular support for Jesus' messiahship, and because they would have had to submit to Him.

Jesus' point was that Messiah had to be God as well as a descendant of David. He quoted Psalm 110:1 in order to show that this messianic psalm presented David as addressing Messiah, who was seated at Yahweh's right hand, a position that only God Himself could occupy.

The second quotation addresses Luke 20:44:

- H 2 Offering long prayers for the sake of appearance: and for appearance's sake offer long prayers. 20:47b
- G 3 What the scribes have earned: These will receive greater condemnation." 447 20:47c

Luke 20:47 - greater condemnation: The term "condemnation" is the Accusative Neuter Singular of the noun krima (2917), "judgment, decree, decision" (Accordance); "...II. judgment ... 2. in a forensic sense 1. the sentence of a judge 2. the sentence with which one is sentenced 3. condemnatory sentence, penal judgment, sentence ...." (excerpted from OBU).

I believe the translation "judgment" is to be preferred above "condemnation." This looks ahead to an ultimate judgment passed by Jesus the Judge, granted authority by God the Father (John 5:25-32).

the Greek text says. NASB reads "putting their gifts into the treasury." However, the Greek text says they were throwing into the treasury their gifts ...." The verb is Present Active Participle Accusative Masculine Plural of the Greek verb bállō (906), "to throw or let go of a thing without caring where it falls ...." Evidently the Treasury had a conical, or trumpet-shaped device into which coins could be tossed. These would roll around the perimeter of the device and eventually fall into the waiting receptacle below. Remember there were no paper bills. All money consisted of coins. (See Net Bible's discussion of "offering box" at Luke 21:1.)

When the flames finally died down, left standing was the retaining wall on the western side of the Temple Mount. This is the Western Wall that still stands in Jerusalem today, where Jews over the centuries have gathered to pray.

Without a temple, the one central sanctuary commanded by the Law (Deut. 12:1-31), Judaism floundered. Jesus would go on to predict, in Luke 21:23-24

{23} Woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing babies in those days; for there will be great distress upon the land and wrath to this people; {24} and they will fall by the edge of the sword, and will be led captive into all the nations; and Jerusalem will be trampled under foot by the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.

That remains the case to this very day. Jerusalem is still trampled under foot by the Gentiles. The Islamic shrine "Dome of the Rock" has been planted on the very spot where the Temple once stood, defiling the entire Temple Mount. Moreover the Islamic Al Aqsa Mosque (House of Prayer) also defiles the Temple precinct on its southernmost area. It is impossible for Jewish people to pray on top of their own temple mount for fear of inciting a regional or perhaps world-wide blood-bath.

Luke 21:6 - there will not be left one stone upon another: This tragic punishment on the Nation of Israel for rejecting and executing her own Messiah took place in AD 70. "In AD 70, the Roman general Titus (son of Emperor Vespasian) laid waste to Jerusalem and destroyed the temple in fulfillment of Jesus' pronouncement in Luke 21:6." Luke 21:12 - But before all these things: Jesus here is outlining what would happen even long before the Tribulation. His perspective here even includes much of the Church Age. There is considerable information included in the Book of Acts and in other parts of the New Testament about Israel's mistreatment of Jewish followers of Jesus. I say "Israel's" and "Jewish" because of the reference to "synagogues" in Luke 21:12. The reference to "prisons," "kings," and "governors" reveals that there will be not only Jewish opposition to Jesus' followers, but also Gentile opposition. To the church at Thessalonica Paul wrote greatly comforting words – persecuted believers in Christ can know that vengeance and retribution are coming against the enemies of God and Jesus at the latter's Second Coming (2 Thess. 2:1-12)!

&lt;sup>452</sup>Luke 21:27 - Then they will see the Son of Man coming: For most of the world, this will be a time of terror. They will see Jesus coming back to earth, and the grim realization will set in – there is nothing we can do to avoid having to face Him and His wrath at evil and evil people! Rev. 1:7 says that "all the tribes of the earth will mourn over Him."

I once met a man in a county jail who had just killed his wife in anger. When I met him, he was half-crying, and his words said everything, "What are they going to do with me, Jim?" He was not sorrowful at having murdered his wife. He was terrified at what the authorities would do to him! So it will be with the vast majority of people alive at Christ's return. When they see Jesus coming, they will mourn, not in sorrow and penitence over the evil they had done, but in terror at finally having to pay the price of judgment for having violated with impunity the standards of a just and awesome God who can send them to hell.

OBU gives four definitions "I. fathered, birth, nativity II. that which has been begotten, men of the same stock, a family 1. the several ranks of natural descent, the successive members of a genealogy 2. metaph. a group of men very like each other in endowments, pursuits, character 1. esp. in a bad sense, a perverse nation III. the whole multitude of men living at the same time IV. an age (i.e. the time ordinarily occupied by each successive generation), a space of 30-33 years" (quoted from OBU in its entirety).

Let me give you two possible interpretations and one impossible interpretation: (1) One possible interpretation is that Jesus was talking about the future generation alive when all these things would take place, including the celestial upheavals and disturbances. "Got Questions" takes this interpretation, for example; so also does Thomas Constable.

(2) Another possible interpretation is that Jesus used "generation" in the sense of I and II above, and that He was referring to the race of Israelis. If this is the correct interpretation, Jesus was predicting that, though many Israelis would be slaughtered down through the centuries, the race of Israel would never be obliterated, but that all things He predicted to take place to them would be fulfilled. I find both these views plausible. Indeed, they may both be true at the same time!

The view that I find impossible to hold is the preterist view, that everything contained in Luke 21:5-33 has already been fulfilled or has been largely fulfilled. They believe that the "second coming" to which Jesus referred was His coming in judgment against Israel in A.D. 70. To hold to this view, one must maintain to be true things that did not actually happen. When, in past history did all the cosmic disturbances Jesus predicted take place? They did not. Moreover, if Jesus did come in A.D. 70, where is the kingdom He predicted? It does not exist. To hold to the preterist view one must allegorize certain Scriptures, that is, interpret them in a non-literal fashion. Once one does that, he can make the Scriptures say about anything he wants them to say. Non-literalism is a curse upon Biblical interpretation. (See also the off-site article, "What is the preterist view of the end times?")

<sup>454</sup> Luke 21:33 - Heaven and earth will pass away: Indeed they will – with a gigantic roar and a frightening nuclear inferno described in 2 Pet. 3:7, 10-12. This is a complete destruction. John reveals that, at the appearance of Christ sitting on the Great White Throne, the existing heaven and earth will flee away, and no place will be found for them. They will be incinerated and will vanish forever (Rev. 20:11). Only when the existing universe has disappeared can God create a new one, in which only righteousness and righteous people exist (2 Pet. 3:13; Rev. 21:1).

  - D 3 The practice of the people 21:38

Luke 21:35 - for it will come upon all those who dwell on the face of all the earth: I believe this clause, like the ten similar statements written by John in the book of Revelation, is code for unbelievers. One of the primary purposes of the entire Tribulation period is "to test those who dwell on the earth" (Rev. 3:10). Believers of the Church Age will be preserved from this "hour of testing" – they will be snatched up in the Rapture, ever to be with the Lord (John 14:1-3; 1 Thess. 1:10; 2:19; 4:13-18; 5:4-5, 9). There will be no believers left upon the earth at the beginning of the Tribulation. Of those individuals left behind at the Rapture who subsequently do become believers during the Tribulation, most will be martyred for their faith (Rev. 6:9-11; 7:9-17; 13:1-8, 11-18). But in contrast to the "Earth-Dwellers," all who believe in Jesus are people whose citizenship is in heaven, not on the earth (Php. 3:20; Heb. 11:13-16). This present earth will be completely destroyed. There is no future whatever for any believers on this present earth.

Luke 22:10 - a man will meet you carrying a pitcher of water: Constable speculates that this was all prearranged. (1) The man carrying a pitcher of water would have been highly unusual. Women, not men, typically took care of the water. (2) Jesus gave no directions to the Upper Room. The two disciples would have had to follow the man bearing the water jar. (3) Why all the secrecy? So Judas could not telegraph to the religious leaders the location of the Passover celebration. (4) This upper room had everything the group would need to celebrate the Passover. It was a furnished room, and it was large. (5) According to Constable, Jesus had presumably already instructed this home-owner that He would be coming there to celebrate the meal. That is a possible, but not a mandatory explanation.

  - D 2 His purpose not to partake of the Passover again until it is fulfilled in the kingdom of God 22:16-18

<sup>458</sup> Luke 22:11 - guest room: These two words in English translate but one in Greek, the Nominative Neuter Singular of the noun katáluma (2646), a room large enough in which a family could live or which could be used as as a sizeable dining room. The first meaning was used by Luke in Luke 2:7; the second meaning was used in Mark 14:14 and Luke 22:11. In my opinion the translation of katáluma as "inn" in Luke 2:7 is misleading. The home in which Joseph and Mary could find no quarters was the large room in which the family lived and slept. There was no room for the guests there, so Mary and Joseph were forced to sleep in the animal quarters of the same home.

- E 1 His purpose not to eat the Passover meal again: {16} for I say to you, I shall never again eat it 22:16a

&lt;sup>461</sup> Luke 22:19 - This is My body: I do not believe Jesus was saying that the unleavened bread was literally His body. If He did mean that, we have a mixed metaphor, for Jesus had not died yet. How could that bread of which the disciples ate have literally been His body? What He meant was that the unleavened bread represented His body, or was commemorative of His body. That is made obvious by His subsequent statement, "do this in remembrance of Me." If the communion bread is literally Jesus' body, then Catholics and Lutherans, among others, are guilty of cannibalism.

  - E 1 Jesus' taking of the cup: {20} And in the same way He took the cup after they had eaten,
  - E 2 Jesus' revelation of the significance of the cup: saying, "This cup which is poured out for you is the new covenant in My blood. 463

  - D 1 The close proximity of the one betraying Jesus: {21} But behold, the hand of the one betraying Me is with Mine on the table. 22:21

{35} Thus says the LORD,
Who gives the sun for light by day
And the fixed order of the moon and the stars for light by night,
Who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar;
The LORD of hosts is His name:
{36} "If this fixed order departs
From before Me," declares the LORD,
"Then the offspring of Israel also will cease
From being a nation before Me forever."

{37} Thus says the LORD,

"If the heavens above can be measured And the foundations of the earth searched out below, Then I will also cast off all the offspring of Israel For all that they have done," declares the LORD.

&lt;sup>463</sup> Luke 22:20 - This cup ... is the new covenant in my blood: Once again, Jesus was not saying that the cup of wine was literally the new covenant in his blood. Rather, he was saying that the cup of wine represented the new covenant in his blood.

Technically, wine can never ratify the New Covenant. Only Jesus' blood, shed at His crucifixion, was sufficiently powerful and effective enough to ratify the New Covenant. The New Covenant cannot be ratified again and again, every time a believer in Christ partakes of the Communion ceremony. There was only one ratification — the one completed at Calvary when Jesus voluntarily surrendered His life's blood to ratify, once and for all time, the New Covenant (Heb. 10:11-12).

There is a sense in which the New Covenant is inaugurated for each individual person the moment He places His trust in Jesus. There are individual Israelis down through Church History, beginning on the Day of Pentecost, who have placed their trust in Jesus as their Messiah. For them, the New Covenant has been inaugurated. But the bulk of Israelis have turned their backs on Jesus as their Messiah. For the nation of Israel, the inauguration of the New Covenant awaits the return of the Messiah and Israel's repentance for having killed their King (see Zech. 12:10-13:1). Let us remember that the initial people who were promised the New Covenant were the house of Israel and the house of Judah – the whole nation. The New Covenant will not have achieved its initial purpose and design until the entire nation of Israel places its trust in Jesus as their Messiah (Jer. 31:31-34). They will all know Him, from the least to the greatest of them. God will forgive their iniquity and remember their sin no more (Jer. 31:34). And for those deluded, arrogant Gentiles who think that God has forever turned His back on Israel, and that the Church has replaced Israel, here is what the LORD says (Jer. 31:35-37):

- D 2 The predetermination of God in the betrayal: {22} For indeed, the Son of Man is going as it has been determined; 464 22:22a
- D 3 Woe to the betrayer: but woe to that man by whom He is betrayed!"465 22:22b
- D 4 The disciples' discussion as to which of them might be the betrayer: {23} And they began to discuss among themselves which one of them it might be who was going to do this thing. 466 22:23
- C 4 Preaching on greatness: Jesus' discussion of greatness in the kingdom 22:24-30
  - D 1 The occasion the dispute as to who was the greatest: {24} And there arose also a dispute among them as to which one of them was regarded to be greatest. 22:24
  - D 2 Jesus' reference to the authoritative ruling style of the nations' kings 22:25
    - E 1 The actions of the rulers: {25} And He said to them, "The kings of the Gentiles lord it over them;
    - E 2 The title of the rulers: and those who have authority over them are called 'Benefactors.'
  - D 3 Jesus' premium on serving 22:26-27
    - E 1 The way of the Gentiles is intolerable for them: {26} But it is not this way with you, 22:26a
    - E 2 The expected demeanor of the greatest: but the one who is the greatest among you must become like the youngest, 22:26b
    - E 3 The expected demeanor of the leader: and the leader like the servant. 22:26c
    - E 4 Jesus' question about who is the greater: {27} For who is greater, the one who reclines at the table or the one who serves? Is it not the one who reclines at the table? 22:27a

Luke 22:22 - as it has been determined: If God has determined something is going to come to pass, man is powerless to stop it or prevent it from happening. God was doing exactly as He pleased, and Satan was doing exactly as he pleased, and Judas was doing exactly as he pleased.

Luke 22:22 - but woe to that man by whom He is betrayed! God does what He pleases and He allows man to do what He pleases. But, barring the intervening grace of God, man can never avoid the evil consequences of his evil choices.

&lt;sup>466</sup> Luke 22:23 - which one of them it might be who was going to do this thing: The disciples' ignorance of Judas' character and intent is striking. Up to this point Judas had done nothing that would indicate to his closest friends the evil depth of his character.

- E 5 Jesus' example as having adopted the servant posture: But I am among you as the one who serves. 22:27b
- D 4 Jesus' promise to the twelve of judging the twelve tribes in the kingdom 22:28-30
  - E 1 His gratefulness to them for remaining true to Him during His trials: {28} "You are those who have stood by Me in My trials; 22:28

    - G 2 And that they will sit on thrones: and you will sit on thrones 22:30b
    - G 3 Judging the twelve tribes of Israel: judging the twelve tribes of Israel.22:30c
- C 5 Prediction of denial: Jesus' prediction of Peter's denial 22:31-34
  - D 1 Jesus' revelation to Simon Satan has demanded permission to sift him: {31} "Simon, Simon, behold, Satan has demanded permission to sift you like wheat; 22:31
  - D 2 Jesus has prayed for him that his faith may not fail: {32} but I have prayed for you, that your faith may not fail; 22:32a
  - D 3 When Simon has been restored to fellowship, he is to strengthen his brothers: and you, when once you have turned again, strengthen your brothers." 22:32b
  - D 4 Simon's protest that he was prepared to suffer with Jesus in prison and in death: {33} But he said to Him, "Lord, with You I am ready to go both to prison and to death!" 22:33
  - D 5 Jesus' prediction of Simon's three-fold denial of Jesus: {34} And He said, "I say to you, Peter, the rooster will not crow today until

Luke 22:29 - My Father has granted Me a kingdom: This is not a reference to a non-literal spiritual rule in the hearts and lives of almost entirely Gentile believers during the Church Age. This is a very tangible kingdom involving eating and drinking at Jesus' table (Luke 22:30), sitting on thrones (Luke 22:30), and judging the twelve tribes of Israel (Luke 22:30). This is the Millennial Kingdom, promised time and again in the OT, (Psa. 2:4-12; Isa. 2:1-4; 9:6-7; 11:1-10; 60:1-22; Dan. 2:44-45; 7:13-14; Joel 2:18-29, 32; 3:1-3, 16-21) and specified as a literal one thousand years in Rev. 20:1-7.

  - D 1 Jesus' reminder of His previous instructions: {35} And He said to them, 22:35
    - E 1 How he had sent them out on a mission: "When I sent you out
      - G 1 without money belt
      - G 2 and bag
      - G 3 and sandals,

    - E 3 Their response: They said, "No, nothing."
  - D 2 His present new instructions: {36} And He said to them, "But now, 22:36

    - E 2 likewise also a bag,
    - E 3 and whoever has no sword is to sell his coat and buy one.
  - D 3 His reasoning 22:37
    - E 1 So that the Scriptures about Him might be fulfilled: {37} For I tell you that this which is written must be fulfilled in Me,
    - E 2 The precise Scripture: 'And He was numbered with transgressors'; 468
    - E 3 What refers to Him there must have its fulfillment: for that which refers to Me has its fulfillment."

Luke 22:38 - two swords: One of them, unnamed by Luke, would cut off the right ear of the slave of the high priest (Luke 22:50). John identified the assailant as Simon Peter (John 18:10). John also identified the slave whose right ear was cut off as Malchus. John did not record that Jesus healed the ear, but  $\underline{Dr}$ . Luke did (Luke 22:51)!

- C 7 Prayer in agony: Jesus' agonized, yet submissive prayer in Gethsemane for bypassing the cross 22:39-46
  - D 1 Jesus' customary nighttime trip to the Mount of Olives: {39} And He came out and proceeded as was His custom to the Mount of Olives; 22:39a

    - E 1 He withdrew from them a short distance: {41} And He withdrew from them about a stone's throw, 22:41a

- C 1 The arrest 22:47-53
  - D 1 The arrival of the mob 22:47
    - E 1 The time of their arrival: {47} While He was still speaking,
    - E 2 The arrival of a crowd: behold, a crowd came,
    - E 3 The arrival of Judas
      - G 1 His name: and the one called Judas,
      - G 2 His position: one of the twelve,
      - G 3 His position in the mob: was preceding them;

  - E 3 What Jesus asked: "Have you come out with swords and clubs as you would against a robber? 22:52c
  - E 4 What Jesus observed 22:53
    - G 1 You didn't arrest me during the day, did you? {53} While I was with you daily in the temple, you did not lay hands on Me;
    - G 2 This late hour and the power of darkness belong to you: but this hour and the power of darkness <sup>470</sup> are yours."
- C 2 The denial: Peter's three-fold denial of Jesus in the courtyard of the high priest's home 22:54-62
  - D 1 The place to which the mob led Jesus: {54} Having arrested Him, they led Him away and brought Him to the house of the high priest; 22: 54a
  - D 2 Peter's situation 22:54b-55
    - E 1 but Peter was following at a distance. 22:54b
    - E 2 The kindling of a fire: {55} After they had kindled a fire in the middle of the courtyard and had sat down together, Peter was sitting among them. 22:55

Luke 22:53 - the power of darkness: Jesus meant this on a literal and also a spiritual level. On a literal level, if they operated in the darkness, the people could not see them and protest. On a spiritual level, they were operating in the power and on the terms of the Prince of Darkness – Satan himself!

- E 3 The actions of a slave girl: {56} And a servant-girl, <sup>471</sup> 22:56

- E 5 The accusation of another: {58} A little later, another saw him and said, "You are one of them too!" 22:58a
- E 6 Peter's second denial: But Peter said, "Man, I am not!" 22:58b
- E 7 The accusation of a third 22:59
  - G 1 The time lapse: {59} After about an hour had passed,

- E 8 Peter's third denial: {60} But Peter said, "Man, I do not know what you are talking about." 22:60a
- E 9 The crowing of a rooster: Immediately, while he was still speaking, a rooster crowed. 22:60b
- E 10 The look of the Lord: {61} The Lord turned and looked at Peter. 22:61a
- E 11 The remembrance of Peter: And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how He had told him, "Before a rooster crows today, you will deny Me three times." 22:61b

<sup>471</sup> Luke 22:56 - servant-girl: the Nominative Feminine Singular of the noun paidiskē (3814), perhaps better, "slave-girl" (see, for example, Acts 16:16; Gal. 4:22, 23, 30). Why was it necessary for these thugs to bring along a slave-girl to arrest Jesus? Regardless, the truth of the matter is that Peter was sufficiently agitated by a slave girl that he felt it necessary to deny knowing Jesus! That was pretty humiliating!

- E 12 Peter's reaction 22:62
  - G 1 His departure: {62} And he went out
  - G 2 His bitter weeping: and wept bitterly.

  - D 2 Their shameful activity 22:63b-65
    - E 1 Mocking Him: were mocking Him 22:63b
    - E 2 Beating Him: and beating Him, 22:63c
    - E 3 Blindfolding Him: {64} and they blindfolded Him 22:64a
    - E 4 Asking Him to prophesy who was beating Him: and were asking Him, saying, "Prophesy, who is the one who hit You?" 22:64b
    - E 5 Their other shameful statements: {65} And they were saying many other things against Him, 22:65a
    - E 6 Their blasphemy: blaspheming. 22:65b

- C 1 Before the Council of Elders: The Council of Elders hears Jesus' admission to being the Messianic Son of God 22:66-71
  - D 1 The time indicated: {66} When it was day, 22:66a

In this case the reference was to the official Sanhedrin of Israel, the ruling body of seventy elders who served as Israel's Supreme Court. - D 8 His response: And He said to them, "Yes, I am." 474 22:70b
- D 9 Their conclusion 22:71

  - E 2 They have heard His response from His own mouth: For we have heard it ourselves from His own mouth."
- C 2 Before Pilate: Jesus' admission to being the King of the Jews; Pilate's sending Him to Herod 23:1-7
  - D 1 The action of the Sanhedrin: {1} Then the whole body of them got up and brought Him before Pilate. 475 23:1
  - D 2 Their accusations against Jesus before Pilate: {2} And they began to accuse Him, saying, 23:2

    - E 3 Saying that He is Christ, a King: and saying that He Himself

Luke 22:70 - "Yes, I am": Literally, what Jesus was saying was "You are saying that I – I AM!" Idiomatically, Jesus was agreeing with their question. But in reality He cleverly worded it so that they were the ones who were admitting that He was the great I AM who appeared to Moses in the burning bush (Exod. 3:14)! He was Yahweh-come-in-the-flesh!

- D 3 Pilate's straightforward question: {3} So Pilate asked Him, saying, "Are You the King of the Jews?" 23:3a

  - E 1 His learning of the fact: {6} When Pilate heard it, 23:6a
  - E 2 His asking the question about jurisdiction: he asked whether the man was a Galilean. 23:6b
  - E 3 His learning that Jesus belonged to Herod's jurisdiction: {7} And when he learned that He belonged to Herod's jurisdiction, 23:7a

Luke 23:2 - Christ, a King: The title "Christ" means "Anointed One." In Biblical terms, the first Priest of Israel, Aaron, was anointed, Prophets were sometimes anointed, and Kings seem always to have been anointed. Here the Jewish Sanhedrin argued before Pilate that "Christ" means "King." That was the most common understanding of the title.

<sup>478</sup> Luke 23:3 - It is as you say: Literally, the Greek text records Jesus' response as being simply, "You are saying." "You" is the Nominative 2nd Person Singular of the personal pronoun sú (4771), "You"; "are saying" is the Present Indicative Active 2nd Person Singular of the very common verb légō (3004), "to say, speak, tell" (Accordance). The NASB translation, "It is as you say" is a fair paraphrase of that which Jesus meant to say. However, there is the added legal note that Jesus was quoting Pilate as the one admitting the truth that Jesus was the King of the Jews. This was a clever tactic on Jesus' part. Pilate, not Jesus, was the one stating, for the legal record, that Jesus was the King of the Jews!

&lt;sup>480</sup> Luke 23:8 - sign: the Accusative Neuter Singular of the noun semeion (4592), "sign, miracle ..." (excerpted from Accordance). Herod was not being sincere. He simply wanted to be entertained by watching Jesus perform some miracle, like a magician at a sideshow in a circus. Jesus' signs were meant to engender faith in Himself (John 20:30-31), and Herod Antipas had no desire to place his trust in Jesus. He would receive no miracle.

Edinburgh: Saint Andrew Press, 1964., p. 296, Constable writes, "Verse 31 is a proverbial phrase which could be used in many connections. Quoting The New Scofield Reference Bible, p. 1119, and referencing also Jim Bishop, The Day Christ Died. New York: Harper and Brothers, 1957, p. 305, Constable writes,

Luke 23:38 - THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS: According to Matt. 27:37 and Mark 15:26, this was the charge against Jesus - the charge levied by Pilate the Governor, as representing the Roman Empire. According to John 19:19, the full charge read, "JESUS THE NAZARENE, THE KING OF THE JEWS." The charge was written in Hebrew, Latin, and Greek (John 19:20). The chief priests of the Jews were saying to Pilate, "Do not write, 'The King of the Jews'; but that He said, "I am the King of the Jews." (John 19:21). "Pilate answered, 'What I have written, I have written" (John 19:22). So Pilate had the last word. And he was the most accurate, despite being fully culpable for having miscarried justice against the rightful King of the Jews and the Creator of the Universe!

    - E 2 His request to be identified with Jesus in His coming kingdom: {42} And he was saying, "Jesus, remember me when You come in Your kingdom!" 490 23:42
  - D 3 The promise of Jesus: {43} And He said to him, "Truly I say to you, today you shall be with Me in Paradise." 491 23:43

Luke 23:42 - Jesus, remember me when You come in Your kingdom: We are not told from what source this criminal learned what he knew about Jesus, but his knowledge and his faith were remarkable. (1) He believed that Jesus was the rightful King of the Jews. (2) He believed that, even though Jesus was in the process of being crucified, He would return to earth again to set up His kingdom! (3) His faith was such that He asked that, when Jesus did return to earth to set up His kingdom, He would remember himself, a criminal, as a devout and loyal member of His Kingdom who wished to be so treated and rewarded. This criminal expressed saving faith, and Jesus rewarded Him with a promise of reunion and Eternal Life!

Abraham and Lazarus, the poor beggar were situated (Luke 16:19-31). When Christ was resurrected and ascended, I believe He took all those in the pleasant compartment of Hades with Him to heaven. I could be wrong, but that makes the most sense to me. In the NT, the references in 2 Cor. 12:4 and Rev. 2:7 to Paradise refer to heaven. Alternatively, they could refer to New Jerusalem, presently situated as a gigantic city and garden within heaven, but, at the creation of New Earth, to be transported down from heaven as the Satellite City designed perpetually to orbit New Earth.

From this Scripture we can see that one's spirit is his immaterial, noncorporeal essence that survives beyond the grave. Ultimately, the destiny of one's spirit is either heaven or hell. There is no such thing as "soul sleep." One's spirit is fully conscious after death (Luke 16:19-31).

Archaeologists have found papyri in Egypt dealing with loans paid off. These papyri contain the single word tetélestai written across the statement – meaning, in our business language, "Paid in full!" By His sacrificial, voluntary death on the cross, Jesus paid in full the wrathful, righteous demands of God against the arrogant sins of all

Luke 23:45 - because the sun was obscured; and the veil of the temple was torn in two: Unlike other gospel writers, Luke likens the veil of the Temple being torn in two as an act of judgment upon unbelieving Israel. The Temple itself would be dissolved by an act of God, and the sacrifices would be halted. This is because Israel had snuffed out the Light that had created the sun and the rest of the universe – the Light that had illuminated all who believe with eternal life. See also Constable's explanation.

&lt;sup>493</sup> Luke 23:46 - "Father, into Your hands I commit My spirit": With the exception of the term "Father," this saying of Jesus is a direct quotation of Psalm 31:5a. Psalm 31 is a psalm of David. Other parts of the psalm include David's assurance of God's deliverance and rescue. This lone statement does not. It reflects David's (and Jesus') entrusting of their spirit (pneûma, 4151) to God. The spirit is one's rational, volitional self-consciousness that normally accesses the outside world through one's eyes, ears, nose, and senses of touch and taste. Jesus calls God His Father.

Luke 23:46 - He breathed His last: This is a true statement, even despite the fact that John records one final brief statement Jesus made – "It is finished!" (John 19:30), a statement which consists of but one word in Greek, the 3rd Singular Perfect Passive Indicative of the verb teléō (5055), "to finish, complete; perform, carry out" (Accordance). Literally, Jesus uttered the sentence, "It has been completed!"

mankind. Jesus' death was valuable enough to pay for all the sins of all mankind. But the forgiveness is not automatic. It must be accepted by the sinner. If one does not place his faith in the sacrificial Lamb of God, Jesus, the payment is ignored and the sinner bears eternal death in the Lake of Fire for his sins. Faith in Jesus is reaching out to accept the only life-saver thrown out to the sinner in danger of drowning in sin. If one does not reach out and grab the life-saver, he will inevitably drown.

Luke 23:47 - he began praising God: Better, "he was continually praising the God," wherein "he was continually praising" is the 3rd Singular Imperfect Indicative Active of the verb doxádzō (1392), "to think, suppose; to glorify, extol, venerate" (Accordance). This is another example in the NT of a centurion behaving in a creditable manner. Did he become a believer in Christ? That is more than the text states. One day we who are believers will know the depth (or otherwise) of his conviction.

&lt;sup>496</sup> Luke 23:47 - "Certainly this man was innocent": literally, "Certainly this man was being righteous," wherein "was being" is the 3rd Singular Imperfect Indicative Active of the verb eimi (1510), "to be, exist" (Accordance), and "righteous" is the Nominative Masculine Singular of the adjective dikaios (1342), "right, fair; righteous, just" (Accordance). This is yet another testimony of the innocence of Jesus, demonstrating that He was unjustly put to death. Being morally perfect, He died for the sins of others, not his own sins.

  - D 1 The identification of Joseph of Arimathea 23:50-51
    - E 1 His name: {50} And a man named Joseph, 23:50a

    - E 3 His character: a good and righteous man 23:50c
    - E 4 His opposition to the decisions of the Sanhedrin with regard to Jesus: {51} (he had not consented to their plan and action), 23:51a
    - E 5 His city of origin: a man from Arimathea, a city of the Jews, 23:51b
    - E 6 His eschatology: who was waiting for the kingdom of God;<sup>499</sup> 23:51c
  - D 2 His bold action 23:52-53
    - E 1 He went to Pilate: {52} this man went to Pilate 23:52a
    - E 2 He asked to take possession of Jesus' dead body: and asked for the body of Jesus. 500 23:52b

Another reason Joseph may have been fearful was precisely that the vast majority of his compatriots on the

Luke 23:51 - waiting for the kingdom of God: He believed, correctly, that Jesus was the promised Jewish Messiah, and that Jesus would sit on the throne of His father David in Jerusalem and rule over Israel and the world. He was incorrect about the timing of this event, which, 2,000 years later, has still not taken place. Though the text does not so state, Joseph was undoubtedly exceedingly disappointed that his faith in Jesus had not been rewarded. He must have felt the same way as the two disciples en route to the village of Emmaus, recorded in Luke 24:13-27. Regardless of his personal depression, Joseph mustered up enough courage to ask Pilate for authorization to bury Jesus' body.

Luke 23:52 - and asked for the body of Jesus: It must have taken great courage for Joseph to ask for the body of Jesus. After all, Pilate had the authority and the wherewithal to put people to death. He had just done that to Jesus. Why would he have any compassion on a Jewish official who wanted to bury Jesus' body? On the other hand, perhaps Joseph briefly explained to Pilate, who had not really wanted to put Jesus to death in the first place, that he himself, though a member of the Sanhedrin, was not in agreement with the ruling body about crucifying Jesus. We are told no details of Joseph's conversation with Pilate. All we know is that he asked for permission to bury Jesus, and that he was granted permission.

- E 3 He took the body down from the cross: {53} And he took it down 23:53a
- E 4 He wrapped it in a linen cloth: and wrapped it in a linen cloth, 23:53b
- E 5 He laid Jesus' body in a rock-hewn tomb: and laid Him in a tomb cut into the rock, 501 23:53c
- E 6 This tomb was untarnished by anyone else's corpse: where no one had ever lain. 23:53d
- C 2 The women's plan to return after the sabbath with spices and perfumes 23:54-56
  - D 1 The time constraint 23:54
    - E 1 {54} It was the preparation day,
    - E 2 and the Sabbath was about to begin.
  - D 2 The actions of the women 23:55-56
    - E 1 The identification of the women: {55} Now the women who &lt;u>Sanhedrin had vigorously supported the death of Jesus. What would they do to Joseph when they found out he had buried Jesus' body? Whatever his fears may have been, nothing deterred Joseph from asking permission for the burial.

As we read the narrative we know that members of the Sanhedrin did find out where Jesus had been buried. They requested the Roman Empire's seal preventing any grave robbery and false claiming of "resurrection." As it was, in the providence of God, their sealing of the tomb did not prevent Jesus' resurrection. It did succeed in documenting it, however!

Arimathea from the other gospels. (1) He was a wealthy man (Matt. 27:57). (2) He had become a disciple of Jesus (Matt. 27:57). (3) He was a prominent member of the Council (Sanhedrin) (Mark 15:43). (4) He had not consented to the plan or the actions of the Sanhedrin against Jesus (Luke 23:51). (5) He was waiting for the kingdom of God (Mark 15:43; Luke 23:51). (6) Though he was a disciple of Jesus, he was a secret disciple because he feared the Jews (John 19:38). (7) Despite his fears, he was bold enough to approach Pilate and ask for the body of Jesus (Matt. 27:58). (8) Pilate ordered the body of Jesus to be given to Joseph (Matt. 27:58). (9) Joseph wrapped Jesus' body in a clean linen cloth (Matt. 27:59). (10) Joseph was assisted by Nicodemus, who brought with him a mixture of myrrh and aloes – about a hundred pounds in weight (John 19:39). (11) The two men together bound Jesus' body in linen wrappings with the spices according to the burial custom of the Jews (John 19:40). (12) They laid Jesus' body in Joseph of Arimathea's own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock (Matt. 27:60) in a garden near the place where Jesus had been crucified (John 19:41). (13) Joseph rolled a large stone against the entrance of the tomb and departed (Matt. 27:60). (14) Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary" – "the mother of Joses" (Mark 15:47) were sitting opposite the grave observing the place where Jesus' body had been placed (Matt. 27:61; Mark 15:47) were sitting opposite the grave observing the place where Jesus' body had been placed (Matt. 27:61; Mark 15:47; Luke 23:55). (15) These women returned and prepared spices and perfumes (Luke 23:56). (16) They rested on the Sabbath according to the commandment (Luke 23:56). (17) Their plan was to come early on the first day of the week, Sunday, to add their own burial touch to what the men had already done (Matt. 28:1; Mark 16:1-2; Luke 24:1; John 20:1).

Isa. 53:9 begins, "His grave was assigned with wicked men ...." Evidently Pilate was prepared to bury Jesus along with common criminals. But that changed when Joseph, a rich man, came requesting permission to bury Jesus. So the second part of Isa. 53:9 reads, "Yet He was with a rich man in His death...." The reason is given in the latter half of the verse, "Because He had done no violence, Nor was there any deceit in His mouth." What a remarkably explicit prophecy that would have been senseless if we had not had the details of His burial that we possess.

According to Matthew, when Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary" came to observe the grave (Matt. 24:1), "a

Luke 24:1 - they came to the tomb: These women included Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary" (Matt. 28:1), elsewhere identified as the mother of James (Mark 16:1), along with Salome (Mark 16:1). The women are not here identified (in Luke 24:1). Only Mary Magdalene is identified in John 20:1.

Luke 24:4 - two men: The word for "men" is the Nominative Masculine Plural of the noun anér (435), denoting man as male, and frequently, as husband. Matthew refers to a single messenger – see Matt. 24:2. Mark refers to a "young man (neaniskos, 3495) sitting at the right, wearing a white robe" (Mark 16:5). Clearly, the messengers from heaven are masculine. There is no known Biblical instance of female messengers or baby messengers from heaven severe earthquake had occurred," for a messenger of the Lord had descended from heaven, and, having come, rolled away the stone and was sitting upon it (Matt. 24:2). The appearance of this messenger was like lightning, and his clothes were as white as snow (Matt. 24:3). Moreover, because of their fear of him, those guarding the tomb were shaken, and were caused to become like dead men (Matt. 24:4). Having responded, moreover, the messenger said to the women, you stop being terrified! for I know that it is Jesus, the One having been crucified, that you are seeking (Matt. 24:5). He is not here, for he was raised, just as He said! Come! See the place where He was lying (Matt. 24:6).

According to John, Mary Magdalene took one look at the stone that had been rolled away from the tomb entrance. Panic-stricken, she assumed the worst and ran to tell Peter and John that someone had removed the body of Jesus, and she didn't know where they had placed him (John 20:1-2). Peter and John raced back to the tomb, inspected the evidence inside, and returned to their own homes without having seen any Divine messengers (John 20:3-10). Meanwhile, Mary, probably out of breath and slower, returned to the tomb and stood outside weeping. She stooped and looked inside and saw two messengers in white, sitting at the head and foot of the tomb (John 20:11-12). They asked her why she was weeping. She replied that someone had taken away her Lord, and she didn't know where they had placed him (John 20:13). She did not appear to be frightened by the messengers. Turning, she saw Jesus, but did not perceive who He was (John 20:14). Jesus asked her why she was weeping. She assumed He was the gardener, and asked Him to tell her where He had put the body, and she would take possession of it (John 20:15). Jesus said, "Mary!" Immediately she knew who He was, and she cried out, "Rabboni!" meaning, literally, "My Rabbi!" or "My Teacher!"

Luke 24:5 - terrified: the Genitive Feminine Plural of the adjective émphobos (1719), "thrown into fear, terrified, affrighted" (OBU). This adjective is used in the NT only in Luke 24:5, 37; Acts 10:4; 24:25; Rev. 11:13.

Luke 24:21 - we were hoping that it was He who was going to redeem Israel: They were looking primarily for political redemption for the nation of Israel. That will, indeed, happen! Luke 24:33 - and found gathered together the eleven and those who were with them: For practical purposes, the rest of the book of Luke concerns Jesus' interactions with the eleven and those who were with them, including the two disciples who had traveled to Emmaus and, after recognizing Jesus, had immediately returned to Jerusalem.

  - D 1 His assigning them to proclaim repentance: {47} and that repentance<sup>517</sup> 24:47a
  - D 2 The purpose of the repentance: for forgiveness of sins 518 24:47b

Luke 24:44 - Law, Prophets, Psalms: These were from the three divisions of their Scriptures, the Law, the Prophets, and the Writings. The predictions concerning Him from the three divisions of Scripture of necessity had to be fulfilled literally! This is Jesus' great "shot across the bows" against the horrible practice of non-literalism, so evident among today's "Christian" scholars, whether Protestant or Roman Catholic!

&lt;sup>517</sup> Luke 24:47 - repentance: the Accusative Feminine Singular of the noun metánoia (3341), "change of mind" – here, "change of mind about the true identity and significance of Jesus."

Luke 24:47 - for forgiveness of sins: An accurate understanding of Jesus' identity as Messiah and His work on the cross leads to forgiveness of sins. "Forgiveness" is the Accusative Feminine Singular of the noun áphesis (859), "forgiveness, release, remission" (Accordance). "Sins" is the Genitive Feminine Plural of the noun hamartía (266), "a missing of the mark, a wandering from the path of rightness and uprightness, a wandering from the law of God" (adapted from OBU).

- D 3 The proclamation of the repentance: would be proclaimed 519 24:47c
- D 4 The sphere of the proclamation: in His name <sup>520</sup> 24:47d
- D 5 The extent of the proclamation: to all the nations, <sup>521</sup> 24:47e
- D 6 The beginning of the proclamation: beginning from Jerusalem. 522 24:47f
- D 7 The importance of the Apostles' role: {48} You are witnesses <sup>523</sup> of these things. 24:48
- D 8 Jesus promise of power 24:49
  - E 1 He would send on them that which His Father had promised: {49} And behold, I am sending forth the promise of My Father upon you; 524
  - E 2 They were to stay in the city until they were clothed with

Luke 24:47 - would be proclaimed: the Aorist Passive Infinitive of the verb kērússō (2784), "to publish, proclaim openly, preach" (adapted / excerpted from OBU and Accordance). For example, in the NT this verb is used of John the Immerser (Matt. 3:1; Mark 1:4, 7; Luke 3:3; Acts 10:37); Jesus (Matt. 4:17, 23; 9:35; 11:1; Mark 1:14, 38, 39; Luke 4:18, 19, 44; 8:1); the twelve Apostles (Matt. 10:5-7; Mark 3:14; 6:7, 12; 16:15; Luke 9:1-2; 24:47; Acts 10:42); Philip (Acts 8:5); Saul / Paul (Acts 9:20; 20:25; 28:31; 1 Cor. 1:23; 9:27; 15:11; 2 Cor. 1:19; 4:5; Gal. 2:2; 1 Thess. 2:9). The Good News of the Kingdom will yet be proclaimed in the whole world among all nations (Matt. 24:14; 26:13; Mark 13:10; 16:15; Luke 24:47; 1 Tim. 3:16).

Luke 24:47 - in His name: The sphere of this mandated proclamation that was to be made by the witnesses of His resurrection was to be made in the Messiah's name – the name of Jesus, the Christ. Jesus means "Yahweh Is Salvation," and the name of the Messiah, the Anointed King, was to be specifically identified as "Yahweh Is Salvation!"

Luke 24:47 - to all the nations: This proclamation was not to be limited to Jewish people. It was to begin in Jerusalem, to be sure, but it was to spread throughout the entire world – "unto all the nations" tà éthnē, the Accusative Neuter Plural of the noun éthnos (1484), "nations, peoples, Gentiles" (adapted from Accordance).

&lt;sup>522</sup> Luke 24:47 - beginning from Jerusalem: The proclamation of the Good News about Jesus was, by design, first to the Jewish people, but then, also to the Greeks (Gentiles) (Romans 1:16).

Luke 24:48 - you are witnesses of these things: "Witnesses" is the Nominative Masculine Plural of the noun mártus (3144), "a witness 1. in a legal sense 2. in an historical sense a. one who is a spectator of anything, e.g., of a contest 3. in an ethical sense a. those who, after His example, have proved the strength and genuineness of their faith by undergoing a violent death" (adapted from OBU). This same noun will be repeated in the pivotal verse of Acts, Acts 1:8.

Luke 24:49 - And behold, I am sending forth the promise of My Father upon you: This promise was the promised Holy Spirit. Luke's Gospel does not give much closing information about the promised Holy Spirit, but John's does. Key information in Jesus' revelation concerning the Holy Spirit is contained in the following passages in John's Gospel: John 14:16-17, 25-26; 15:26-27; 16:5-15. Luke's closing information about the Holy Spirit is contained in Luke 24:49 and amplified in Acts 1:1-5. Information about Jesus' relation to the Holy Spirit is also revealed by John the Immerser in Matt. 3:11-17; Mark 1:7-11; Luke 3:15-17, 21-22; John 1:24-34. Additional information about the Holy Spirit in other contexts is given in Acts 2:1-21, 37-42; 8:14-24; 11:1-18; Romans 8:9; 1 Cor. 6:19-20; 12:1-13; Galatians 5:16-26; Eph. 1:13; 3:5; 4:30; 5:18-21; Titus 3:5; Heb. 2:4; 1 Pet. 1:12.

&quot;You are clothed" is the 2nd Person Plural Aorist Middle Subjunctive of the verb endúō (1746), "to wear, put on" (Accordance); "... to put on, clothe oneself" (excerpted from OBU). The Aorist tense indicates that this clothing with power from on high would be a sudden action at a point in time, not a long-drawn-out process. This clothing with power of the Holy Spirit took place a few days later as recorded in Acts 2:1-4; "with power" is the Accusative Feminine Singular of the noun dúnamis (1411), "strength, power, ability" (OBU); "power, strength, capability" (excerpted from Accordance); "from on high" is the Genitive Neuter Singular of the noun húpsos (5311), "height" (Accordance); "height ... of place, heaven" (excerpted from OBU).

Luke 24:50 - He led them out as far as Bethany: Bethany is about one mile due East of the Southern wall of Jerusalem. It was, momentarily, to be the site of Jesus' ascension (Luke 24:51). It is near the site of the Mount of Olives, to which Jesus will return in great power and glory and military conquest at His Second Coming (Zech. 14:1-

<sup>528</sup> Luke 24:51 - and was carried up into heaven: Literally, "and was being borne up into the heaven," wherein "was being borne up" is the 3rd Singular Imperfect Passive Indicative of the verb anaphérō (399), "to carry or bring up, to lead up" (excerpted from OBU);

"into the heaven," wherein "into" is the preposition eis (1519), which, with the Accusative case, as here, means "into" or "to;" and "the heaven," the Accusative Masculine Singular of the noun ouranón (3772), preceded by the Accusative Masculine Singular of the article ho, "the heaven," here meaning the Third Heaven, the abode of God.

The first heaven is the heaven in which birds fly. The second heaven is the heaven in which stars and galaxies navigate. The third heaven is the abode of God.

The gathered disciples saw Jesus being continually and perceptibly borne up by an unseen force into the physical heavens, the abode of the birds until He was so high he could no longer be seen. But He was continually being carried up into the third heaven, the home of God. Thus the term "the heaven" as opposed to the frequent, "the heavens."
